Former Board Members Speak At Graduation

Two women, both former members of the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education, will be the focus of commencement exercises Wednesday at Elk Grove High School when 477 seniors graduate.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) will be the featured speaker at ceremonies which will be held at 8 p.m. at the high school.

Leah Cummins, of Elk Grove Village who was defeated in a bid for reelection to the board, will be presented with a plaque honoring her service to the high school district by Richard Bachhuber, a former board president and now secretary to the board.

Mrs. Chapman, who has served in the Illinois House of Representatives since 1964, also served on the Dist. 214 board. She lives in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Cummins, who is director of community education for Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59, served on the board for seven years before her election defeat in April.

Valedictorian in the graduation class of 1971 is Ann E. Tobin, 894 Munroe Cir., Des Plaines. She had a grade average of more than 4.9 out of a possible 5.

Officials Warn About Magazine Solicitors

Local authorities have warned businessmen to be on the alert for unscrupulous magazine telephone solicitors who may be in the Elk Grove Village area.

Often times these magazine salesmen give the wrong impression, particularly when it comes to soliciting advertisements for police and fire magazines, they said.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett and Police Chief Harry Jenkins both recalled recent incidents in which their departments have been misrepresented.

Hulett told of a case last week in which a local firm paid $25 for an advertisement in a magazine known as "Today's Firemen."

Hulett charged that the solicitor misrepresented himself as a member of the fire department and hinted that if the businessman would buy an advertisement he would have no trouble passing fire inspections.

HE SAID that the businessman called the fire department, but only after the $25 check had been picked up by a messenger for the magazine. Payment of the check was stopped.

Hulett said the only fund-raising activity firemen have is the firemen's association's annual dance.

Hulett urged businessmen to call him whenever they are solicited for such expenditures.

Jenkins told of an incident in which a magazine salesman gave the impression that members of the police department would benefit if a businessman purchased a $200 advertisement in a police magazine.

Jenkins said none of the local police officers belonged to the organization which reportedly would benefit from the sale.

Elk Grove Seniors Receive Awards

Award winners are: Diane C. Stefanos, activities; Robert R. Emstie and Alan J. Cerny, art; Albert G. Mitsos, boys athletics; Ann E. Tobin, girls' athletics; Christine E. Brinkman, business education; Victoria Murphy, cooperative work training.

Christopher C. Smith, distributive education; Jeanne L. Bradley, diversified occupations; Mary L. Campbell and Corinne M. Reeder, drama; Cynthia M.

Silvana L. Tagliati, home economics occupations; Donna M. Didler, homemaking; Robert M. DeHaven and Lawrence J. Richards, industrial education; Gary S. Proehl, mathematics; William G. DeFotis and David D. Mollenkamp, instrumental music.

Mary L. Campbell and Karen L. Sealy, vocal music; Diane C. Stefanos, orchestra; Michael P. Fordan, boys' school spirit; Kim J. VanBerkum, girls' school spirit; Gary S. Proehl, science; Jeffery C. Skibinski, social studies.

Referendum Drive To End

The campaign for Saturday's Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 tax rate referendum will end this week with meetings in three of the schools.

District officials will be at Dempster Junior High School, 420 W. Dempster St., Mount Prospect, at 8 p.m. today. Wednesday at 8 p.m. they will be at Juliette Low School, 1530 S. Highland, Arlington Heights, and Thursday they will be at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School, 1900 W. Lonquist Blvd., Mount Prospect.

The referendum asks voters to approve a rate increase of 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Voting will be from noon to 7 p.m. in the 10 district polling places.

Last week Jack Roeser of Arlington Heights, who heads the Concerned Taxpayers of Elk Grove Township, said his group will be active in opposing the referendum this week.

The group has not been publicly active until now, Roeser said, because, "It's silly to put out literature before the last week. People in general tend to forget about elections."

AT THE MAY meeting of the board of education when the referendum bid was approved, Roeser said he would actively oppose the increase and charged that the district has made no attempts to economize in the past.

Roeser's group also was active in the campaign to defeat the 1969 Dist. 59 referendum.

School officials say that if the referendum is defeated and the Circuit Court ruling outlawing corporate personal property tax is upheld, the district will have to cut its projected 1971-72 budget by 8 per cent.

Roeser said his group, which has 10 to 15 members from Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, had nothing to do with the leaflets that were distributed at Clearmont School in Elk Grove Village last week.

District officials have feared that the leaflets, which include a reproduction of the school township treasurer's report and a news story on a Circuit Court decision that conflicts with the one which outlawed corporate personal property tax, might be misunderstood by some voters.

The court decision that says corporate personal property tax is legal does not affect the first decision, which was announced in March, district officials said. The conflict over the tax must be resolved by the Illinois Supreme Court.

In addition, the township treasurer's report shows that at the end of June, 1970, the district had a cash balance of more than $1 million. That balance, officials say, only existed for a few days and was then paid out immediately.

Greenhouse, House Destroyed By Blaze

A fire shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday destroyed an abandoned greenhouse and house on west Higgins Road in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve, Elk Grove Township.

The blaze, seen for several miles, was extinguished by the Elk Grove Village Fire Department with the assistance of the Hoffman Estates Fire Department.

The buildings were due for demolition in conjunction with the acquisition of right-of-way for the widening of Higgins Road (Ill. Rte. 72) and the purchase of the property by the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

GREG SPENCER, a 13-year-old Chicago boy was wounded last summer in a South Side gang fight. An innocent bystander, he was left paralyzed from the neck down. He needs a respirator to breathe and is learning to live a new life. For his story, turn to Page 4 in today's Herald.

Schaumburg Park District To Keep Part Of Elk Grove

The northwest portion of Elk Grove Village, west of Rte. 53, apparently will remain under the jurisdiction of the Schaumburg Park District.

The Elk Grove Park Board sent a letter to the Schaumburg Park Board asking for a meeting to discuss transfer of the land, largely farm acreage, but the request was turned down by Schaumburg Park Board members.

"It is our feeling that such a move, at this time, would not be to the advantage of Schaumburg Park District," Park Pres. Robert F. Bock said recently.

HE SAID THAT ON two other occasions the Schaumburg Park system has disconnected land as an accommodation to the Hanover Park Park District.

Bock said that before giving up additional land the park district would "have to take a long hard look" at any such proposal.

He also acknowledged that development in the area in question would most probably take place in phase two of the Schaumburg Park District master plan for development to begin soon.

The section involved consists of a portion of the 1100 acres west of Rte. 53 and is planned for development by Centex Corp.

"It is merely the desire of the Elk Grove Park Board to sit down with Schaumburg and talk about this section," said Elk Grove Park Director Jack Claes.

"If the area winds up with single-family residences which are within the boundaries of Elk Grove but served by another park district it would tend to become very confusing for the people living there," he added.

Board To Consider Budget Tonight

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees will consider approval of a $2.6 million operating budget for 1971-72, at today's meeting of the board at 8 p.m. in the village hall. The budget is 14 per cent higher than for 1970-71.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Twee-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

Thunderstorms and tornado warnings racked the Midwest over the weekend, bringing generally cooler weather and a greater chance of showers to the area. Lows in the 60's are expected with highs during the day in the high 80's and 90's.

Temperatures around the nation:

|               | High | Low |
|---------------|------|-----|
| Atlanta       | 91   | 67  |
| Boston        | 72   | 60  |

| San Francisco | 60   | 49  |
| Tampa         | 89   | 75  |
| Washington    | 91   | 67  |

The Market

Stocks were mixed in moderate turnover. Demand for stocks was slowed by new concern about rising interest rates. Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.26 at 923.41. The Standard & Poor's stock index, however, dropped .36 at 101.14. Electronics, generally among the day's widest movers, generally pointed lower.

Crowds Seek Sears Jobs At Woodfield

by NANCY COWGER

"I feel like I've got a 1,000 in one chance," was the comment of a woman from Roselle yesterday as she joined hundreds of persons applying for jobs at the new Sears Roebuck and Co. store at Woodfield Mall, Schaumburg.

Sears began hiring yesterday for what had been announced as 1,000 openings at the store scheduled to open in August or September. Doors opened at 9 a.m., but applicants began lining up at 6 a.m., competing for jobs in sales, offices, management, security and janitorial services.

By the time personnel interviewers had been at their desks for 50 minutes, nearly 300 applicants had been interviewed. Gary Crawford, personnel director for the new store, said more than 500 persons had begun the application process by that time, adding it was a conservative estimate.

THE APPLICANTS came from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Park Ridge, Wilmette, and just about any other suburb on the north and west sides, as well as from Chicago.

Crawford and his staff of 23 interviewers handled the crowd systematically.

Each person is to be notified within two weeks if Sears wishes to interview him further.

Applicants are being admitted to the building between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day, and after 3 p.m. those persons already inside will be processed, Crawford said.

Originally, company representatives said the 1,000 store openings would be filled strictly with new employees, except for top management positions. Yesterday Crawford said more than 250 current employees have applied for transfer to Woodfield, and many requests will be honored.

CRAWFORD in part attributed the mass of people to layoffs in the Chicago area. "I'm sure it has some bearing on it. The number of people that we have here. Certainly the layoffs are a factor," he said.

The only common denominator among the applicants seemed to be that they were looking for work. They ranged in age from 17 to around 60. Some were laid off and looking for new jobs. Some were looking for part-time jobs to either supplement a full-time income or earn pocket change. Some were experienced in sales and management, some in teaching, others in industry and some had no job experience at all. There were teenagers, housewives and businessmen in white shirts and ties.

Some were "nervous" about the great competition for the jobs. Others repeated the comment of one man, "It doesn't bother me. I'm qualified."

One girl was laid off Saturday from a job in Arlington Heights. A Wilmette man had been "out of work just a couple of months." He had sales experience, but said he'd take "whatever they had." Having applied for work elsewhere, he said of the situation at Sears, "it doesn't look good."

Fifth Suspect In Jayne Case Free On Bond

A fifth suspect in the murder of George Jayne was released on bond yesterday after appearing before Judge James M. Bailey in Criminal Court.

Kenneth Hansen, 38, arrested Friday by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The operator of horse stables in rural Will County, Hansen was connected to the murder from a Cook County Grand Jury investigation.

Last week four other suspects in the Jayne murder were bound over to the grand jury after testimony from a state witness, Melvin Adams. Being held in Cook County Jail without bond are Silas Jayne, brother of George; Joseph LaPlaca, an Elgin resident and handyman for Silas; Edwin Nefeld, former head of detectives for the Markham police; and Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer.

Details of Hansen's connection with the murder were not made available at yesterday's hearing, but it's believed his name was included in letters left by George Jayne to be opened "in the event of violent death."

HIS CASE WAS continued until June 14.

Hansen's attorney, Arthur J. O'Donnell, filed a motion to reduce bail based on Hansen's lack of a criminal record.

He told the judge, "This man has no prior record, has never been charged or in jail before."

O'Donnell also charged that Hansen's arrest is a violation of his constitutional right.

Nicholas Motherway, assistant state's attorney, said his office was ready to proceed with the case yesterday, but Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Motherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said Hansen was among more than 100 persons questioned after George Jayne was killed in his Inverness home on Oct. 28, 1970.

Hansen was questioned because of his connection with Silas, but denied any knowledge of the murder, according to Ortiz.

Two Get Probation For Theft Of Tires

Two men pleaded guilty last week to a reduced charge of misdemeanor theft and were sentenced to three years probation by Magistrate George Zimmerman of the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

The men, John Trent, 27, of Chicago, and Dale Spivey, 33, of Lemont, had previously been charged with the Dec. 13, 1970 burglary of $5,000 in tires from a railroad boxcar at a siding at 2300 Arthur Ave., Elk Grove Village.

In addition, Trent was fined $500 and Spivey, $300. A third man, Bobby Lee Reedy, 31, of Chicago, is to appear in Niles Circuit Court July 6.

SUNDAY'S OPEN HOUSE was held at Arlington Park Race Track, Arlington Heights, despite Thursday night's fire in which 33 horses died and $500,000 in damages were caused.

More than 17,000 people attended the open house which included demonstrations, movies and exhibits of various aspects of racing.

Won't Charge Arson Suspects

Officials of the State's Attorney's office recommended yesterday that charges not be placed against two men in connection with the Thursday night fire at Arlington Park Race Track.

Arlington Heights police said they were told by the officials that there was not enough evidence to charge the two men with criminal damage to property and that the case should be dropped.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Racing Board will hear a report on the fire and on living conditions in the backstretch area where the fire was located.

John F. Loomer, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc., owners of Arlington Park, and members of the Arlington Heights police, Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and State Fire Marshal's office are expected to give their versions of the fire.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Maury English said yesterday that he concurs with the opinion of the state's attorney that charges not be made.

"I'm sure of the cause of the fire," English said. "The only thing is we can't prove it. There's not enough evidence to make the charges stick."

Police theorize that the fire, which started in the middle, west side of Barn 5A, a section containing hay and feed, was caused by a discarded cigarette and was not a result of arson, which had first been thought.

Police said the two men in question admitted drinking and smoking in an auto near the area of the barn where the fire started and at about the same time. But they denied throwing any lit cigarettes from the car and they said they didn't know how the fire started.

The racing board has discussed the conditions in the backstretch area in the past, saying that improvements must be made. So far, two fireproof, concrete barns have been built and three others are under construction.

Flags To Be At Half Staff; Services Today For Al Volz

Flags will be at half staff when a motorcycle police escort accompanies the funeral procession tomorrow for Albert F. Volz, "the first citizen of the Northwest suburbs."

The 100-year-old resident of Arlington Heights died Saturday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. He was born in Arlington Heights in 1871, when the village was called Dunton.

A man with a sharp mind, Mr. Volz remained alert and active until the last few months. Until late last year he was seen daily in downtown Arlington Heights when he took his regular walk wearing his trademark, a Stetson hat, and carrying a white cane.

The former mayor of Arlington Heights as well as a state representative will be buried with a Stetson hat in his casket. He adopted the trademark after he visited Denver Colo., in 1935.

Pallbearers for the funeral will include State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights); John Woods, former village president of Arlington Heights; Jack Walsh, present village president; L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager; Virgil Horath, executive director of the Historical Museum of Arlington Heights; and Fred Howe, a relative of Mr. Volz.

VOLZ'S CRYSTAL CLEAR memory was a fund of information about the early years of the village and the area. His reminiscences at various times have included recalling how the village board installed the first public water system in 1903.

Despite the failure of a referendum, the village board, of which Mr. Volz was a member, decided to install the system by using excess tax funds and saloon fees.

The public outcry was tremendous but Mr. Volz said about 60 years later, "No, they didn't like taxes and special assessments any more than they do today — probably a great deal less. But if you have vision and spend the taxpayers' money for the things essential for progress... well, they'll come around."

Mr. Volz has been credited with originating the idea of Northwest Highway and the creation of the Arlington Heights Park District.

Mr. Volz's hard-line political attitude won him every election in which he ran. He was elected to the Arlington Heights Village Board in 1899 and reelected in 1901 and 1903. He was elected mayor of the village in 1907 and reelection in 1913. He also served on the Arlington Heights Board of Education from 1902 through 1914. He served as a state representative, being elected in 1916 and serving until 1922.

MR. VOLZ'S BODY WILL lie in state at the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunton Ave., from noon to 2 p.m. tomorrow. Funeral services will begin at 2 p.m. at the church.

Masonic services will be conducted at 8 p.m. today at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. These services will be conducted by Palatine Lodge 314.

Baseball Backers Are Announced

More than 350 persons attended the Elk Grove Village Boys Baseball annual dinner-dance last week at the Navarone Supper Club.

Commissioner Marc Vormittag took the opportunity to announce and thank the 1971 sponsors of this season's teams.

Twenty organizations and businesses are sponsoring boys baseball teams this year. They are: Aumen and Busse, Inc., Bank of Elk Grove, Beef N' Barrel, Custom Made Bag Co., Elk Grove Bowl, Elk Grove Dairy Queen, Elk Grove Elks, Elk Grove Village Firemen's Assoc., Elk Grove Jaycees, Elk Grove Cocktail Lounge, Hoskin's Chevrolet, Jarosch Bakery, Lindahl Construction, Police Lodge No. 35, Schwinn Sales Inc., Signode Foundation (Chicago), St. Alexis Hospital, T. A. Bolger Realtors, Inc., Village Realty, and Village Standard.

Mrs. Van Meter, Greg's therapist has a special understanding of his problems.

He was rushed by ambulance to Plum Grove Nursing Home.

Greg flew to Palatine by helicopter, while a therapist breathed for him with an ambi-bag.

13-Year-Old Quadraplegic Makes Plum Grove New Home

by BRAD BREKKE

Greg Spencer giggled and pursed his lips. He wasn't used to so much attention.

"How'd you like the helicopter ride Greg?" one nurse would ask.

"Fine," he'd say.

"What do you think of your new home?" another would inquire.

"Fine," he'd giggle.

A shy, bashful 13-year-old kid from the South Side of Chicago, Greg can't speak very loud. The tube in his neck, which lets him breathe, makes it hard.

Greg is a pitiful case. But pity is the last thing he wants. Or needs.

He may never father a family, pitch for the Chicago Cubs or win a gold medal at the Olympics. But he has a life and what he does with that life is up to him.

GREG, YOU SEE, is a quadraplegic. Paralyzed from the neck down, he needs a big machine — a respirator — to keep his lungs going.

Greg is living now at the Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine. He shares a room with three other men, one of whom is a 35-year-old quadraplegic who needs a respirator to breathe, just like Greg.

His story began last July when he was innocently gunned down while sitting along the edge of a swimming pool, during a gang fight at the Stateway Housing Project near his home.

He suffered a bullet wound in his spine, near the base of his skull, which kept him in intensive care at Michael Reese for four months. In October, after the bullet was surgically removed and Greg miraculously lived, he was placed in a rehabilitation ward, where he has been ever since.

Greg has no hope of ever regaining control of his body, but his doctors say he has every hope to lead a productive life.

The boy arrived Tuesday by helicopter at the Sellstrom Manufacturing Co. heliport on Hicks Road in Palatine. An ambulance was waiting for him and after he landed, rushed him through drizzling rain to the Plum Grove Nursing Home.

THE HELICOPTER, donated by the Chicago Fire Department, carried Greg and a physical therapist from Michael Reese to Palatine in about 20 minutes.

(His mother, an aunt and his nurses from the hospital arrived later by car). The therapist was needed to breathe for Greg. Without a respirator, air had to be pumped in and out of his lungs by hand, with what they call an ambi-bag.

The first time Greg tried this, he panicked. But now, after much practice, he has gained enough trust and courage to let someone breathe for him — for short periods — instead of the machine.

Greg's life depends on the respirator. And the respirator is run on electricity.

"We have a generator here that can be used to keep the respirator going if our electricity should ever fail," said Mrs. Jeanette Kramer, the nursing home administrator.

And if the generator should fail, there is always the ambi-bag. But this is unlikely.

Greg's new physical therapist, Mrs. Helen Van Meter, says Greg has every reason to go on living and after he accepts his injury and learns to live with it, a whole new world will open up to him.

A KIND AND compassionate woman, Mrs. Van Meter has an understanding for the special ones, like Greg.

"It's important that Greg determines what he wants to do with his life and he isn't pushed into things he doesn't want to do. All the good intentions in the world won't help. Greg has to decide things for himself now," she said.

Greg's progress will be slow and his nurses must be careful not to give him false hope.

"Rehabilitation is taking one step at a time. There's no rush. It will take him all summer to get used to his new home with us — and for us to get used to him," said Mrs. Kramer.

In September Greg will enroll in school. He won't be able to attend classes, but he'll have a private tutor and will be given homework to do like everybody else.

AT THE NURSING home, Greg will learn to use a bite stick enabling him to write with his mouth, paint, play tic-tac-toe or do his school work.

Greg is one of four children and his mother, Mrs. Bobby Hudson, says she will visit her invalid son often. She and her family moved to a new location on the South Side after the shooting.

Greg used to be big on riding his bike before the accident. But soon he will be scooting through the halls in a custom-made wheelchair, pushed by an aide, in what will now take the place of his Schwinn.

A ward of the state, Greg will receive financial assistance for his care from the Illinois Department of Public Aid.

His nurses from Michael Reese said farewell to him Tuesday. They say they hate to give him up. And in a way, Greg hates to see them go.

But he's beginning a new life here. Hopefully, one he will learn to enjoy.

Nearly everyone gets a few pebbles in his shoes, that pinch his feet now and then.

THE DISCOMFORT is temporary. But for Greg Spencer, 13-year-old quadraplegic, a victim of violence, the pebbles are in his bed sheets.

And they will be there always.

Now he must learn to live with them for the rest of his life. A very long time. Greg says he can do it. A day at a time.

Greg's mother (left) and aunt reassured him he would be visited often in his new home.

Paralyzed from the neck down, Greg must now live a new way of life.

DuBrow On TV

by RICK DuBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV, which erred badly in canceling the Pearl Bailey Show, compounded its mistake during the weekend by offering the new summer variety series that replaces it: a Saturday hour with British performer Val Doonican.

This new program is everything the Bailey show wasn't. Whereas Miss Bailey was a legendary, one-of-a-kind star, Doonican, who seemed personally a nice enough fellow, came across as no better a singer, and no better a performer, than countless entertainers one might run across in ordinary clubs and television shows across the nation.

Whereas Miss Bailey's series was elegant, richly mounted and gave the feel of top-level showbusiness, the Doonican hour seemed to be miserly in every respect — sets, technique, originality and wit. Taped in London, this kind of television show is doing the British reputation no good at all, because summer variety series from England are becoming synonymous with cheapie productions.

Incredible as it may seem, seven writers were credited with having written the Saturday night Doonican show, and one can only wonder how Shakespeare ever managed to compose "Hamlet" all by himself.

Doonican is described by ABC-TV as a "British television and recording star," and if one were ranking video imports on the basis of their magnetism, it would be safe to say he does not have the obvious big-name potential of Engelbert Humperdinck and Tom Jones.

It is, in fact, something of a mystery that ABC-TV, certainly aware of this truth and with all kinds of major talent available, would choose to build an entire summer series around a so-so performer from abroad.

Mrs. Yates Wins Photo Contest

Mrs. Douglas H. Yates of Arlington Heights was the grand prize winner in the "Our Better Half" photo contest. Her prize was a panasonic color TV.

The unique contest was open to women only and sponsored by the Arlington Heights Camera Shop.

Second place winner was Dr. F. Patricia Noecker of Palatine, who won a Kodak instamatic reflex camera.

Mrs. Nora Liu of Arlington Heights, third place, won a Kodak X90 instamatic camera.

Smile saver kits were awarded as a bonus by Herb Tarnow to runners-up. They are Terry L. Coupee; Mrs. S. Anderson; Mrs. Donald Rose; Mrs. Avalon Pitts; Mrs. George Sharp; all of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Sharon Stehmler; Jeanne McKinnon; both of Rolling Meadows; Jean Mahon of Long Grove; Mrs. W. F. Davis of Buffalo Grove; Mrs. Peter Weiler of Mount Prospect.

All entries were color prints. Winning shots are on view in the window of the Arlington Heights Camera Shop, 7 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

With nine high-card points, South has almost a maximum Jacoby Modern weak two-bid. North has just enough to make a forcing two no trump response. He has every intention of passing if South rebids three spades to show a minimum, but South rebids three hearts to show a maximum with something in hearts. This is enough for North to bid spade game.

The game contract is a good one, but the spade finesse is wrong and there is no play for four spades if a heart or club is opened.

When the hand was played in a rubber bridge game in Fort Worth, Texas, the bidding went just this way. West made his normal opening lead of the jack of diamonds.

South won in dummy and studied the hand for some time. He intended to try for a club discard on the third high diamond, but he wondered if he shouldn't play the ace of trumps first. It was just possible that this play might catch a singleton king of trumps or find king-small of trumps or a small singleton in a hand with just two diamonds. It would cost him a trick if the diamonds went three times and the trump finesse was on.

South decided to cash that ace of trumps and it was well that he did so. East did hold a singleton trump and only two diamonds so that without the trump play he would have been able to ruff the third diamond and keep South from getting a club discard.

Nine Communities In Schaumburg Play Program

GHETTO LIFE is studied in "The Brick and the Roses," to be presented June 19-20 in the Schaumburg Festival of Arts. Among the performers, each of whom will play a number of characters, are, Tom Fitzgerald and Mike Catlin. The play uses no props or costuming.

DRAFT BAIT at 40? In "Next," to be presented during the Schaumburg Festival of Arts, Micki Gerstein checks Ron Isaacson's health in a pre-induction physical. The comedy is one of three adult plays to be given.

NEC Studies Personnel Policy

A three-man committee of the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) is working to draw up an area-wide policy on conflict of interest in hiring personnel.

Richard Schlott, the NEC's representative from Arlington Heights Dist. 25, announced Saturday the committee would meet shortly to develop a policy.

He explained the committee would consider the employment of board-related persons, and he said he expected a "hard-nosed" policy to be developed.

Schlott explained the committee had been approved at the May 8 meeting of the NEC governing board, two weeks before the Herald disclosed three members of the High School Dist. 214 board had wives employed in that district.

"Our only specific charge was to consider hiring policies as a general area," Schlott said. Other members of the committee are Clark Robinson, representing Dist. 26, and John Wightman, executive director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO).

On Wednesday, May 26, the Herald revealed that three board members in Dist. 214 — Jack Costello, Joseph Schiffhauer and Jack Matthews — had wives employed in the district as instructional assistants.

Employment of the women in the district is not illegal, according to attorneys for the state and county superintendents and the district.

Allyn Franke, attorney for Dist. 214, reported an Illinois Attorney General's opinion states that, when a district employs a woman, she is hired as an individual and not as part of a husband-wife "team."

Thus, there're no legal grounds to fire the wife of a board member, Franke reported.

The three board members said they did not regard the situation as illegal or unethical, and they said they would not vote on salary matters involving their wives.

Dist. 214 has no policy forbidding such employment. However, Dist. 211, which serves Palatine and Schaumburg Twp., has the following policy: "No relative of a member of the board may be employed by the school."

Harper College in Palatine has a policy which prohibits any relative of a board member from being considered for any teaching, administrative or classified staff position unless all other sources of personnel have been exploited and no other reasonably qualified candidates are available.

Seniors Win Legislative Grants

General Assembly scholarships have been awarded to two area high school seniors by Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

The winners are Barbara Ann Zimmanek, 1409 E. Eastman St., Arlington Heights, a senior at Prospect High School, and Ann Elizabeth Blechl, 239 Hatlen Ave., Mount Prospect, of Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows.

Miss Zimmanek plans to attend Illinois State University at Normal and Miss Blechl will attend the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana.

Alternate winners for a scholarship to a state university other than U of I were Jeanine M. Berbluck, Rolling Meadows, a student at William Fremd High School, and Richard L. Ohle, Mt. Prospect, John Hersey High School.

Alternates for a U of I scholarship were Karen Patricia Johnson, Arlington Heights, of Sacred Heart of Mary, and Philip A. Lambert, Palatine, Palatine High School.

Each member of the General Assembly may award one Scholarship annually to the U of I and one to another state university or junior college of the student's choice. The scholarships cover cost of tuition and some fees.

Schlickman said he received 26 applications for the scholarships from students in 18 public and private schools in the third legislative district.

Winners were selected by a committee, appointed by Schlickman, composed of Edward J. Keegan of Arlington Heights, owner of Key Plumbing and Kitchens; Edward C. Kockelenberg, Arlington Heights, manager of International Finance for Motorola Communications Division; L. Keith Shelton of Palatine, assistant superintendent of High School District 211; Samuel Spitali, Palatine, chairman of the English Department of St. Viator High School; and Fred Valsvil, Prairie View, director of financial aid and placement at William Rainey Harper College.

posal, so it could proceed on budget work.

SHE FURTHER asserted that agreement had been "implicit" in the May 25 discussion.

Finally, she said channels were still open for dialogue between the faculty, administration and board, and the letter accompanying contracts was similar to letters sent out by other institutions.

Here are some of the key points of the package, which board members backed with supporting data from various educational organizations, such as the National Education Assn. (NEA) and the Illinois Junior College Board:

—Each faculty member will receive a 4.5 per cent increase in his present base contract, plus $300.

—Promotion in rank will result in an additional 10 per cent hike.

—A 5 per cent merit payment to top faculty members in the evaluation process.

Actors from nine communities will perform in three one-act plays in An Evening of Plays at 7:30 p.m. June 19 and 7 p.m. June 20 in Schaumburg High School.

The Evening of Plays is one of the events of the Schaumburg Festival of Arts to be held both days at the school. The festival also includes children's productions in a young peoples' theater, a talent contest for teenagers, a music and dance concert, a performance by the Marine Drum and Bugle team from Glenview Naval Air Station and continuous display and sale of the work of more than 50 artists from the surrounding area.

The evening plays, listed as suitable for high school students and adults, are "The Brick and the Rose" by Lewis John Carlino, "The Dumb Waiter" by Harold Pinter and "Next" by Terrence McNally.

"THE BRICK and the Rose" features 10 actors portraying 46 characters by using only their voices and facial expressions. They will be dressed in black and seated on stools, with their scripts before them on music stands.

The play portrays the life of a young man of the slums from his birth in a charity hospital until his death. "This is an honest and brutal play that vividly and accurately shows what ghetto life and narcotics can do to a person," said Raoul Johnson, director. Actors will be Dawn Marie Ewert of Elgin; Mike Catlin of Hoffman Estates; Tom Fitzgerald, Ken Kuttig and William Langbauer of Palatine; Marian Waesche of Rolling Meadows; Sonja Leras and Jim Potter of Schaumburg; Gerakl Konevski of Streamwood and Joseph Kearns of St. Charles.

"The Dumb Waiter" is a moody suspense story of two professional killers waiting in a windowless basement to complete their next assignment. Roger Faherty of Barrington and David Good of Arlington Heights will perform under the direction of Mary Shen Barnidge of Rolling Meadows. All are with Harper Studio Players, Harper Junior College.

THE THIRD play, also directed by Johnson, is a comedy based on the plight of a 40-year-old draftee reporting for his physical, which is conducted by an Amazon-like WAC sergeant. "Next" will be performed by Micki Gerstein of Hoffman Estates and Ronald Isaacson of Streamwood.

Johnson is a professor and technical director at the Chicago Circle Campus, University of Illinois, teaching courses in speech, acting, stagecraft and theater history. He received his Bachelor's degree from Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tenn., and his Master's and Doctor's degrees from the University of Illinois in Urbana. He has designed more than 30 full-length plays and a number of productions for educational television, and played major roles in several productions.

On the production staff for the plays are Margaret Brady, Dawn Marie Ewert and Jeri Matteson, all of Elgin; Miriam Godswon of Harper College; Marian and Rudy Waesche of Rolling Meadows, Bernice Green, Monti and Sonja Leras, Walter McCall, John Niedwiecky and Rich Sipple of Schaumburg, and Bill Montello of Streamwood.

Tickets will cost adults $1.75 and students $1.25. Tickets may be obtained by calling 529-8839.

Liquid Assets Are 13% of Americans' Wealth

by Donald F. Martin, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Liquid assets (savings and checking accounts and U.S. savings bonds) were held by 79 per cent of the U.S. population, according to a survey of Americans' wealth authorized by the Federal Reserve System.

Such assets were relatively stable for all age levels, ranging from a low of 76 per cent for those under 35 to a peak of 81 per cent for those 35 to 44, declining to 78 per cent for those 55-64 and 65 and over.

Liquid asset holdings were frequently small. Thirty per cent had some liquid assets but less than $500, 12 per cent had at least $500 but less than $1,000, 10 per cent had at least $1,000 but less than $2,000, 13 per cent had at least $2,000 but less than $5,000, and the remaining 14 per cent had $5,000 or more.

In all, liquid assets accounted for 13 per cent of the total wealth covered in the survey (as compared with a 27 per cent equity in homes). About two-thirds of all liquid assets were in savings accounts.

Another form of wealth, investment assets, was shared by 31 per cent of all consumer units. These assets included publicly traded stock, marketable securities other than stock, mortgage assets, investment real estate, business investments not managed by the unit, and company savings plans.

Investment assets differed from other major forms of wealth in that holdings were not widely diffused throughout the population. The lower 50 per cent of the income distribution held 16 per cent of the investment assets, as compared with 29 per cent of liquid assets and of home equities. Of the entire population, 86 per cent owned no stock. Eighty per cent of those in the 45-64 age brackets and 89 per cent of those under 35 had no stock investments.

The primary saving objective of Americans is provision for old age, the survey revealed, with 41 per cent of all units naming this goal.

Other leading objectives were provision for emergencies (32%), children's education (29%), purchase of home (18%), and realization of financial independence (11%).

The concern for old age grows with the passage of years. Of those whose 35, only 17 per cent were saving for their retirement years, as compared with a high of 59 per cent in the 55-64 age group.

The size of wealth influenced the concern for old age. Of those whose wealth was under $1,000, only 19 per cent named this as their saving objective. With rising wealth, the concern increases — to 72 per cent for those with wealth between $50,000 and $100,000. Thereafter, it declines to 48 per cent for those with wealth of $500,000 or more.

Pay Dispute Sparks Harper Meeting

by TOM WELLMAN

A dispute over the method of setting faculty salaries for 1971-72 at Harper College flared Thursday night at the college's board meeting.

It began when Martin Ryan, Faculty Senate President, charged the college's board of trustees with a lack of "decency and good faith."

It quietly concluded when board member Jessalyn Nicklas, head of the board's negotiating committee, asserted that the board's decision was not a "unilateral" action.

The dispute followed by seven days the board's approval of a package which will give each teacher, counselor and librarian an average 6.83 per cent increase in cash salaries.

Ryan, speaking at an adjourned meeting of the college's board, charged the amount of money for 1971-72 salaries was not the issue.

RATHER HE was upset because "the board decided to break off negotiations without consulting the faculty committee or attempting to even see if the committee was in agreement with such a move."

On Thursday, May 27, after two months of negotiations, the board approved the salary package. Contracts were then sent to faculty members.

Ryan reported faculty members were returning the signed contracts. He sharply objected to a cover letter with the contracts which indicated failure to return contracts would indicate the faculty member wished to leave Harper.

"That letter has all the scared bravado of a twelve-year-old on the brink of puberty. Why should the board demean itself in this fashion?" asked Ryan.

Ryan then asked a series of questions, including:

—"How can you expect the faculty to look on any future administrative-board-faculty endeavors with anything but a jaundiced eye?"

—"Why, whether it's the president's personal spite or desire for power, or the board's or a combination of both, should you want to harm a college that serves the community so well?"

RYAN DREW sharp applause from the 25 faculty members at the meeting.

Mrs. Nicklas then stressed that the board "welcomed communications" from faculty members, and she responded to Ryan's letter with several main points.

—The college was pressed for time, and that the faculty had been asked in January to begin negotiations. "They began in March, after discussions over what issues were negotiable."

An additional meeting of the two negotiating committees after May 26 would have cut the amount of time for faculty members to return contracts.

—The faculty's offer did not change during a marathon session May 25 — and the college had to act on the existing pro-

Bidding was easy. Just hold your card up long enough and you've bought something.

Salvage Sale Lacks Country Atmosphere

by BRAD BREKKE

The buyer, an old geezer, poked a box of used garden tools with his fingers, then squinted, making the skin around his eyes wrinkle like an accordion.

He mumbled to himself, shifting his weight from one foot to the other, like an IBM robot computing the actual value of the box and how high he should bid.

The auctioneer wouldn't get around to selling that for another 30 minutes, he guessed. So he waited. He had plenty of time. All day, in fact.

"Now what am I bid..."

He sat on a box of waste cans. Unshaven, shoes untied, a beat-up hat pulled down over his ears, he marked time chewing on an old cigar butt, swallowing tobacco juice every once in a while to keep awake.

BUT WHEN IT WAS his turn, he suddenly became alive. He raised his numbered card, keeping a poker face and bid. Then bid again. And again.

"Sold to 97 for five dollars," the auctioneer said.

The man stepped back from the crowd. "Now what am I bid on this broken table top," the auctioneer continued, moving on down the aisle.

If the Public auction at Underwriters Salvage Co., 1400 Busse Road, in Elk Grove Village was anything, it was efficient. It went smooth and fast because an enormous amount of merchandise had to be moved that day.

It was all business and in many ways, it was unlike the typical country auction. For one thing, you could actually understand the auctioneer. He talked slowly. And for another, he didn't pound a gavel to begin or end a sale.

Bidding wasn't as competitive either, and the crowd wasn't jittery. Husbands weren't bickering with their wives, and no one was sweating profusely under a hot sun because it was held in a warehouse.

There just wasn't the excitement of the usual auction.

Items purchased had to be picked up the next day and half the fun of an auction is shutting home with your new treasure to see what it looks like and if it works.

ITEMS WERE SOLD by the piece and by the pallet. And there was everything, from hair spray to bongo drums for sale. The items were in display aisles. Most were damaged to some extent, although some things, such as lamps, appeared in good condition. The rest were smoke damaged, stained, burned or dented.

Buyers registered when they arrived and each received a number, which he held up during bidding. It made it easier for auction officials to keep track of who bought what, for how much.

Bidding was an easy matter. If you were the last fellow to bring your card down, you bought something.

Merchandise for sale had been written off by insurance companies from truck losses — fires and accidents. There were no antiques, just new and used housewares, luggage, metal cabinets, picnic coolers, office supplies, lawn and garden equipment, carpeting and furniture, among others.

Terms of the auction were cash, you buy as is and all sales are final.

The "smart money" cased the warehouse the day before and wrote down what they were interested in by aisle and item number.

WHEN IT CAME time to go down an aisle in which a buyer was interested, he and waited until the auctioneer said it was sold to him.

There was a team of auctioneers working and they sat in a platform on wheels, which two helpers pushed up and down the aisles, while another read off the items to be sold, loud enough for everyone to hear.

There were about 100 buyers. Children were prohibited. So was smoking. And of the 100 or so buyers, some obviously had other than personal reasons for being there.

Small businessmen perhaps or representatives from smaller salvage companies.

After all, what would a fellow do with a palette of women's hair spray, unless he had a harem?

Photos by Bob Strawn

The "smart money" cased the auction and wrote down the things they wanted.

Traffic Officials Push For Implied Consent Law

Five traffic safety leaders joined Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie yesterday in urging swift enactment of an implied consent law for Illinois. Ogilvie declared:

"The fact that Illinois is the only state in the nation without such a law indicates the pressing need to pass the pending legislation."

Joining Ogilvie at a news conference here were:

—Judge Raymond K. Berg, supervising judge of the Traffic Court of Chicago.

—James Slavin, director of the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

—Harry O. Bercher, chairman of the board of International Harvester Co.

—Mrs. Rosine McLemore, vice president of the Illinois Conference of Women Leaders in Traffic Safety, and vice president of national auxiliaries of the AFL-CIO.

—Miss Eleanor Freeman, regional director of the National Association of Women Highway Safety Leaders.

In a joint letter, the five declared, in part: "Certainly we are concerned about the legal rights of the driver arrested for drunken driving. But we are also concerned about the hundreds of innocent people killed or injured each year."

"Their right to life and survival should be considered, too."

Ogilvie noted that there is a possibility that federal highway funds coming to the state could be cut 10 per cent if the state does not live up to its obligations under the federal program. He continued:

"That would be a costly error, but it is even more of an error — and more costly — to permit the slaughter of innocent motorists by drunks.

"Half or more of the fatalities on our highways involve drivers who have been drinking."

Under an implied consent law, drivers' licenses are issued on the premise that drivers will consent to a breath test if stopped on suspicion of drunken driving. Those who refuse the test face suspension of their licenses. Ogilvie continued:

"There is no inherent right to drive a car on public highways, and licensing is a long-established practice."

"The experience elsewhere indicates that Illinois could make a significant improvement in its safety record by the adoption of implied consent."

"In Britain, for example, the authorities report a remarkable drop in the incidence of drunken driving, and a marked change in the attitude of drivers themselves, who either don't drink or find some other way to get home after 'hoisting a few.'"

"A person weighing 160 pounds who has five beers or five one-ounce shots of 80-proof whiskey during an hour may have a good time doing so, but he's bad news at the wheel."

"Legally and otherwise, he is an unfit driver, and there is no excuse for having him on the roads endangering the lives of other people."

"He can drink — or he can drive — but he can't do both without running the strong risk of losing the privilege of driving for three months on the first offense and six months on the second."

Looking it over.

Inexperienced Schaumburg Shows Promise

by KEITH REINHARD
Schaumburg's baseball team couldn't have done a much better job of upholding the meaning of their school's nickname.

The original Saxons spent a good deal of their time on warring expeditions. And until they grew into a major ancient European power, they absorbed a number of setbacks.

Probably the chief difference in Roy Hascup's young diamond entry over the first Saxons is that the Schaumburg group spent virtually all their time on the road and they were somewhat more successful. Comprised entirely of underclassmen, the new Saxons took on a warrior-sized schedule in their inaugural campaign and compiled a respectable 5-11 mark.

"Inexperience was probably the toughest enemy we had to contend with all season," Hascup recounted. "There was some fine talent on this squad but it was largely untested talent. The kids made a lot of mistakes that hurt themselves but it made better ball players of them and they were improving steadily as the season went along."

"I think I'm going to really enjoy coaching this outfit next spring," the mentor chuckled, fully aware of the fact that he'll have the entire group back to work with.

Schaumburg went up against the likes of St. Viator, Lake Park, Barrington and Arlington among others this season. In most cases they weren't afforded the courtesy of a second line opposition pitcher or a reserve lineup to face either. They took their lumps occasionally but by and large they gave the enemy all they could handle. The final statistics show the Saxons outscoring the foe 108-96 over the entire campaign.

If anything, Hascup needs only to bolster the defenses and fill out the pitching staff to move his club right into contention when they join the Mid-Suburban league in 1972.

This year the brunt of the mound load was carried by Ken Gast, a spunky little southpaw who compiled a neat 4-3 record. Gast saw action in nine games all told and twirled 51 innings including an eight-inning stint against the hard-hitting Bronches. He finished up with a solid 2.38 earned run average.

The rest of the hurling staff didn't fare nearly as well but Hascup feels they'll come around by next season. "For a sophomore, Randy Anderson did an exceptional job against varsity competition about every time Blasco slammed out one of his two-three-or four baggers. Larson also paced the team in stolen bases with eight and compiled a nice 15-RBI total.

Hascup also had nice words to say about his leadoff man, Art Abraham, whose .266 batting average belied his value to the team. "Art went to the plate 64 times and reached first base just about half as many times. You can't ask for much more than that," he said.

Abraham also scored 17 times, second only to Blasco in that department.

The other chief threat in the Schaumburg lineup was John Gimmiller, who compiled a .300 average, and fanned only four times in 50 official trips. The rest of the regulars made their contributions as well though. Hascup cited Marty Hjertstedt, Hayes, Hull and Rich Kuchnia.

In addition to having his whole outfit back next year, the Saxons will get two more years of service from Abraham and Kuchnia as well as Anderson and three from Hill. With a year of experience under their belt, and a field to call their own, there's no reason not to figure the Saxons to be some kind of threat in 1972.

Logan Square, upon entering the opening game of the Ninth District Legion Baseball schedule, with a perfect 2-0 non-league record, was pushed to the hill by Coral Sea before sliding by, 8-7.

Coral Sea, the circuit's newest entry, battered Lion southpaw Ken Martin for six runs while building a 7-4 advantage, but Logan Square sophomore Tom Chapman laid down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt in the top of the seventh to provide the margin of victory.

The season-opening slugfest was highlighted by a pair of Lion homers — a two-run shot by Steve Smith in the third and another by Mike Pettenuzzo with a man on in the sixth.

Terry Smith, with two and two thirds innings of one-run relief, was credited with the triumph after Logan Square staged their thrilling rally in the final frame.

The victors raced off to a short-lived 1-0 lead in the first inning when Martin led off with a walk, moved to second on Mike Garbus' sacrifice, advanced to third on an infield out and crossed on Steve Smith's infield hit.

Coral Sea retaliated in their half of the first when two errors and three hits opened the doors for a two-run spurge. The hosts added another in the second on a two-out triple and a single to left.

The Lions crept ahead in the third, 4-3, on a Martin triple, Garbus' first of two hits, a fielder's choice and Steve Smith's tremendous drive to left that wiped the bases clean.

Martin was hammered for two singles and a double in the Coral Sea fifth before being replaced by Terry Smith who was greeted with a triple.

The Lions gained a 7-7 deadlock in the sixth on Pete Cavallaro's second double of the contest, a fielder's choice on which Cavallaro scored and Pettenuzzo's round-tripper to left.

With the stage now set, Chapman dumped his pressure-packed bunt allowing Joe Bombicino to tally from third in the top of the seventh.

Smith pitched out of a jam in Coral Sea's final trip by getting the final out when a runner overslid third.

(Last in a series of reviews of varsity baseball seasons at schools in the Herald circulation area.)

and I'm positive he's going to get tougher with age. Dave Hill held his own too, and he's just a freshman."

The other moundsmen, Mike Sharp, Steve Hull and Glenn Hayes, just didn't get enough work to really come into their own the mentor contended.

The offensive story was quite a bit different. Sparked by John Blasco, Saxon bats boomed out enough hits to forge a .278 average — respectable in any league.

Blasco was a devastating hitting attack all by himself. The burly junior powered out more extra base hits (14) than he did singles and drove in an average of two tallies per game. That latter feat added up to 32 RBIs (three more were taken away from him by a disputed call), one of the best efforts ever posted in the Paddeck area. He hit .542!

Blasco wasn't the only potent offensive threat. In fact, a good deal of the credit for his record run production was due to the fact that Jeff Larson batted right in front of him.

Jeff finished up with a healthy .415 batting tempo and seemed to be on base just

Safe Boating Quiz

Q. According to the Rules of the Road, which boat has the right-of-way, A or B?

A. Neither. When boats are approaching head-on, both should give way by turning to the right and then resuming course so that they pass each other with ample clearance. Boat safety experts warn against playing "chicken" unless you want to wind up in the soup.

Maine-Northfield Report

Semmerling Fence Martin & Marby Realtors, and White-Crown Ford were opening day winners in Maine-Northfield Little League's senior division.

Semmerling opened the senior season by defeating Golf Mill Bank 6 to 4. Winning pitcher was George Kaufman, who also had two singles. Mike Kartine had two singles and Tom Kneuber doubled in two runs for the Fenwick. Mike Dolenz collected two singles for the Bankers, and other singles were delivered by Wally Pinaas, Steve Jacobs, Harold Mash and Rickey Pellegrini.

Martin & Marby Realtors' 7 to 5 victory over Gas Light Club came behind excellent pitching by Robby Marcus, who struck out 12. Ed Radowski helped at the plate with two doubles and Danny Kass had one double.

Billy Harrison was the winning pitcher for White-Crown Ford as they edged Yorktown-Sermonia 5 to 4. Harrison also scored two runs. Pat Bucaro's two singles drove in the tying and winning runs and Terry Malecki singled for the winners. Danny Radloff doubled for the losers and Steve Stein's single gave them fleeting hope when they took a temporary lead with the runs batted in on his single.

Pellegrini topped Johnson Sporting Goods in another meeting 8 to 3. John Maly was the winning pitcher and also picked up a pair of singles, as did Kevin Maly and Sam Halpin. George Sutphen had a double and Dwayne Cooper blasted two doubles and a single. Jeff Berenson, who struck out for the first time in eight games homered for Johnson's and Jamie Humenski and Bob Machun each doubled.

Berenson also homered, doubled and drove in three runs for the Spartans as they fell to VIP Studios 5 to 4. The VIP's winning pitcher, Cary Field, struck out 12 and had three RBIs. The other two runs were driven in by Rick Wilson.

The Sportsmen's Humenski struck out 12 before being relieved by Machun in the fifth. He also singled and doubled for the losers and Jerry Mendrella tripled.

In another outing, DeVille Plumbing defeated VIP Studios 7 to 2. Mike Stone struck out 11 and was the winning pitcher. He also belted a home run as did Ralph Menotti and Alan Marcus. Menotti and Bob Pacholski doubled and Russ Karlins had two singles. Paul Bartolotta doubled for the losers. DeVille had another victory for the week when they downed Shore American Motors 4 to 3.

Bob Twicki was the winning pitcher and doubled. Mike Stone collected another home run. For the Americans, Alan Goldstein tripled in a run and Gary Cornache and Steve Goranson each had an RBI.

Not out of the first half race yet, is the Flying Frenchman Restaurant and Mission & White Construction. The Frenchmen shut out Glenbrook Insurance 2 to 0 with Murray Shore and Nick Tremont on the mound. The loser's pitcher also was strong with 18 of the flyers fanning. Mark Mail of the Flying Frenchman had two singles and Jim Dolenz had one for Glenbrook.

Mission & White edged the House of Schiller 19 to 18 with Mark Reninger credited with the win. The game was won in an extra inning when Stuart De Graff tripled with bases loaded. Dave Glenback also tripled for the winners and Dave Panico and James Burke each doubled. For the losers, Brad Wilner had a home run, two triples and a singles, and had 2 RBIs. Jeff Rappaport tripled in a run and singles by Randy Mark drove in three and by Phillip Barish, one. Three runs were driven in by Jeff Epstein, Joel Lent and Morgan Fishery.

Perkins Homer Sinks Wheeling

Collegian Jim Perkins celebrated his return to the Mount Prospect Legion baseball lineup Sunday with a game-winning solo homer in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Perkins' shot to left-center broke a 5-5 standoff between visiting Wheeling and host Prospect in the opener of the Ninth District schedule for both clubs.

Mount Prospect hurler Ryan Maly picked up the 6-5 distance triumph by limiting Wheeling to seven hits, walking four and fanning nine.

The visitors threatened to blow the game open in the very first frame as Tony Fricano, Dean Sheridan, Glenn Jarzembowski and Keith McGowan all rapped singles during a three-run outburst.

The victors, however, countered with a four-run assault in the bottom of the third to grab the lead. Bob Kasper, Dave Harbach and Gus Esposito all contributed hits for the first run while Dennis Tite and Maly each followed with RBI singles of their own. Kent Koentopp pushed the go-ahead tally across with a sacrifice fly.

Prospect added another in the fourth as Mike Tolzien walked, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and across on Harbach's sacrifice drive.

A defensive lapse by the hosts in the fifth enabled Wheeling to draw even at 5-5. The typing rally began when Ken Morales and Fricano each reached on a boot. Maly uncorked a wild pitch allowing Fricano to score while the third missal to the inning brought Morales around.

A couple of game-saving catches in centerfield by Tite kept Prospect in the game and set the stage for Perkins' decisive blast.

Terry Moriarty went the route for Wheeling, but was tagged with the loss despite only walking a pair and fanning five.

Three Wins For Palatine Legion

Palatine always seems to come up with strong American Legion baseball teams, and this year's may be one of the best yet.

Coach Bob Brybash, in his third season at the helm, has players from three schools, including several from Conant for the first time. As usual, the squad also includes members from Palatine and Fremd High Schools. Fremd was Mid-Suburban League champion and Conant South Division champs of the MSL.

The team looks as good on the playing field as it does on paper. It opened the season last weekend by winning three of four games.

Left-hander Rick Peeke, undefeated for Fremd this past spring, just missed a no-hitter in the opener in smothering Northbrook 1-0 on the losers' field. Only an infield hit in the seventh inning prevented Peeke from the zero-hit circle.

Peeke struckout 11 and walked just two in his gem. He had to pitch out of a tough jam in the seventh when there were runners on second and third with one out, after the lone hit, an error and sacrifice bunt.

Palatine had scored the only run in the first inning on an error after two walks.

Post 690 made it two in a row at Wilmette Saturday with a 5-2 victory in eight innings. Steve Kellett was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Bill Arkus, who pitched five strong innings.

Arkus was just as valuable with hit bat, driving in the winning run with a bloop single with the bases loaded in the eighth. Rich Gawron, like Arkus a Conant product, followed with a two-run single to ice it.

Bill Cheney of Fremd had blasted a solo home run in the third.

Kellett had gotten out of a precarious spot in the fifth when he entered with the potential winning run on second.

Palatine returned to its home field at Fremd Sunday and split a doubleheader with Glenview, losing 5-0 before winning 8-4.

The homesteaders managed just five hits in the first game, two of them by Arkus. Palatine High's Steve Garoute took the loss despite pitching a fine game. Garoute gave up five hits and two earned runs in five innings.

Mark Wicklund, a fine hurler from Fremd, worked the last two innings in his first appearance after suffering an ankle injury.

Palatine had a pair of four-run innings in the nightcap which was cut to five innings by rain. Bob Sander of Palatine pitched the distance with seven strikeouts, three walks and five hits yielded.

In the first inning Bob Bain bashed a double, Dave Hauswirth singled, Arkus walked, Gawron boomed a triple and also scored when the relay got past third.

There was a similar explosion in the fifth to snap a 4-4 deadlock. Bruce Eberle singled, Wally Wiener doubled, Bain and Hauswirth walked, Arkus doubled and Gawron singled.

Wiener, a Conant grad who blasted three home runs in one game for Harper College this spring, will play non-league games but is not eligible for league contests.

Grybash is loaded with pitching, having seven capable hurlers. Peeke and Wicklund are the cream of the crop. Also available are Arkus, Garoute, Sander, Kellett and Randy Jones.

Other regulars will be Mike Honel at first base, Bain and Cheney at second, Arkus at shortstop, Gawron at third, Hauswirth in center field, Peeke in left, Andy Knutek in right, Jones as an additional outfielder and Rich Gallas and Eberle catching.

The Way to Guard Against Hepatitis

Sanitation Is Most Important

Hepatitis is a disease which can make the patient seriously and miserably ill — and it sometimes hangs on for months.

Health authorities are concerned, because it has been on a sharp upward course here. In 1967, San Francisco had 754 reported cases, as compared to 147 in 1962.

What's the story behind this prostrating sickness?

Here is a report on the most up-to-date information on its causes, effects, and treatment.

Q—What is hepatitis?

A—An inflammation of the liver, resulting from infection by one of a very small group of closely related viruses. There are two main types. One, caused by the ingestion of contaminated food or water, is called infectious hepatitis. The other, transmitted by puncturing the skin with contaminated material or instruments like those used in blood transfusions, is called serum hepatitis. Recent studies indicate the latter may be communicable by mouth.

Q—What is the virus like?

A—Many of the characteristics are unknown, since scientific study has been very difficult. Chimpanzees are the only laboratory animals which can be infected for the purpose of laboratory studies, and it is not easy to grow the virus outside of living hosts. Most of the studies have been done on prison volunteers.

Q—What does the virus do to the liver?

A—Liver cells may be damaged or even destroyed. They become unable to carry out one of the important liver functions — the excretion of a yellowish substance called bilirubin into the bile. The bilirubin then accumulates in the blood, and gives the victim a yellowish skin, yellowed eyes, light colored stools and dark urine. This is called jaundice, and is the most characteristic symptom of hepatitis. In addition, excretion of other body wastes is impaired, and their accumulation in the body will lead to nausea, diarrhea, fever and weakness.

Q—What is the incubation period after infection?

A—This depends on what virus is involved. In infectious hepatitis, symptoms appear within two to four weeks. The incubation period for serum hepatitis is longer — six weeks to six months, although it is usually two to four months. But if the infectious variety is transmitted by blood transfusion, the incubation period remains two to four weeks.

Q—What are the symptoms?

A—The onset is usually acute, with fever, a sensation of chilliness, aches in muscles and joints and a mild sore throat. Then the patient becomes weak, and gastrointestinal symptoms develop: nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, liver tenderness. The most important symptom is loss of appetite.

Smokers often lose the desire to smoke. In a few days the fever may subside and jaundice is noted. Loss of appetite persists, and discomfort in the right upper part of the abdomen may occur. The patient becomes sleepy and listless. There may be itching of the skin.

Q—What happens next?

A—Often when jaundice appears, appetite may return but weakness will persist. As improvement occurs, liver tenderness will disappear. Jaundice may last as long as six weeks, but there are marked variations in its duration.

Q—How does the doctor make the diagnosis?

A—The symptoms are usually characteristic. Physical examination will show jaundice and an enlarged, tender liver, but not much else. Laboratory studies will confirm the jaundice by measuring the amount bilirubin in the blood. Since the liver cells are damaged, enzymes are released into the blood stream, and the level of these, too, can be measured. Rarely, when diagnosis is obscure, a liver biopsy is done — that is, a tiny amount of tissue is taken from the liver for microscopic examination. However, this is not usually necessary in the acute stage.

tion exists and the hepatitis is severe, there is a high incidence of premature delivery, fetal death and post-delivery hemorrhage.

Q—How is hepatitis treated?

A—There is no magic cure. Physical inactivity has been the basic feature of treatment, but Army studies in young men have shown that complete bed rest, as opposed to rest not in bed, makes little difference. During the acute phase, when the patient is ill and has fever, bed rest is desirable. If nausea and vomiting are severe, intravenous feedings may be given, and certain medicines can suppress the vomiting, but there are no drugs to act specifically against the virus. An adequate high-protein diet is desirable in the acute phase. Fat may be included in the diet if it is tolerated, but should be avoided if it does not digest well.

Q—Can hepatitis be prevented if exposure occurs?

A—Injections of gamma globulin, if given early enough after exposure, will reduce the severity of infectious hepatitis. Gamma globulin is much less effective against the serum variety.

Q—Should travelers to foreign countries receive gamma globulin?

A—The U.S. Public Health Service has no definite rule. In any event, such prophylaxis is effective for six weeks at most. Most travelers visit areas where water and food are safe, and therefore do not need this protection.

Q—Can a person die of hepatitis?

A—Recovery is complete in most cases — 90 to 95 per cent. A few patients develop chronic hepatitis, and some progress to cirrhosis of the liver. Rarely, when the infection is extremely severe, death results. This is seen in older patients, particularly postmenopausal women and those with existing liver disease.

Q—Can you have hepatitis without jaundice?

A—Recent studies have shown that many persons, particularly after transfusions, have a mild hepatitis without jaundice. This is particularly true in children.

Q—What about hepatitis in pregnancy?

Questions & Answers For Family Health

As a Public Service, The Herald offers its readers these answers to many common questions people have about health and medicine. All material has been approved by The Illinois Medical Association and The California Medical Association.

Viruses Cause The Infection

Q—How long is the patient infectious?

A—Unfortunately, he is infectious before he has any symptoms; thus, he can expose others before anyone realizes he has the disease. He is infectious during the time he is jaundiced, as well, but how long infectivity lasts after jaundice disappears is not fully known. Some people become carriers after they have recovered from hepatitis. This is why the Blood Bank will not accept donors with a history of jaundice.

Q—Why is hepatitis becoming more prevalent?

A—Probably a variety of reasons; one, certainly, is the use of drugs given by injection without proper sterilization, as among the Hippies. Poor living conditions, malnutrition and nonexistent sanitation in the same group have also contributed. Wherever there is crowding or poor sanitation, hepatitis may spread. Twenty-two cases of the disease were attributed to substandard living conditions on an Indian reservation in Nebraska. However, poor living conditions are not alone responsible. Several Michigan residents became ill when septic tanks overflowed and polluted well water. In a Mississippi town a number of persons suffered hepatitis after eating oysters gathered in contaminated waters.

Q—Are there some basic rules to follow in order to guard against hepatitis?

A—The Medical Association recommends the following steps:

1. Enforce strict sanitation. Train children to wash their hands thoroughly after going to the toilet.
2. Your home should be connected to an effective sewer system or a properly built and maintained septic tank.
3. If you are traveling in an area where sanitary conditions are poor, be careful of what you eat and drink.

Q—If someone in the family seems to have hepatitis, is it necessary to call the doctor?

A—Most certainly. A physician should be seen at the first sign of the illness, and his instructions should be followed carefully. If the patient doesn't cooperate, he may have a serious relapse or he may develop chronic liver trouble.

Q—What precautions should be taken in the home by the hepatitis patient's family?

A—The patient's dishes should be disposable, or boiled after they are used. Other members of the family should not use his soap.

IMPORTANT: If you have further questions, consult your own physician.

Voter Approval Of Townships?

The casualty rate of worthwhile bills before the slow-moving 1971 Illinois General Assembly is bound to go up as the lawmakers stumble through their last month in Springfield.

It is especially tragic that many of the casualties will be measures that would have enhanced and strengthened the state's all-important 1970 constitution.

Undoubtedly, among the bills that will be allowed to wither and die is a proposal which would give Illinois citizens the means to end that archaic, creaky form of government at the township level.

Entitled the "Township Government Termination Act," the measure would incorporate into the new constitution the option for local referendum to discontinue the operation of township governing units. A petition signed by 5 per cent of the registered voters in the township would authorize the referendum during any primary or general election.

Under the bill, voter approval of the referendum would turn over township assets, powers and responsibilities to the county.

The bill's principal sponsor, Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, apparently is hoping to hold down opposition from Republican lawmakers who, in the past, have crushed a number of more blatant efforts to simply eliminate township government. It is likely he and seven other Democratic co-sponsors, including State Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, are calling on their GOP counterparts to back up often-heard demands to give voters at the local level as much power as possible.

Certainly, the measure would serve that end. Currently, Illinois law stipulates a township government can only be eliminated by county-wide referendum. Though this theoretically makes termination possible, in a county as large as Cook, the likelihood of even getting such a referendum before the voters is more than remote.

We find it difficult to believe Republican lawmakers could conscientiously oppose any measure that would place more power with voters at the grass-roots level. But we are also aware the Republican party, especially in Cook County, has a heavy political investment in township government. The township in this suburban area provides the only firm political base for the GOP.

Unfortunately, Republicans are not likely to look kindly on any proposal that would make it less cumbersome for anyone — even the voter — to loosen their grip on township government.

It is an unhappy prospect that political interests will overshadow the value of a bill that truly is in keeping with the democratic process. The measure must be regarded as a reasonable compromise between those who fight to eliminate township government and those who struggle to strengthen it.

We long have been among the advocates calling for an end to the "horse and buggy" government characterizing township administrations. We still hold that position.

Nevertheless, we probably would find the continuation of township government more palatable if it were based on the desires of the voters, rather than those of political leaders and elected officials.

Virtually everyone occupying a position of power has had a say on the subject. It seems to us the average citizen — the guy paying for township government — deserves his.

California Pulls In Welcome Mat

Years before the 1970 census officially confirmed the fact, California claimed to have dethroned New York as the most populous state in the Union.

Since then, neither earthquakes, smog, perennial brushfires and mud slides nor hard times in the aerospace industry have significantly slowed the continuing westward movement of Americans to the Golden State.

Now, however, the gold is beginning to tarnish — not for newcomers but for those already there.

"We've come to the realization that growth for growth's sake is no longer desirable," says Victor Calvo, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara County, one of the fastest-growing areas in the nation.

In recent months, local citizens groups have rebelled against new commercial and industrial developments, including what had been billed as "the largest shopping center in northern California" and a new jetport. An anti-population-growth group placed newspaper advertisements urging prospective immigrants to stay away.

Santa Clara County is not unique. A survey conducted by Prof. Judith Blake Davis, chairman of the Department of Demography at the Berkeley campus of the University of California, found that millions of Californians are now willing to support policies that would slow or end migration into the state. These range from reducing welfare to stopping publicity boosting California all the way to outright restrictions.

Some 80 per cent of white California citizens believe that population growth is a paramount factor in environmental problems. Non-whites are only slightly less concerned; 77 per cent of them put environmental problems in first and second place. The survey suggests that population control policy may be less a taboo issue than politicians have traditionally feared, says Dr. Davis.

And that has far-reaching implications not only for California but for all of the United States.

Let Bleepers Do Driving

by DOROTHY MEYER

I may be the only suburban matron in the whole world who doesn't drive. Although I have a learner's permit (my ninth), I'm almost sure I'll let this one expire, too. If we had a station wagon I KNOW I'd never drive because suburban matrons with a station wagon full of kids are a blight on the face of the earth. So are young drivers, old drivers, middle-aged drivers and long hairs.

I know all this for a fact because single suburban girls in sports cars, middle-aged drivers, young drivers, old drivers and short hairs have told me so.

One of my brothers says, "Show me a rotten driver and I'll show you a guy who drives a Dodge, smokes a pipe and wears a cap," and my other brother contends that bald, cigar-smoking Cadillac drivers are the true maledroids. My brother-in-law always hated red-headed, gum-chewing Chevy drivers, and blond bearded guys wearing horn-rimmed glasses who drive blue Volkswagens are the bane of Wally's vehicular existence.

Once I knew a bald Cadillac owner who smoked cigars and said my brothers were the worst drivers he ever saw.

Brother Bud isn't a bad driver in the sense that he's dangerous; he just gets lost easy. (As chauffeur of the flower car he once led a funeral procession to the wrong cemetery.) He also doesn't know east from west or north from south, so his wife made him a map that had "right," "left," "down," and "up" on it instead of the compass directions. It would have worked okay, but his wife says he never did know which way was up.

I'm as stupid as my brother about directions (I even get lost in buildings) and Wally never goes to the same place twice by the same route so I can't even memorize the way to get somewhere. Of course, Wally relies on landmarks a lot and when a big old barn or a double-trunked poplar blows down, he sometimes gets lost, too. The only difference between his getting lost and my getting lost is that I admit it.

Another thing that worries me about driving is that I'll never remember where I parked the car in a big parking lot. Tying a little red ball on the aerial won't work; in the first place, everybody else is doing it and in the second place I'm so nearsighted I wouldn't see a little red ball until it poked me in the eye. Wally says it'll have to be a bed sheet up a flag pole on the roof of the car. He exaggerates.

If I ever passed the "identify the rotten driver" test, the "which way is up" test and the "find your car in the parking lot" test, I'd probably flunk the language test. Through my years as a passenger, I've noted that hollering the right thing at the right time is very important.

I know that when somebody dawdles in a 60 mile an hour zone you're supposed to yell, "Drive it or park it, chowder-head," and when they forget to use their turn signals it's, "Hey stupid, your directionals ain't just for decoration," and horn blowers get, "Too bad your brains don't work as good as your horn, dum dum."

But I can never remember the right thing to shout at lane straddlers or when you're supposed to yell, "Who the hell taught you to drive, the little old lady from Pasadena?" I think it's the all-purpose yell that goes, "Hey you bleep bleep, why don't you bleep your bleep," but I can't remember if women drivers can say that, except if they're cab drivers.

One advantage to being a non-driver was that I never had to lug my kids all over town, they walked, took a bike or stayed home. Now they're grown up and have their own cars, so I guess I'll have to learn to drive. They're getting tired of lugging me all over town.

SALT Pact Won't Halt Arms Race

by RAY CROMLEY

If President Nixon is able to reach an arms agreement with Moscow of the type his advisers now think most likely, it will not eliminate the armaments race. Nor is it likely to change the intensity of the race.

The way it appears now, there will be no U. S. - Soviet agreement against MIRV (the missiles with a bevy of independently targeted warheads), or on ballistic missile submarines, fractionally orbiting missiles, long-range bombers or smaller ICBMs. There will perhaps be a limit on ABM sites and on the number of certain intercontinental missiles, such as the Soviet SS-9s.

News Focus

It would not be difficult to make such a limited agreement ineffectual.

For limiting the number of a major intercontinental ballistic missile (such as the SS-9) can be an exercise in futility.

Say, for example, the limit is set at 300 SS-9s, a number talked about in some back-room sessions. This sounds excellent. Three hundred SS-9s, with one warhead each, obviously can't effectively endanger a force of 1,000 or so U. S. Minutemen, even in a Russian first strike.

The Russians, of course, can put three warheads in each missile, or later, as many as six. Though six warheads each for 300 SS-9s would produce 1,800 warheads, at the present level of Soviet technical know-how, the accuracy and yield (power) of these 1,800 warheads would not likely knock out sufficient numbers of Minutemen to make this missile force unable to retaliate effectively against the Soviet Union.

But Russia is now pushing ahead full tilt at stepping up the explosive power that can be developed from small warheads. And she is working toward major increases in accuracy.

If the Soviet Union continues to pour in research funds at an increasing pace on these two objectives, it will not be many years before 300 SS-9s could be equipped with 1,800 warheads with the accuracy and yield required to seriously threaten the effectiveness of the U. S. Minuteman forces.

Of course, the United States will not be standing still. Anticipating these Russian advances, this country will build harder and even yet harder Minuteman silos, develop mobile ICBMs and push the further development of ballistic missile submarines, not now expected to be included in the first SALT agreement.

The disarmament argument runs that if you can't have an over-all arms agreement, then take one step. This reasoning is sound, if each step leads toward a cut-back or a real ceiling.

But the type of agreement now being talked about may merely divert the arms race from one road to another.

This is the same problem the United States was faced with when Washington cut back on crop acreage in order to hold down some types of farm production. A slew of farmers merely applied more technology and actually increased their output on smaller acreages of land.

The Germans after World War I, prohibited from building naval ships above a specified size, developed the powerful "pocket" battleship.

Nevertheless, after all this has been said, an agreement of the type described above may be well worth going after. What's needed to get an effective arms agreement is some sort of experience. And experience can best be gotten by trying one road after another. This is not overly dangerous if the U. S. strategists keep their wits about them. And if they learn as they go.

Timely Quotes

"It's always nice to get top billing, even in a Republican propaganda sheet."

— Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., on the assessment by the Republican National Committee that he is the current favorite for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

"We're dealing with a very serious problem. I don't have the right to go in a car impaired and kill your daughter, and you don't have the right to do this to my daughter." — Prof. Ernest L. Stewart of Arizona State University, who teaches a course aimed at shaping up drunken drivers.

"Style is beginning to find itself. A woman wants to look like a woman, not a man." — Louis Stulberg, president of the National Ladies Garment Workers Union, on the current fashion confusion.

Police Praise For Carnival

The May 21, 1971, article, "Rigid Standards Set for Carnivals" was an injustice to many of the communities mentioned but I will respond only wherein Elk Grove Village is concerned.

The Village ordinance requires inspections by both the fire and police departments and these inspections are conducted on a daily basis — from the time the carnival arrives until they move out. The health officer for the Village also makes inspections prior to and during the selling of food on the carnival site.

That we have never had to close down a ride or food concession does not mean we do not make the inspections. It means that Elk Grove — particularly the Jaycees, who sponsor the annual event — retail the same clean operation year after year.

On occasions, when an unsavory concession operator attaches himself to the carnival, our close inspections have exposed the crooked "game of skill" and the booth is closed immediately. Unsafe rides? No accidents in the history of Elk Grove Village.

The Jaycees will sponsor their thirteenth carnival in Elk Grove beginning June 13th. I will take the liberty of inviting Mary Reifschneider to be present when the rides are unloaded and set in operation. I will also invite her to interview the man who owns Russell's Amusements and learn what cleanliness and safety mean to a man whose livelihood depends on a complaint free — not just accident free — operation.

Outdoor Recreation

I do want to express my appreciation for your editorial support of our Scenic Rivers Bill. I enjoyed your editorial (May 11) and can assure you we shall continue a vigorous land acquisition program to bring our state up to a national standard of outdoor recreation opportunities for all of our citizens.

We do have a number of other exciting programs in our Department which should help meet the new challenges we face in the 70's.

Opposition To Aid

Concerned Illinois voters want facts and an opportunity to express opinions on state aid to nonpublic schools.

In their eagerness to "ram" the legislation through the General Assembly, 26 proposed amendments and all efforts to submit the question to the voters.

Answers to one of the questions in "Operation Feedback," a recent United Republican Fund survey of 11,000 Republicans, suggest that not all GOP legislators are aware of grass roots opinion, since 67 per cent of the respondent supposed nonpublic school aid.

The Christian Science Monitor (May 12) carried an item pointing out that not all private schools need help. According to the writer, day schools are flourishing, while some private boarding schools and small parochial schools are suffering due to a leveling in the number of students. Why should taxpayers subsidize schools which no longer attract enough students to make efficient use of their funds?

The same item reports that last November a Wisconsin Commission on Education appointed by the governor suggested that the cost of absorbing private school pupils into public schools would be about the same as providing support for nonpublic schools. This would tend to discount the immense projected taxpayer savings predicted by parochial proponents. The Commission recommended that the state loan funds to public schools experiencing sharp enrollment increases resulting from private school closings.

The Monitor item quotes a Columbia University educator who explains that substantial nonpublic school aid may tempt others to open private schools "leading to spiraling costs for multiple school systems."

A mid-May report by Americans United for Separation of Church and State shows that 10 states including Indiana and Missouri have rejected nonpublic school aid for the current legislative session. At least four states are involved in court tests. Most of the remaining states are experiencing legislative battles.

It's time that our representative government really represented!

Business Today

by RUDY CERNKOVIC
UPI Business Writer

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Rising business costs have put the lights out in many major supper clubs around the country in the last 10 years. Salaries for top performers have skyrocketed. So have other operational costs.

San Francisco, which had three "name" clubs a few years ago, now has only one. Baltimore has none. Cleveland, which had three, now has only a large cocktail lounge. Chicago, a swinging town when the Loop was active, now has only a few major supper clubs.

Even New York has fallen on hard times when it comes to attracting top names at its clubs. They appear at the Waldorf's Empire Room, the Plaza's Persian Room, the Americana's Royal Box and the Copa.

ONE CLUB — The Holiday House in Monroeville, 12 miles from downtown Pittsburgh — has managed to survive through the flexible management of John Bertera.

Bertera says his formula for coping with rising costs is simple. Recognize them and plan accordingly.

"First, give the customer value," he said, "and then negotiate with the acts. Figure on your budget how many people will go through your doors."

"If I gross $70,000 then my net profit is $6,000. If the gross runs to $80,000, the last $10,000 is virtually clear profit."

Bertera also shifted gears in the type of clientele. He now seeks family business with a Sunday show with dinner at 6 p.m. and entertainment at 7 p.m.

"IN 1959 WE LEARNED something when we booked the Three Stooges for two afternoon shows and an early evening show for the kids. They loved it. We featured hamburgers and cokes at $1 and the house was jammed."

Another gimmick to beat rising costs is ethnic booking.

Pittsburgh has many ethnic groups which will request certain performers. Some groups book several months in advance to make sure of reservations.

"Italians have asked for Vic Damone and Pat Cooper," said Bertera, "and we were booked real good when they appeared."

Secretary Of State Boosts Dollar

by GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers embarked on a two day round of discussions today ranging from the health of the U. S. dollar through the Middle East to U. S.-Japanese relations.

Rogers, fresh from a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Lisbon, flew to Paris Sunday primarily to chair a meeting of over 20 of the world's richest nations, grouped in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD.)

Rogers had more on his program than discussions of immediate financial, economic and monetary problems upsetting relations between the world's leading trading nations.

The Middle East, China and Southeast Asia were among the major topics he covered with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann at a foreign ministry dinner a few hours after his arrival, according to State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey.

Rogers arrived at the foreign ministry straight from a 40-minute briefing by Donald C. Bergus, the chief U. S. diplomatic representative in Cairo. Bergus, said in reports from Cairo to be carrying a personal message from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to President Nixon, stopped off specially in Paris to talk to Rogers.

There was speculation in Cairo that negotiations may be underway again toward reopening the Suez Canal, blocked to shipping since the six-day war four years ago.

After opening the annual ministerial meeting of the OECD, Rogers was calling at the Elysee Presidential Palace for a meeting with President Georges Pompidou.

McCloskey said the meeting had been requested by Rogers and would be "in some respects a courtesy call."

During his stay Rogers also was to confer with Japanese foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi on U. S. - Japanese relations in general, and on the return of Okinawa to Japan in particular.

Aichi was reported in Tokyo to be carrying a draft of the Okinawa agreement which was set for signing June 17 in Washington.

Cock Robin Notes 40 Years In Ice Cream Business

Ice cream innovations have characterized the history of the Cock Robin company, now celebrating its 40th anniversary.

The Cock Robin Ice Cream Co. was founded in 1931 as a chain of five ice cream stores in Chicago's western suburbs. Parking lots were provided, an innovation in food merchandising. Since then, the company has grown to an organization of 21 stores and five plants. Its work force numbers 350 to 400 persons, varying with the season.

The stores ring Chicago on the north as far as Skokie and west as far as Naperville, the home of Cock Robin headquarters. A local outlet is in Arlington Heights.

The inventive duo responsible for this success combined talents in merchandising and engineering to bring such innovations to the ice cream retailing industry as prefabricated buildings, open freezer cabinets, the multi-mixer (to mix five milkshakes at once), the square dipper, the square ice cream container and a malt dispenser. Founder of the company is Walter S. Fredenhagen Sr., who previously operated a chain of wholesale ice cream stores. He was joined by Earl Prince who was interested in a similar venture farther west of Chicago. They agreed on separate territories, and pooled their ideas and talents.

Sharing the Prince name, they each built a chain of stores called Prince Castle Ice Cream Castles. The ice cream shops resembled miniature castles. As the chains grew, second generation members of the Fredenhagen and Prince families joined the business.

The two companies shared the Prince Castle name until 1955, when Fredenhagen renamed his firm the Cock Robin Ice Cream Co. He phased out the castle image and adopted a new system of self service. Although the signs and packaging were changed, the ownership and formulas for the products remained the same.

W. S. Ted Fredenhagen Jr. is now president and general manager of Cock Robin. His brother-in-law Tony Castagnoli is secretary-treasurer and manager of production.

The Cock Robin production facilities now include five plants. Ice cream, hamburgers, cream and sauces are prepared in three Naperville plants. Maintenance and prefabrication equipment operations are based in Downers Grove. A fifth processing plant is located in Marysville, Wash.

New Automatic Hoist

The Allied-Kelite Products Division of The Richardson Co. in Des Plaines, has introduced a new programmed automatic hoist designed to transport barrels or racks through a series of tanks for cleaning, electroplating, phosphating or metal finishing processes.

Called the AK 1000 Programmed Hoist, the electronic programmer design features solid state circuitry to increase reliability. The programmer completely automates hoist operation and utilizes integrated circuits mounted on plug-in modules. It can be programmed for use in multi-tank operations with up to 32 stations.

The programmer memory contains a retentive, nondestructive, read-only, sequence memory. If the AK 1000 Hoist is shut down for any reason or for any length of time, memory circuitry will assure return to the proper automatic sequence.

The AK 1000 uses a soft start motor for horizontal travel. This unique feature provides smooth motor starting and stopping and eliminates rack sway.

The system replaces conventional shear pins with a torque limiter sprocket to prevent motor burn-out, shaft bending, or a major break-up resulting from overload or foreign matter contamination.

The AK 1000 may be operated manually in addition to the fully automatic and semi-automatic modes. Monitor lights on the control panel continuously display the status of the hoist in the program sequence.

Allied-Kelite is a leading manufacturer of chemical compositions for industrial cleaning and metals treating.

In addition to specialty chemicals, The Richardson Company has interest in engineered industrial materials and parts, plastics, graphic arts materials, consulting and environmental engineering services.

No Interest Rate Increase Is Predicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — "About the most optimistic projection at the moment is that investment planning should allow for interest rates approximating present levels for the remainder of the year," W. E. Hutton & Co. says. The company says the money market is much more "volatile and emotional" than in the past and is affecting the stock market. "Thus, for the present... be less aggressive as related to making investment decisions in the stock market until the dust settles," Hutton advises.

The recent upward trend in interest rates, Newirth Management & Research Corp. says, has caused "considerable investor apprehension since an excessive price for money could readily abort the economic recovery while also resulting in lower price earnings ratios overall." The firm does not expect any "significant rebound" until the domestic monetary picture brightens — despite the market's oversold condition.

"The rebound in the bond yields is a major factor affecting the stock market at this time," the Argus Research Corp. believes. The company says the earnings yield on the Standard & Poor's Industrials is at an all-time low relative to the high-quality new corporate bonds. "Even after allowance is made for significant rise in corporate profits, the ratio is far lower than previously experienced," Argus says.

"The market is not acting badly," according to E. F. Hutton & Co. The firm says with selling dried up and the urge to buy falling off, the fact that "considerable price erosion" has not occurred "may be constructive." Hutton also notes that many individual issues have displayed selective strength.

ucts Division of the Richardson Company, the hoist features solid state circuitry for increased reliability, and can be programmed for use in multi-tank operations with up to 32 stations.

Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) As a result of a fire, I have to leave my apartment and live in a motel for several months. My insurance company reimbursed a portion of my living expenses for this period. Is this reimbursement taxable?

A) That portion of the reimbursement covering the normal living expenses such as rent and meals you would have incurred had the fire not taken place is taxable. The insurance payments covering the additional living expenses caused by the loss of your residence due to fire are not taxable. The living expenses reimbursement will not reduce any casualty loss you may be entitled to deduct on your tax return.

Q) For more information, see Publication 547 "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts." It's available free from any IRS office.

Q) Instead of making an estimated tax declaration, can I just increase my withholding?

A) Yes, you may increase withholding to avoid making an estimated tax declaration. To determine the amount of additional withholding needed, use the worksheet that came with the estimated tax package. Make sure your balance due on Form 1040 for 1971 will be less than $40. If you did not get an estimated forms package, the 1040ES worksheet may be obtained at your local IRS office.

Q) My son is planning to deposit his earnings from a summer job in the bank in order to pay for college. Do I count these earnings when I figure his total support to see if I can claim him as a dependent?

A) If your son keeps his earnings in the bank for the year, his earnings are not counted as support for that year. If he saves but also spends the money on support items such as education, this year, then these funds have to be taken into account in computing his total support and his contribution to that support for 1971.

To meet the support test, you must provide over one-half the cost of providing your son's total support including food, shelter, clothing, medical and dental care. Educational expenses are also included.

Q) While cleaning out my desk drawer, I found a copy of an old tax return of mine and noticed a deduction I neglected to take. Is it too late to correct the mistake?

A) You can correct an error by filing an amended return, Form 1040X. It must be filed within three years from the date your original return was filed, or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. If you filed your original return early, the three-year rule applies from the due date for that year.

Con Ed Says Thermal Flow Safe

Lake Michigan has not been harmed by thermal discharges from a power generating station in Waukegan, according to Commonwealth Edison Co., owner of the 48-year-old electrical plant.

J. Harris Ward, chairman of Con-Ed, said the company has nearly completed the largest investigation of thermal effects ever made on an inland body of water. Purpose of the study is to see if thermal discharges will pollute a large body of water.

Con-Ed has two power plants on the lake: the old station at Waukegan and a new nuclear power plant at Zion.

The studies are being conducted for Con-Ed by Industrial Bio Test Laboratories, Inc., of Northbrook, in consultation with scientists and ecologists at several universities. The study is a follow-up to research begun by Con-Ed at the two sites in 1968.

Lawrence P. Beer, manager of Bio-Test's environmental science division, said the studies will provide necessary data to preserve the lake.

He said the studies include thermal effects on algae growth, fish life and oxygen; documentation of effects on inshore water quality; and the recording of lake currents, water temperatures and meteorology.

Field surveys of the lake's fish population and plant life are regularly made and a laboratory has been set up at the Waukegan station to facilitate research.

In all, 60 biologists, chemists, physiologists, oceanographers and others have participated in the study.

THE RACERS came zooming through the turns like fighter pilots swooping down from the sun. The heat and the shimmering mirage puddles on the asphalt roadway

Cyclists Zoom By Like Diving Planes

by JAMES VESELY

The riders hunched over their handlebars and leaned into the turn like fighter pilots swooping down out of the sun.

The bicycles made clicking, ticking sounds as they passed the curve and their tires sang on the asphalt roadway. The drivers changed gears and drove on into the straightaway.

Each man was bent over his spinning wheels the same way. Each rider looked ahead through the shimmering heat and suddenly, they were gone beyond another curve.

Sunday, in the desolate, empty streets of the Centex Industrial Park of Elk Grove Village, the Windy City Wheelmen staged a bicycle race for bicycle racers and their sleek, professional machines.

THIS WAS NOT a casual Sunday afternoon spin in the park. The cyclists participating in the grueling 54-mile senior race of the day had come from all parts of the country. In lap after lap around Centex they would pit their machines, their legs and their stamina against one another.

It was a hard, tough race not meant for pot-bellied, flabby men with cigarette smoke in their lungs. These riders, even when they stand idly next to their machines, seem woven together from steel cable. They are tan from the sun and taut from mile after pedaled mile. Usually they are lanky men who straddle their racing bikes and then take flight with a few turns of the pedal.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday the men in the big 54-mile event had 20 laps yet to go on the Centex criterium. All motor traffic had been barred from the asphalt roads of the industrial park and officials stood at roadway intersections to guide the bikers through the winding course.

IT WAS LIKE a frying pan set on a high burner that afternoon. The wind blew through the industrial park with a demon's breath and the empty forlorn buildings gave the whole place the look of a ghost town.

But to some of the men, Centex was a slice of a cyclist's heaven.

"It's beautiful here," one official said, taking in the emptiness and the blistering heat.

"The heat toughens them and the asphalt roadway is good. There's no traffic here and they can concentrate on the race."

The pack of riders zipped by him on their endless circle. A young man in a star-spangled T-shirt was in the lead. As he rode, he reached back and took a deep swallow from a plastic canteen, never stopping the rhythm of this pumping, never taking his eyes from the shining road.

When the racers passed, the official pointed out one of the men and said, "that's Bobby Phillips from Maryland. He was a top army racer and he travels all around the country to races like this one. Johnson from St. Louis is here, too. He's plenty good."

Near the finish line families and friends of the riders sat and waited patiently in the intense heat. Men and women waited for the bikes and riders to make another circuit. As the men passed, breathing heavily in the humid air, the crowd and the officials urged them on from their rows of folding chairs.

"Come on, Bill," they shouted. "Step up the pace . . . keep going . . . keep going."

THE RIDER DID not look up from his love affair with the pavement. He drove on and passed out of sight in the distance behind a factory wall.

One cyclist sat changing his shoes next to his spindly vehicle. "Blew a tire," he explained. "I'm out of this one." He said he came up from Indiana for this race and would go home empty handed with a blown tire to boot.

"You get dehydrated out there pretty fast," the racing man said. He was squinty eyed and tired but each time the racers came by he would lift his eyes and follow their journey.

The Indiana man said he took his machine to the Old Town criterium last week and drove his bike with the others through the streets and through Lincoln Park.

"That one was a lot more challenging than this," he said, "but the purists like this Centex track because nothing gets in the way between a man, his racer and the road."

The pack of racers were nearing the end of their lap and the official in the Schwinn cap shouted that they had 18 more laps to go.

Eighteen more laps. A thousand turns of the pedals, gearing down and up on the criterium. Driving on in the dreadful heat.

As they passed the starting line yet again that afternoon you could see them, bunched up and driving on. At the far end of the course they splashed through a mirage puddle on the road, a trick of the eye caused by shimmering heat and reflections from the blue sky all around them. Driving on.

Crane Invites Businessmen To Parley

Northwest suburban businessmen have been invited to a Business Development Conference from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Friday, June 25, at the Holiday Inn of Elk Grove Village, 1000 Busse Road.

Elmhurst Summer Registration Set

Registration for Elmhurst College's seventh annual summer session will be held Thursday and Friday of this week in Hammerschmidt Chapel, 190 Prospect in Elmhurst.

The eight week session at the private college will be held June 14 through August 6. Enrollment for any of the 127 classes scheduled for the 27 major areas of study will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday. On Friday, persons may register from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Additional information regarding the college's summer program can be obtained by calling Robert Swords, director of the summer session office, at 279-4100 extension 364.

The conference has been arranged by Rep. Philip M. Crane (R-13th), in cooperation with the United States Department of Commerce and several local chambers of commerce.

Representatives of five government agencies will speak at the conference. Michael V. Simon, chief of the Domestic Trade Division in the Chicago field office of the Department of Commerce, will explain how the department may aid individual businesses. Lorne S. Kuffel, small business specialist of the Defense Contract Administration, will discuss contracting opportunities with the Department of Defense.

Discussing programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be George J. Vavoulis, regional administrator for HUD. Benjamin M. Copenhagen, regional director of business affairs, for the General Services Administration in Chicago, will explain selling to his agency. The deputy director of the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development, Donald L. Schilke, will explain the operations of that department.

Rep. Philip Crane

Crane will address the participants at a luncheon after the conference.

The Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce will host the conference, cosponsored by chambers of commerce of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling.

Persons wishing to attend should contact James R. Gibson, executive secretary of the Elk Grove Village association.

THE WINNER, Tom Garrity of Chicago

Area Bikers Win In Elk Grove Race

Several Northwest suburban youths finished high Sunday in the Windy City Wheelmen bicycle races in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village.

They were Robert Vehe of Mount Prospect, second place, Steve Pedersen of Prospect Heights, third place, Tony Winder of Des Plaines, fourth place, Rex Gilmore of Elk Grove Village, seventh place, Bryan Kilfoy of Arlington Heights, ninth place.

They participated in the 18-mile race won by Wayne Stetina of Indianapolis, Ind., in 44 minutes 13 seconds.

Tom Garrity, 24, of Chicago, won the 30-lap 54-mile race in two hours, 11 minutes, and three seconds.

In the one-mile race for eight to 10 year olds, Michael Kilfoy of Mount Prospect placed fourth.

Dear Dorothy: I love cole slaw but can't get my husband to even taste it. He's a nut on nutrition but when I point out it's a fine source of vitamin C, he says he'll get his vitamin C from other foods. Hate to just make it for myself. Anything I can add to it to get him interested? — Ann C.

Once a man makes up his mind . . . anyway, why not try giving it to him in some other dish? Once hooked, he may come around. Try a cabbage molded salad. Pour 1 cup hot water over 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add ¾ cup more water, 1 tablespoon horseradish and 1 tablespoon vinegar with a dash of hot pepper sauce. Chill until thickened and stir in 3 cups chopped cabbage, 1 diced green pepper, and any other vegetables you both like. Pour into a salad mold and chill until set. Unmold and serve with any favorite salad dressing.

Dear Dorothy: I'm suddenly concerned about the flea powder I'm using on our dogs. As our pets are part of the family and are in close contact with our children, my worry is whether there might be any DDT or derivative of DDT in the chemicals contained in the flea powder — carbaryl, captan, methylenebis, chlorophenol and dichlorophene. —Mrs. R. A. Schroeder

Stop worrying. DDT or any derivative would have to be listed in the contents. The chemicals you mention have no connection with DDT.

Dear Dorothy: Here's an idea for tired African violets or any other house plants: Once a month 1 water all my plants with a teaspoon of Epsom salts in a quart of warm water. Not only is this an inexpensive procedure, but you would be amazed at how beautiful all my plants look. —Ruth McDonald.

Mrs. Betty Hemauer

Contests Are Her Hobby

by GENIE CAMPBELL

When it comes to entering contests, Mrs. Alfred Hemauer of Palatine knows what she's doing. Her systematized method makes luck look like a big joke.

Since winning a two-week trip to Europe last July from Kraft Foods, an event which fully initiated her home career, Betty Hemauer estimates that she has won one out of every two contests she has entered.

Sometimes the prizes are nothing more than a record album, baseball mitt, clock radio or stuffed animal. But with eight kids in the family ranging in age from 1 to 18 the prizes always have at least one taker.

And then there are the big prizes the whole family can share, like the color television set Mrs. Hemauer recently won and the combined stereo-phonograph-console she is waiting to have delivered.

"FOR A WHILE my kids used to come home from school and say, 'Gee Mom, what did you win today?'"

Mrs. Hemauer is always on the lookout for a new contest to enter. It has become a hobby. She cuts entry blanks from magazines and picks up others while shopping at the grocery stores.

Cigarette companies are now a great source, she maintains. Many, since not being able to advertise on television, offer contests instead, as inducements to use their products.

While most people only send in one or two entries, Mrs. Hemauer may submit anywhere from 100 to 300 depending upon how large the stakes are.

For most of the contests in which she has to send only her name and address, the Palatine housewife mails at least one entry a day per contest with a dozen or so mailed the final two days prior to each deadline.

"I ALWAYS MAIL my entries in big envelopes and address them in bright red ink," she said in revealing a couple secrets of her success. "I don't know why, but I feel that helps."

"People always think they have to buy the products to be eligible to enter a contest," she continued, "but for most of them you don't. It is only necessary to write the name of the product on a blank sheet of paper and mail it in with your name and address."

However, Mrs. Hemauer admits that repeatedly writing one brand name has a psychological effect and she usually buys those items with which she is currently engaged in contests.

RECENTLY MRS. Hemauer won a year's supply of milk from a Palatine 7-Eleven Food Store which celebrated its grand opening. That, she admits, was pure luck. She only entered once.

But for the most part, where national contests are concerned and thousands of entries mailed, Mrs. Hemauer feels that there is not that much luck involved.

Presently she is waiting to hear from six companies whose contests just ended.

She has 275 entries tied up in a Salem contest with a cash top prize of $25,000.

If she wins first place in the one sponsored by Peter Pan, she will receive a 1971 Gremlin for herself and bicycles for every member of her family.

FOR THE CONTEST offered by Kent, whose deadline just passed, Mrs. Hemauer paged through a dictionary to find all the words that could be made from the four words, "Kent Micronite Filter Cigarettes." She ended up with 9,148.

"That was too much work," she said, "and I probably wouldn't do it again." If she wins, Mrs. Hemauer will receive a free trip to London and $500.

She had to guess how many Dial products would fit into one station wagon for the "Win a Dodge Full of Dial" Contest. To cover herself, Mrs. Hemauer mailed in a wide range of possible answers.

Entering so many contests so many times adds up to a lot of stamps.

"THE PRICE IS worth it," she said although the recent two-cent increase may have some bearing on the number of entries.

With people like Mrs. Hemauer in the contest league, there is little room left for the casual entry.

When asked if she was aware of the Land O' Lakes contest offering a free trip to Hawaii, Mrs. Hemauer immediately answered, "Oh, yes. I already have 100 entries in that one."

Next On The Agenda

DELTA PILOTS' WIVES

Moon Rockets To Sunflowers

"A Trip Into the Universe," the flower show given by the Garden Club of Mount Prospect last Thursday and Friday, filled the rooms of the Mount Prospect Community Center with everything from moon rockets to sunflowers.

A striking yellow and black table designed by Mrs. Jerome Thelander of Mount Prospect won the first of two creativity awards. Her entry was a popular favorite.

Mrs. Archie Lingle of Des Plaines was the second creativity award winner. She won her ribbon for an interpretation of "Marian Stopover," an arrangement that featured driftwood and dried mullein.

Two awards of merits were given in the horticultural competition. Mrs. Melner Mischnick's tall bearded iris and Mrs. Emmett Boyles' bonsai took the prizes. Both women are from Mount Prospect.

SOMETHING NEW — the arboreal award, given for an outstanding tree branch specimen — was won by Mrs. Russell Moore of Arlington Heights.

Last year garden club members were each given a columbine plant to nurture. Mrs. Jerome Thelander won a blue ribbon and an orchid plant for the results of growing the columbine special club project.

The Junior achievement award was won by Penny Lohse of Mount Prospect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lohse. Worth of mention was the entry of Helen Boyles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Boyles of Mount Prospect, which won a second place ribbon. It was a well-received entry in the "Milky Way" luncheon exhibit.

APPRECIATION AWARDS went to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kurent of Mount Prospect for their collection of 24 varieties of bearded iris. He first grade classes of Mrs. Stoll and Mrs. Liston of Sunset Park School, Mount Prospect, also received recognition for their sunflower and bean seedling exhibits.

Mrs. David Toeppen, of the garden club, collected natural fertilizers, bug repellants, mulches, reading material, bird houses and predators, including a critter "Hi, I'm Toadey, the Toad," for a special exhibit on organic gardening.

Mrs. Emil Fick of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Vincent Kurent each won five blue ribbons in horticulture. Other blue ribbon winners in that category were: Mrs. C. Alcoe, Mrs. Emmett Boyles, Mrs. Guy Courtney, Mrs. Ronald Farina, Mrs. Robert Frey, Mrs. E. Honemann, Mrs. Arthur Jaehne, Mrs. L. K. Laird, Mrs. Meinert Mischnick, Mrs. Jerome Thelander, Mrs. David Toeppen, Mrs. William Turner and Mrs. A. Werhane, all of Mount Prospect; Mrs. Ronald Good, Mrs. Russell Moore, both of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Wallace Berth, Buffalo Grove; and Mrs. Victor Eichler, Dixon, Ill.

AMONG THE UNUSUAL plant material exhibited were indigo, a home-grown anthurium, and dragon's tongue.

Additional blue ribbons were awarded for artistic design. They went to Mrs. Guy Courtney, Mrs. Arthur Jaehne and Mrs. David Toeppen. Mrs. Emil Fick received two blue ribbons for artistic achievement. The women are all club members. Mrs. Wallace Berth, Mrs. Frederick Grant and Mrs. Werner Haack, all of the Buffalo Grove Garden Club, shared honors for their entry.

'Spangled Girl' Lights Up

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The intimate Country Club Theatre turns on to color and laughter when the stage illuminates with "The Star Spangled Girl."

Neil Simon comedies are generally a safe bet for a thoroughly enjoyable evening of entertainment. Under the direction of Norman Rice, The Country Club Theatre rendition of the three-act play appropriately lives-up to Simon's reputation of successes.

Particularly effective and responsible for much of the enjoyment and frivolity of the comedy is expert role casting.

Harmon Dresner, Bob Behling and Judy Jonassen appear together in the "Star Spangled Girl," a modern situational comedy about two young idealists who attempt to make their mark in the world through combining talents in publishing a protest magazine, Fallout.

HARMON IS Norman Cornell, the pen behind the magazine. His partner and promoter of the magazine is Andy Hobart, played by Bob Behling.

While the existence of Fallout is rather shaky at times, the boys do manage to get an issue out every month by filing most of the bills into the waste basket and sticking to peanut butter and banana sandwiches.

Harmon's life is his typewriter. A social recluse, he leaves all wooing up to his attractive roommate . . . that is until he meets his new neighbor, a flag-waving all-American girl athlete with a voice that needs no megaphone for added volume.

NORMAN GOES into action, but his outlandish, backfiring moves and ideas cause Sophia, played by Judy Jonassen, to lose her job and almost her mind too.

A Paddock Review

Harmon Dresner is making his second appearance at Country Club Theatre after performing as the shy kid brother in another Neil Simon production, "Come Blow Your Horn." In this role, Dresner received the Chicago Jefferson Award for the most promising actor. It also marked his professional stage debut.

Comedy appears to come easy for Dresner, who is often type cast into either social or eccentric misfits.

BOB BEHLING as Andy more or less complements Harmon's performance. While not having the eccentric actions with which to work that are very much a part of Norman's role, Behling strikes back with a suave attitude and numerous witty retorts to add even more merriment to the production.

Judy Jonassen's best performance of the evening is in Scene 2 of the first act. The booming accented voice is an asset as she confronts Norman with all his "acts of love" and in no uncertain terms tells him to "bug off" before she calls the police.

"The Star Spangled Girl" will be staged at the Country Club Theatre in Mount Prospect into August. Tickets, CL 9-5400.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Woodfield Crowds Seek Sears Jobs

by NANCY COWGER

"I feel like I've got a 1,000 in one chance," was the comment of a woman from Roselle yesterday as she joined hundreds of persons applying for jobs at the new Sears Roebuck and Co. store at Woodfield Mall, Schaumburg.

Sears began hiring yesterday for what had been announced as 1,000 openings at the store scheduled to open in August or September. Doors opened at 9 a.m., but applicants began lining up at 6 a.m., competing for jobs in sales, offices, management, security and janitorial services.

By the time personnel interviewers had been at their desks for 50 minutes, nearly 300 applicants had been interviewed. Gary Crawford, personnel director for the new store, said more than 500 persons had begun the application process by that time, adding it was a conservative estimate.

THE APPLICANTS came from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Park Ridge, Wilmette, and just about any other suburb on the north and west sides, as well as from Chicago.

Crawford and his staff of 23 interviewers handled the crowd systematically.

Each person is to be notified within two weeks if Sears wishes to interview him further.

Applicants are being admitted to the building between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day, and after 3 p.m. those persons already inside will be processed, Crawford said.

Originally, company representatives said the 1,000 store openings would be filled strictly with new employees, except for top management positions. Yesterday Crawford said more than 250 current employees have applied for transfer to Woodfield, and many requests will be honored.

CRAWFORD IN part attributed the mass of people to layoffs in the Chicago area. "I'm sure it has some bearing on it. The number of people that we have here. Certainly the layoffs are a factor," he said.

The only common denominator among the applicants seemed to be that they were looking for work. They ranged in age from 17 to around 60. Some were laid off and looking for new jobs. Some were looking for part-time jobs to either supplement a full-time income or earn pocket change. Some were experienced in sales and management, some in teaching, others in industry and some had no job experience at all. There were teenagers, housewives and businessmen in white shirts and ties.

Some were "nervous" about the great competition for the jobs. Others repeated the comment of one man, "It doesn't bother me. I'm qualified."

One girl was laid off Saturday from a job in Arlington Heights. A Wilmette man had been "out of work just a couple of months." He had sales experience, but said he'd take "whatever they had." Having applied for work elsewhere, he said of the situation at Sears, "It doesn't look good."

Applicants turned out by the hundreds yesterday for the first day of job interviewing at Sears, Woodfield Mall.

Merger Study Will Go On Despite Some Apathy

by PAT GERLACH

Despite an obvious lack of interest from one involved community, an investigation of the feasibility of merging Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will proceed under the auspices of Task Force One.

"We have decided to go ahead with it," said Glenn Hoffmann, chairman of the Task Force created nearly a year ago by the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST).

Under terms of the study's creation its members were asked to make a recommendation for or against a merger to ROOST next Oct. 31.

Hoffman said Friday "we will finish the study, and it will be the most thorough study that has been made in this township."

Subcommittees will continue their work this summer, and Hoffman is hoping they will be prepared to report by the end of August.

DURING THE SUMMER, Hoffman will prepare a random questionnaire to be sent to residents, and possibly officials, in both villages. Hoffman said the details of the questionnaire have not been determined yet, but probably it will ask residents of the villages about their attitudes toward merger, based on information currently available.

Then, said Hoffman, the questionnaire may provide new information, gleaned from subcommittee reports, and will ask further questions on their attitudes after reading the new data.

"It will not be just 'are you for or against this merger,'" said Hoffman.

Although the questionnaire is not to be mailed out until fall, Hoffman said he still plans to report to ROOST by the Oct. 31 deadline. "We are going to try to make the Oct. 31 deadline. As to the details as to how, I cannot comment specifically on that now," he said.

Hoffman and other leaders selected from the two villages held a series of organizational meetings last fall, created a number of subcommittees and began their work.

The original seven-member coordinating committee suffered its first setback last November with the resignation of Edward Bedard of Hoffman Estates.

Park Activities To Begin June 28

A varied program of recreational activities and instruction designed to whet the interest of all age ranges living within Schaumburg Park District will start on June 28 and continue through August 13.

Registration for all summer programs will be held at Jennings House Youth Center offices of the park district June 14 through 19.

Interested residents may register for park programs between 9 a.m. and noon weekdays or between 1 and 4 p.m.

Park district residents may register for activities by paying fees for programs outlined in a detailed brochure planned to reach every household in the district.

Any nonresident of the park district may partake in the program but is required to purchase a special pass at registration.

Nonresident family passes cost $5; individual passes run $3. These fees are to be paid in addition to the appropriate registration costs and will be effective through May 31, 1972.

Emil C. Rinne Honored At Pool Dedication

Hanover Park Park District officials, village officials and area residents honored Emil C. Rinne for his years of dedication and service to the park district and the community as they dedicated the new community pool and fieldhouse in his honor Saturday.

During an afternoon dedication ceremony and pool grand opening, Rinne, his wife Frieda, and members of the Rinne family were present to accept a plaque that will be hung on the new fieldhouse wing.

Rinne, first president of the park district board, has served on the village evaluation and preparation of the final report.

IN THEIR campaign prior to the April municipal election in Schaumburg, UCP candidates made it quite clear that they do not look with favor on a merger.

After these feelings became apparent, Hoffman indicated that the study would also have to concern itself with "attitudinal aspects" as evidenced by the people in Schaumburg.

The Task Force group down played its activities during election campaigns in both villages.

Criticism of the endeavor has centered around its having been proposed and originally staffed by ROOST rather than a more independent community organization.

Hoffman also commented on remarks made during the recent village election campaign that the task force's work is valueless, since Schaumburg officials came out so strongly against merger.

"The study is supposed to find out if it will or will not benefit either community" to merge, he said. It also should reveal ways in which villages can cooperate, or merge part of their services while still remaining independent governing divisions, he said.

Other coordinating council members include William Cowin, a Hoffman Estates trustee, and James Werner, Glen Short and William Fitzgerald, all of Schaumburg.

In order to provide an in-depth education for persons working on Task Force subcommittees, a series of informative programs was planned at two-week intervals from February through early June.

After several presentations, the series appears to have fallen by the wayside.

According to the original timetable set up by the group, all committee work was to have been concluded prior to July 1, allowing four months for interpretation,

As Rinne accepted the plaque he commented that he was at a loss for words of thanks but felt honored.

President Humphreys noted that his service and dedication and the many donations and deeds of the couple in the community spoke for them.

Rinne said, "The more you do and give to your town the more you get back in many ways."

President Humphreys also accepted a flag that has flown over the White House from Hanover Park resident Rudy Cohn.

COHN GAVE the park district the flag in honor of his son Danny Cohn who is serving in the Army, presently on military leave from the village public works department.

Cohn said his son brought the flag home from the Capitol where he received it as a gift when he toured the White House as president of the teen club. The teen club has recently disbanded and the embroidered flag will now be flown over the pool complex.

During a reception in the new rooms, the Hanover Park Woman's Club members served hors d'oeuvres and punch as past and present members of the village board and the village president toured the new facilities.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Tweed-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

La. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

Thunderstorms and tornado warnings racked the Midwest over the weekend, bringing generally cooler weather and a greater chance of showers to the area. Lows in the 60's are expected with highs during the day in the high 80's and 90's.

Temperatures around the nation:

|               | High | Low |
|---------------|------|-----|
| Atlanta       | 91   | 67  |
| Boston        | 72   | 60  |

| San Francisco | 60   | 49  |
| Tampa         | 89   | 75  |

The Market

Stocks were mixed in moderate turnover. Demand for stocks was slowed by new concern about rising interest rates. Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.26 at 923.41. The Standard & Poor's stock index, however, dropped .36 at 101.14. Electronics, generally among the day's widest movers, generally pointed lower.

Signup Opens

Registration for all classes in Schaumburg Park District 1971 Learn to Swim program are being taken this week through Saturday at Jennings House Youth Center.

Park district offices at the center will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily to accept registration for swim programs.

Adults and children planning to participate in the program must register during the appointed times in order to allow residents of the park district to coordinate swim lessons with summer school and vacations.

Registration for all programs is limited and sign-up will be handled on a "first-come-first-served" basis.

AT CIVIC PARK POOL, classes in the first session will begin on June 14 and continue through June 29; second session lessons will be held during the period from June 30 through July 15.

The third lesson session will be held July 16 through July 31 and the fourth and final section of lesson programming will be held Aug. 2 through 17.

At Robert O. Atcher Pool, scheduled for opening to the public on July 4, classes in the first session will be held July 5 through 20; second session programming is from July 21 through Aug. 5.

The final instructional program at Atcher Pool will run Aug. 6 through 21.

Ten lessons in the Learn to Swim program at either Schaumburg pool cost $6 and classes will be held at 10:15 and 11:10 a.m. at both locations.

At Civic Park Pool only, there will be a 9:20 a.m. class during the first session only.

In the basic Learn to Swim instruction all 10 lessons must be completed within a 14-day period.

IN ADDITION, Water Ballet instruction for girls only will also be offered for $10 for 10 lessons.

Senior lifesaving for boys and girls either 15 years of age or high school sophomore level will be offered for $15.

The basic course will consist of 18 hours of pool instruction to be scheduled at 5 p.m. on days still to be announced.

Junior lifesaving for boys and girls 11 years of age or at fifth grade level will also be offered for the same number of hours at the $15 cost with days to be announced.

Schaumburg's extremely successful Swim Team will be open to boys and girls six years of age who can swim one pool length.

Groups will meet Tuesday through Saturday at appointed hours and the fee is $5 per member per summer.

There will be an additional cost of $6.50 for girls and $3.50 for boys for team swim suits to be paid for on registration.

For pre-schoolers (three, four and five year olds) a tiny-tot swim class will be offered with classes meeting at noon on days to be assigned at registration.

Fee is $8 per child for 10 lessons of 45-minutes each.

Also, an adult swim class will be held at noon on assigned days with fees set at $10 for 10 lessons and there is no qualifying age limit.

Scuba, for those 16 years old and up (or others with special consent of the instructor) will also be offered at a cost of $45 for 25 hours.

Rounding out the program, the park district will also offer fancy diving for 10 year olds and older. Time and days of class will be announced and the charge is $10 for 12 lessons.

THE EMIL C. RINNE Pool and Fieldhouse Complex on Catalpa Street in Hanover Park, named in honor of Emil Rinne, was dedicated Saturday. After the ceremony, the three-pool $163,000 facility, a donation of Larwin Illinois Inc. builders, was open for inspection. Mr. and Mrs. Rinne are shown at the diving tank.

Davies Dives
To Fulfill
His Promise

As the soles of his leather shoes slipped out of sight into the depth of the diving tank, Hanover Park Park District Atty. William Davies fulfilled his promise that he would be "first in the pool."

Davies' dive was made Saturday following a dedication ceremony that showed off the first community swimming pool to Hanover Park residents.

The attorney and board members had been instrumental in obtaining the swimming pool for the older section of the village in negotiations with a builder. Davies supervised construction of the pool.

Davies' climb to the top of the ladder had residents in suspense and one youngster, sure he wouldn't dive, questioned "with his shoes on?"

The dive brought a round of applause and Davies was joined in the pool by Village Pres. Richard Baker who jumped in for a short dip also.

Baker and Davies attended the reception following their swim with aquishy shoes and an aplomb that ignored shrinking suits and dripping ties.

Expenditures
Will Double
Last Year's

The Village of Hoffman Estates will spend over $5 million during the current fiscal year, more than twice the amount spent in the past year.

Expenses for the village are expected to total $5,009,942 for fiscal year 1972, which began May 1. Money spent for fiscal year 1971 totaled $2,276,140.

Two of the largest expenditures are a $1,066,200 allotment for improvements to the village water system and $944,535 to be spent for the construction of the police and municipal building.

Expenses for the village's general corporate fund are up to $1,054,097 an increase of $228,394 from the year before. The largest portion of the general corporate fund increase is attributable to the police department.

POLICE SALARIES were increased 10 per cent for the village's 21-man police force and provisions were made to hire 5 additional patrolmen. Police department expenses are expected to be $551,750 an increase of nearly $163,000 over last year.

Another major general fund increase, nearly $76,000, is for expenses listed under streets and bridges which are budgeted $226,300 for the current fiscal year.

Under the streets and bridges fund come expenses connected with the maintenance and improvement of streets, storm sewers, sidewalks, lights and trees maintained by the village.

Other funds listed under the general corporate fund are general government, finance, legal, building and buildings and grounds.

OTHER MAJOR EXPENSES budgeted for the year are $211,040 for garbage removal; $271,500 for major street improvements in Hoffman Estates' southwest corner and new traffic signal expenses; $74,795 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund and $63,070 for the Police Pension Fund.

In the village water and sewerage fund, operated separate from other municipal services, nearly $1.1 million will be collected and spent.

Formal adoption of the budget was expected by the village board last night.

Three Killed In Two-Car Crash

Three persons were killed and six others injured in a two-car auto accident Saturday evening at the intersection of Rtes. 58 and 59, Hanover Township.

Killed were Edward W. Baggs, 70, of 6004 Northwest Hwy., Chicago, and two of his grandchildren, James Bosworth, 10, and Ellen Bosworth, 13, children of Mr. and Mrs. Elton W. Bosworth, of 318 E. Talbot, Arlington Heights.

Bosworth, 48, driver of one car, is in satisfactory condition at Sherman Hospital, Elgin, with a fractured ankle. Also injured were his wife Dolores, 42, with a broken wrist; Maria Wall, 67, of 6137 N. Austin, Chicago, with abrasions; Karen Bosworth, 17, another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bosworth; Joseph Waineright, 47, of 432 Fremont St., Elgin, driver of the second car, with a fractured and dislocated hip; and Willie Curry, 41, of 437 Fremont, Elgin, a passenger in Waineright's car, with lacerations of the shoulder and forehead.

Karen Bosworth is in improved condition at St. Josephs Hospital, Elgin. Marie Wall was treated and released at Sherman Hospital, where Waineright is in good condition. Mrs. Bosworth and Curry are listed as satisfactory. Police said the Bosworth auto was westbound on Rte. 58 when it turned left in front of the eastbound Waineright car. While no charges have been placed, action is pending, said State Police of District 3, Des Plaines, who investigated.

Village Hires Building Man

The Hanover Park Village Board has hired Gerald Steilen of 140 W. Wood St., Palatine as superintendent of building and construction.

Steilen was one of 25 applicants for the job and has 37 years' experience in the carpentry and building trades, according to Trustees James Lewis, who recommended Steilen.

He will assume his duties June 15 for a yearly salary of $120,000 and will receive a raise to $125,000 at the end of six months. His salary will be raised to $13,000 at the end of his first year.

IN COMPLIANCE WITH Hanover Park Park District commissioners edict that he would be "the first one in the pool," Park Dist. Atty. William Davies, carnation ed. still in his lapel following the dedication ceremony executed a full dive from the top ladder and provided an impromptu swimming and diving exhibition — fully suited.

Elgin College Signing Applicants

Registration in person for the 1971 Summer Session at Elgin Community College continues through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily in the main campus building, 1700 Spartan Dr., Elgin.

Classes will begin June 14, and courses are divided into four, six and eight-week sessions ending July 8, July 22 and August 5 respectively. Students may choose from more than 50 courses in the fields of art, business, education, English, math, music, science, philosophy, social science and vocational training.

Among the courses being offered for the first time during the summer are introductory and advanced photography. Both classes concentrate on the elementary use of the camera in the area of creative photography and design as well as the elements of technique related to the process of photographic reproduction. Laboratory work emphasizes self expression.

Three courses in vocational training are also available. Basic Key Punch Training is an introduction to the basic skills of operating a keyboard both manually and automatically. This four-week course is designed to provide over-all knowledge of the keypunch and its operation. Advanced Key Punch Training is an opportunity for beginning keypunchers to increase their speed and accuracy. The advanced course will begin July 12, so students may take both courses.

Computer Programming Fortran IV is an in-depth study of the Fortran IV programming language with emphasis on business statistics applications. Students will prepare Fortran solutions for testing on the computer. Data Processing 113 and 114 are prerequisites for the course or consent of the instructor.

The General Equivalency Development Program (GED.) will also be offered over the summer for the first time. The program is designed for adults who have not completed high school and prepares the student for the GED examination. Tutoring for specific phases of the examination will also be available.

The college bookstore will be open June 7-11, June 14-18 and June 21. The

Hanover Park Mass Transit
Parley Scheduled Tomorrow

Hanover Park Mass Transit District Trustee Frank Wallace will host tomorrow's 8 p.m. meeting of the Northwest Suburban Mass Transit District in the village council chambers at 2121 Lake St.

Hanover Park is one of 11 communities along and adjacent to the Milwaukee Road west line now formed as the Trans-plan district.

The trustees on May 11, during an Elgin meeting heard and approved the Project Trans-plan proposal for new and improved services that envisions 36 new bi-level cars, 13 locomotives, and other improvements.

These would be, since the formation of the district, available under federal funding under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964.

The district believes in addition to those improvements two new six-car rush hour trains could be provided from the success of the program.

Man Injured In Sewer Cave-In

A Bellwood resident is in the intensive care unit of Northwest Community Hospital, Elk Grove Village, after he was partially buried Friday in sewer construction work on Rte. 62 at Quentin Road, Schaumburg.

Injured in a cave-in while working on a trench was Daniel Fazio, 44, of 643 Wright, Bellwood. Fazio was caught when several tons of dirt caved in between shoring. Other men at the site immediately began working to dig him out, but he was not freed for an hour and 15 minutes, according to a police report.

While the rescuers, both from the construction site and from the Schaumburg

Fire Department, worked, the "walls of the trench continued to collapse," said police. A doctor from Northwest Community Hospital stood by, and rode in the ambulance that took Fazio to the hospital.

Police said Fazio was conscious, and reported chest pains while the rescuers were working. Police records indicated Fazio was admitted to the hospital with fractured ribs, but hospital authorities were unable to list other injuries yesterday.

Burglar Gets Guns, Poisons

A small arsenal of guns and a supply of poisons were stolen from an International Village apartment Thursday, according to a report filed with Schaumburg police.

Daniel T. Nigro, who lives with Robert L. Cavalier in an apartment at 1304 Algonquin Rd., reported the theft of $3,000 worth of possessions at about 5 p.m. Thursday, after he returned home to find the place ransacked.

Taken were a 12-gauge riot gun, five 12-gauge shotguns, a .357 magnum revolver, a .22-caliber rifle and a .22-caliber pistol. Also taken were a white gold wedding ring set with diamonds, a pound of arsenic, four ounces of strychnine and the key to a motorcycle.

The guns were in a locked cabinet, and police said one sliding glass door to the cabinet had been lifted from its track. Means of entry was uncertain.

Youth Charged With Resisting An Officer

Steven Riggio, 17, of 121 Audubon Ct., Hoffman Estates is free on $3,500 bond but must appear in Niles Felony Court at 11 a.m. June 29 to answer charges of resisting a police officer and aggravated battery.

Riggio was charged by arresting officer Hanover Park Police Sergeant Donald Wood, Saturday following a fight between the two on the carnival grounds in Hanover Park at Rte. 19 and Barrington Road.

According to police, Sgt. Wood stopped to offer aid to Riggio and a female companion who appeared ill and while questioning the two was attacked by Riggio.

Riggio reportedly told his friend to run while he held the sergeant. Police have not located Riggio's companion, and speculated that the pair may have been frightened at being questioned shortly before curfew.

Pool Membership
IDs Total 1,000

Hoffman Estates Park District officials issued a clarification on membership statistics for their newly acquired swimming pool Thursday.

To calm fears of overcrowding, board members stressed that they have processed identification photographs for 1,000 persons through June 1.

Memberships sold to date represent revenues in excess of $13,000, which is more than the anticipated total expected when cost and expenditure projections were prepared for the pool.

Cost of family memberships increased to $35 effective June 1 when a preseason sale ended.

Pool memberships may be purchased for either families or individuals at park offices, Vogel Administration Center, Higgins Road between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Two Board Members In Evening Graduation Program

504 Wheeling Seniors Get Diplomas Today

High school diplomas will be awarded to 504 Wheeling High School seniors in graduation ceremonies this evening.

The program will be held at 8:15 in the Wheeling High School gymnasium.

Presenting the diplomas will be Dist. 214 school board members Arthur Aronson and Raymond Erickson. The Class of 1971 will be presented by Wheeling High School principal Tom Shirley.

Speeches will be given by three Wheeling High School seniors, representing the Senior Class.

The speakers will be Melissa Wyse, Wesley Kopf and Patricia Horcher. They were chosen to speak on the basis of tryouts among members of the Senior Class. The three students will be introduced by Patrick Guiney, president of the Senior Class.

The Wheeling High School choir will sing three selections during the ceremonies.

These will include the class song of the Class of 1971, "He Ain't Heavy-He's My Brother," "The Days of Our Youth," and the Wheeling High School alma mater.

The invocation will be delivered by graduating senior Beverly Richardson. The color presentation will be made by the Wheeling High School naval junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC). Organist for the ceremonies will be Doris Deaton, a Wheeling High School counselor.

Charge Local Man Pointed Shotgun At Two Policemen

A Wheeling man was charged with aggravated assault and resisting arrest Saturday after he twice pointed shotguns at Wheeling policemen.

Richard J. Bennett, of 714 N. Wayne, Wheeling, was arrested after police had been called to the house by a family disturbance at 7:50 p.m.

Bennett allegedly pointed a shotgun at officer Jack Koenig while Bennett was sitting on a bed in the bedroom. Police persuaded him to put down the gun while another officer took a 6-month-old baby from the house.

As police were about to tell Bennett that he was under arrest, he pulled another shotgun from behind his back and aimed it at patrolman Earl Seal, saying, "You better get away from me," police said.

Because police were standing close to Bennett they were able to disarm him after a short struggle.

Bennett was released on $2,500 bond. He will appear in Arlington Heights District Court on July 9.

Wheeling Seniors Receive Awards

Thirty-four awards for outstanding school accomplishments were presented to Wheeling High School seniors yesterday in a special awards assembly at the school.

The valedictorian award was presented to Thomas J. Fielder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fielder, 924 Woodland Dr., Wheeling. The award is presented annually to the senior with the highest cumulative grade point average for four years.

The salutatorian award was given to Kay L. Geske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Geske, 100 W. Manchester Dr., Wheeling, and Rodney P. Panter, son of James Panter, 573 S. Milwaukee, Wheeling.

The two students had the second highest cumulative grade point average during four years in high school.

The awards for outstanding participation in high school activities were presented to Lotus J. Rofrano and Beverly K. Richardson.

THE GIRLS' ATHLETIC award was given to Barbara Hallett and the business education award to Mary Jane Morgan.

The award for outstanding accomplishments in dance was taken by Kendra L. Lewis and the dramatics award by Susan K. Rich.

A special award was given to Deborah F. Rohrer, for her work as editor of "The Spokesman," student newspaper, and to Richard D. Sarnwick for editing "The Lair," student yearbook.

The English award was presented to Mary N. Stearns. Winners of the forensics award were Wesley J. Kopf for debate and to Miss Rich for individual speech events activities.

The German language award was given to Fielder and the home economics award to Charlene D. Lemke.

Gary E. Vanyek received the industrial arts award and Mary N. Stearns the journalism award. The Latin award was presented to Lauretta C. Kearns and the mathematics award to Fielder.

JOHN WELFLIN was presented the instrumental music award and Wynnevan I. Williams the vocal music award.

The boys' physical education award went to Leon Toia and the girls' physical education award to Miss Lemke.

The school spirit awards were presented to Raymond J. DiCosola and Carol A. Brown.

The Bausch and Lomb science award was given to Fielder.

Opinions Please

Drug Abuse Education Approved

Drug education in the elementary grades got a unanimous vote of approval from residents of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove who were interviewed this week by Opinions Please.

A citizens committee recommended last week that School Dist. 21 adopt a drug education program for all grades, kindergarten through junior high school. The school board must still act on the proposal before the program is started.

MRS. RAYMOND DUNN, 942 S. Fletcher, Wheeling, said she favors drug education in elementary school because "the younger children are when they learn about drugs, the better it is for them."

"If they learn when they're young," Mrs. Dunn said, "there is less chance of an older person influencing them to use drugs. The kids who don't know anything about drugs — those are the ones who have a real chance of getting started on them."

Mrs. Dunn said she has no children in school but that she looks forward to having a drug education program when her daughter, now 2, starts school.

Drug education, but not scare tactics, was favored by MRS. CLYDE VOTH, 609 Sycamore, Buffalo Grove. Half the persons surveyed by the Dist. 21 committee had favored the use of scare tactics.

"They should just explain what drugs do to the body," Mrs. Voth said. "They should just use common sense, not scare tactics."

Mrs. Voth, the mother of two elementary school pupils, said, "We talk about drugs at home and, of course, I hope my boys never use them, but it would help if they learned more about drugs in school."

Another vote for drug education and against scare tactics came from MRS. FRANK FRANSEN, 416 Thelma, Wheeling.

"I don't think scare tactics work," Mrs. Fransen said. "You just have to talk to them so they can understand, tell them what drugs can do. That will be better."

Mrs. Fransen had doubts about the effectiveness of the program in the earlier grades, but she said, "I have a ten-year-old who can understand about drugs. I think it would be a good idea for children this age."

MRS. NORMAN WELCH, 17 Whitehall Ct., Buffalo Grove, said she thinks a drug education program is "a good idea" but she said, "I can't understand what they'd teach about in kindergarten. I don't think the kids would understand."

The mother of two preschool youngsters, Mrs. Welch said she had no firsthand knowledge of the drug problem in the area but she doubted that a majority of teenagers use drugs.

"I don't think it's as widespread as some people think," Mrs. Welch said. "It seems to have been over-emphasized and I think that parents are more frightened than children. They worry about it happening to their kids, and I guess we will, too, when ours are older."

MELVIN BROOKS, 298 E. Dennis, Wheeling, said, "I'm against youngsters using drugs and I'm in favor of drug education."

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Twee-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

Thunderstorms and tornado warnings racked the Midwest over the weekend, bringing generally cooler weather and a greater chance of showers to the area. Lows in the 60's are expected with highs during the day in the high 30's and 90's.

Temperatures around the nation:

| Tampa         | 89   | 75  |

The Market

Stocks were mixed in moderate turnover. Demand for stocks was slowed by new concern about rising interest rates. Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.26 at 923.41. The Standard & Poor's stock index, however, dropped .16 at 101.14. Electronics, generally among the day's widest movers, generally pointed lower.

Court Gets Annexation Question

The question of whether Prospect Heights may be incorporated as a city without the consent of Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines goes to the Cook County circuit Court today.

A hearing is being held at 10 a.m. today before Judge Harry Comerford in the Chicago Civic Center to settle the consent question. The question is one of several objections filed with the court to the Prospect Heights incorporation proposal. The petition, calling for incorporation of portions of Prospect Heights, unincorporated Wheeling and unincorporated Arlington Heights, was filed earlier this year by leaders of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association.

A hearing to review the incorporation petition has been continued twice since March. It is now scheduled for a week from today. But the hearing will be continued again if any party appeals a ruling made by the judge today.

The consent question is the main point of contention in the case. Because of a contradiction in state statutes it is not certain whether the objection of a neighboring municipality will block the incorporation. A portion of the statutes indicates that the petitioners must secure the consent of all municipalities within one mile of the proposed city boundaries.

While some of the objectors claim that the Prospect Heights residents must secure the consent of neighboring municipalities, the residents say they do not. Atty. Donald Kruger, representing the Prospect Heights group, has asked the judge to make a ruling on the consent question before the hearing scheduled for next week. Kruger has filed a motion with the court to strike all objections dealing with the consent question.

"If the judge says we don't need the consent then the other objections will be considered at the next hearing," said Kruger. "If the judge doesn't rule in our favor then there is no point to holding a full hearing." Several months ago the leaders of the petitioners approached the villages of Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Arlington Heights with their incorporation proposal. But village officials told the leaders to return after they had more information about the incorporation.

Whether or not the petitioners will appeal a ruling requiring the municipalities' consent "is up to Kruger," according to Bob Poltzer, president of the homeowner's association. "We are prepared to meet the expense of an appeal if our attorney thinks it is necessary."

Approximately nine objections to the incorporation proposal have been filed with the court. The objectors include the villages of Arlington Heights and Wheeling, the River Trails Park District and private landowners. According to Kruger, many of the objectors have brought up the consent question.

In addition the objectors have questioned whether the incorporation petition meets population and area requirements in the statutes. The statutes require that the area be less than four square miles with a population of more than 7,500.

Some of the objectors have also charged that the area included in the proposed boundaries is not a contiguous territory because they contain a strip or corridor of land used to acquire the area east of Wolf Road.

Vandals Break Into United Youth Bus

Vandals broke into the United Youth of Wheeling bus Sunday night and stole a fire extinguisher, police said.

The bus, parked behind the Community Presbyterian Church at 196 E. Highland, was also damaged earlier in the week when small children broke a window.

SANTA CRUZ, BOLIVIA, will be home for three months for Cora Rita Jones of Buffalo Grove. The Adlai Stevenson High School junior will be a foreign exchange student in the International Fellowship Student program.

She was selected on the basis of three personal interviews with IFS representatives.

Flags To Be At Half Staff; Services Today For Al Volz

Flags will be at half staff when a motorcycle police escort accompanies the funeral procession tomorrow for Albert F. Volz, "the first citizen of the Northwest suburbs."

The 100-year-old resident of Arlington Heights died Saturday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. He was born in Arlington Heights in 1871, when the village was called Dunton.

A man with a sharp mind, Mr. Volz remained alert and active until the last few months. Until late last year he was seen daily in downtown Arlington Heights when he took his regular walk wearing his trademark, a Stetson hat, and carrying a white cane.

The former mayor of Arlington Heights as well as a state representative will be buried with a Stetson hat in his casket. He adopted the trademark after he visited Denver, Colo., in 1935.

Pallbearers for the funeral will include State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights); John Woods, former village president of Arlington Heights; Jack Walsh, present village president; L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager; Virgil Horath, executive director of the Historical Museum of Arlington Heights; and Fred Howe, a relative of Mr. Volz.

VOLZ'S CRYSTAL CLEAR memory was a fund of information about the early years of the village and the area. His reminiscences at various times have included recalling how the village board installed the first public water system in 1903.

Despite the failure of a referendum, the village board, of which Mr. Volz was a member, decided to install the system by using excess tax funds and saloon fees.

The public outcry was tremendous but Mr. Volz said about 60 years later, "No, they didn't like taxes and special assessments any more than they do today — probably a great deal less. But if you have vision and spend the taxpayers' money for the things essential for progress, well, they'll come around."

Mr. Volz has been credited with originating the idea of Northwest Highway and the creation of the Arlington Heights Park District.

Mr. Volz's hard-line political attitude won him every election in which he ran. He was elected to the Arlington Heights Village Board in 1899 and reelected in 1901 and 1903. He was elected mayor of the village in 1907 and reelection in 1913. He also served on the Arlington Heights Board of Education from 1902 through 1914. He served as a state representative, being elected in 1916 and serving until 1922.

MR. VOLZ'S BODY will lie in state at the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunton Ave., from noon to 2 p.m. tomorrow. Funeral services will begin at 2 p.m. at the church.

Masonic services will be conducted at 8 p.m. today at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. These services will be conducted by Palatine Lodge 314.

Cora Jones To Live In Santa Cruz

She's Ready To Go Abroad

by SUE JACOBSON

Santa Cruz, Bolivia will be home for Cora Rita Jones of Buffalo Grove this summer.

Miss Jones, a junior at Adlai Stevenson High School, will go to school in Santa Cruz, and live with a Bolivian family for three months. Her trip is being sponsored by the International Student Fellowship (IFS) foreign exchange program at the school.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones, 530 Burnt Ember Ln.

Cora Rita's enthusiasm for her trip is evident.

"I always knew about the foreign exchange program, and I always wanted to participate, but I didn't think it was possible. Then last January I thought I would try my luck and apply. What a surprise it was when I was accepted!"

While in Bolivia, Cora Rita will live with Rosita Talavera, her parents and three sisters. Rosita was Stevenson's IFS foreign exchange student during the past year.

Cora Rita said she hopes to create more interest in Stevenson's foreign exchange program when she returns home. Next fall she'll be serving as president of the school's International Student Program, an organization of parents and students which works to set up and promote the foreign exchange program.

"I hope to promote interest in ISP and pick up new ideas on how to make foreign students feel more at home here," she said. "Both the exchange students who were at Stevenson this past year said they were treated more as guests here and that people were formal with them. They got to know many people, but none deeply."

"I think this happened because many students here are too scared to make the first move, or they're too caught up in themselves and they won't make the effort. If students would just care a little bit about others, it would make a big change."

"I wish there was more enthusiasm for the foreign exchange program here. I think most people are scared to go abroad. Mainly they're scared they won't be able to communicate. But whether or not you can speak the language, you can always smile," she said.

Cora Rita will attend a private girls' school in Bolivia.

"I have no idea what I'll study, except that I know I won't be responsible for any tests. I've had two years of Spanish here. I guess I really should buckle down and study the language some more, but I'm pretty excited. It's hard to realize I'm really going."

It will be the first overseas trip for Cora Rita, a cheerleader and student council member.

"I have an aunt who was a missionary overseas for many years. I like to think that I'm sort of following in her footsteps," she said.

Cora Rita said she hopes her trip will give South Americans "a better understanding of Americans."

"Most South Americans seem to feel that Americans have everything and can't get along with anyone. Sure, we are a leading nation and have much influence, but more important than material things are the individuals of the country I hope to tell some of the good things about America."

Fifth Suspect In Jayne Murder Released On Bond

A fifth suspect in the murder of George Jayne was released on bond yesterday after appearing before Judge James M. Bailey in Criminal Court.

Kenneth Hansen, 38, arrested Friday by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The operator of horse stables in rural Will County, Hansen was connected to the murder from a Cook County Grand Jury investigation.

Last week four other suspects in the Jayne murder were bound over to the grand jury after testimony from a state witness, Melvin Adams. Being held in Cook County Jail without bond are Silas Jayne, brother of George; Joseph LaPlaca, an Elgin resident and handyman for Silas; Edwin Nefeld, former head of detectives for the Markham police; and Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer.

Details of Hansen's connection with the murder were not made available at yesterday's hearing, but it's believed his name was included in letters left by George Jayne to be opened "in the event of violent death."

HIS CASE WAS continued until June 14.

Hansen's attorney, Arthur J. O'Donnell, filed a motion to reduce bail based on Hansen's lack of a criminal record.

He told the judge, "This man has no prior record, has never been charged or in jail before."

O'Donnell also charged that Hansen's arrest is a violation of his constitutional right.

Nicholas Motherway, assistant state's attorney, said his office was ready to proceed with the case yesterday, but Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Motherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said Hansen was among more than 100 persons questioned after George Jayne was killed in his Inverness home on Oct. 28, 1970.

Hansen was questioned because of his connection with Silas, but denied any knowledge of the murder, according to Ortiz.

10 Get Awards At Holmes JHS

Ten persons were given awards yesterday for outstanding accomplishments at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling. The awards were presented in a special awards assembly at the school.

The "Parent of the Year" award was presented to Mrs. Alvin Dearolph of Prospect Heights, for her support of school activities during the past year.

Valerie Galow received the eighth grade valedictorian award. Jeff Kohler is salutatorian.

The Tri-ship awards for outstanding accomplishments in citizenship, academic work and athletics were presented to Orin Backstrom and Cindy Krejlik. The sportsmanship awards for outstanding sportsmanship in intramural sports and physical education classes were given to Dave Peterson and Karen Peter.

The band awards for contributing most consistently to the welfare of the school band were presented to Barbara Masler and Cheryl Warr.

The music award for outstanding musical ability and attitude went to Peter Walter.

NROTC Names Top Cadet

Richard Turner of Wheeling received the Distinguished Cadet Award at an awards parade of the Naval Junior ROTC at Wheeling High School.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong presented the award to Turner, a cadet ensign. The award is given to the cadet with the highest overall standing in the unit.

The scholastic award went to Mark Hopkins, also an ensign, of Buffalo Grove.

Michael Gibbons won the Exemplary Military Award for the second time. He commanded the third platoon, the honor platoon of the naval ROTC unit.

The awards were sponsored by the American Legion Post 1968, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7178, AMVETS Post 66 and the Wheeling Rotary Club.

The Rev. R. A. Crist, pastor of St. Hilary's Episcopal Church, and a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve, gave the invocation at the awards ceremony, held last Thursday on the high school football field.

Among the activities of the naval ROTC this year was a visit to naval bases at Norfolk, Va., during the Easter vacation. About 50 cadets made the trip and spent time on navy ships.

Snowman Again?

Wheeling police were called out in search of a "suspicious thing" late Friday night.

George Sanchez of 350 W. Dundee Rd. told police that an unidentified thing about four feet tall, white, and dragging chains, ran through his back yard at about 11:37 p.m. Friday.

Police were unable to find anything fitting the description.

A NAVAL REVIEW was held at Wheeling High School last Thursday night by the school's naval junior ROTC. Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary

Armstrong served as reviewing official and presented awards to members of the unit which is directed by Capt. Adrian Lorentson, USN (Ret.), naval science instructor at the school.

Two Board Members In Evening Graduation Program

504 Wheeling Seniors Get Diplomas Today

High school diplomas will be awarded to 504 Wheeling High School seniors in graduation ceremonies this evening.

The program will be held at 8:15 in the Wheeling High School gymnasium.

Presenting the diplomas will be Dist 214 school board members Arthur Aronson and Raymond Erickson. The Class of 1971 will be presented by Wheeling High School principal Tom Shirley.

Speeches will be given by three Wheeling High School seniors, representing the Senior Class.

The speakers will be Melissa Wyse, Wealey Kopf and Patricia Horcher. They were chosen to speak on the basis of tryouts among members of the Senior Class. The three students will be introduced by Patrick Guiney, president of the Senior Class.

The Wheeling High School choir will sing three selections during the ceremonies.

These will include the class song of the Class of 1971, "He Ain't Heavy-He's My Brother," "The Days of Our Youth," and the Wheeling High School alma mater.

The invocation will be delivered by graduating senior Beverly Richardson. The color presentation will be made by the Wheeling High School naval Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC.)

Organist for the ceremonies will be Doris Deaton, a Wheeling High School counselor.

$35,000 Suit Against Village May Be Settled Out Of Court

A $35,000 lawsuit filed against the Village of Buffalo Grove by the former village engineer may be settled out of court, according to Village Pres. Gary Armstrong.

The suit was filed March 18 by John Hooper, village engineer in Buffalo Grove for nearly ten years. The suit charges that the village owes him money for work he performed as village engineer.

Hooper, a Palatine resident, was village engineer from August of 1959 until June of 1968 when the Hattis Associates were retained as engineering consultants.

"We've talked with their (Hooper's) attorney and there is a possibility we can resolve this thing out of court," Armstrong said yesterday. "We told them what our counter-suit would be. We think we have some pretty sound objections to Mr. Hooper's work," he added.

No court date has been set for the suit and the village has not filed a counter-suit.

The trustees had discussed the possibility of filing their own suit, charging that some of the work Hooper did was unacceptable.

Wheeling Seniors Receive Awards

Thirty-four awards for outstanding school accomplishments were presented to Wheeling High School seniors yesterday in a special awards assembly at the school.

The valedictorian award was presented to Thomas J. Fielder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fielder, 924 Woodland Dr., Wheeling. The award is presented annually to the senior with the highest cumulative grade point average for four years.

The salutatorian award was given to Kay L. Geske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Geske, 100 W. Manchester Dr., Wheeling, and Rodney P. Panter, son of James Panter, 573 S. Milwaukee, Wheeling.

The two students had the second highest cumulative grade point average during four years in high school.

The awards for outstanding participation in high school activities were presented to Louis J. Rofrano and Beverly K. Richardson.

THE GIRLS' ATHLETIC award was given to Barbara Hallett and the business education award to Mary Jane Morgan.

The award for outstanding accomplishments in dance was taken by Kendra L. Lewis and the dramatics award by Susan K. Rich.

A special award was given to Deborah F. Rohrer, for her work as editor of "The Spokesman," student newspaper, and to Richard D. Sarnick for editing "The Laur," student yearbook.

The English award was presented to Mary N. Stearns. Winners of the forensics award were Wesley J. Kopf for debate and to Miss Rich for individual speech events activities.

The German language award was given to Fielder and the home economics award to Charlene D. Lemke.

Gary E. Vanyek received the industrial arts award and Mary N. Stearns the journalism award. The Latin award was presented to Lauretta C. Kearns and the mathematics award to Fielder.

JOHN WELFLIN was presented the instrumental music award and Wynnvann I. Williams the vocal music award.

The boys' physical education award went to Leon Toia and the girls' physical education award to Miss Lemke.

The school spirit awards were presented to Raymond J. DiCosola and Carol A. Brown.

The Bausch and Lomb science award was given to Fielder.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Two-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

Thunderstorms and tornado warnings racked the Midwest over the weekend, bringing generally cooler weather and a greater chance of showers to the area. Lows in the 60's are expected with highs during the day in the high 80's and 90's.

Temperatures around the nation:

|               | High | Low |
|---------------|------|-----|
| Atlanta       | 91   | 67  |
| Boston        | 72   | 60  |

| San Francisco | 80   | 49  |
| Tampa         | 89   | 75  |

The Market

Stocks were mixed in moderate turnover. Demand for stocks was slowed by new concern about rising interest rates. Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.26 at 923.41. The Standard & Poor's stock index, however, dropped .16 at 101.14. Electronics, generally among the day's widest movers, generally pointed lower.

Court Gets Annexation Question

The question of whether Prospect Heights may be incorporated as a city without the consent of Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines goes to the Cook County circuit Court today.

A hearing is being held at 10 a.m. today before Judge Harry Comerford in the Chicago Civic Center to settle the consent question. The question is one of several objections filed with the court to the Prospect Heights incorporation proposal. The petition, calling for incorporation of portions of Prospect Heights, unincorporated Wheeling and unincorporated Arlington Heights, was filed earlier this year by leaders of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association.

A hearing to review the incorporation petition has been continued twice since March. It is now scheduled for a week from today. But the hearing will be continued again if any party appeals a ruling made by the judge today.

The consent question is the main point of contention in the case. Because of a contradiction in state statutes it is not certain whether the objection of a neighboring municipality will block the incorporation. A portion of the statutes indicates that the petitioners must secure the consent of all municipalities within one mile of the proposed city boundaries.

While some of the objectors claim that the Prospect Heights residents must secure the consent of neighboring municipalities, the residents say they do not. Atty. Donald Kreger, representing the Prospect Heights group, has asked the judge to make a ruling on the consent question before the hearing scheduled for next week. Kreger has filed a motion with the court to strike all objections dealing with the consent question.

"If the judge says we don't need the consent then the other objections will be considered at the next hearing," said Kreger. "If the judge doesn't rule in our favor then there is no point to holding a full hearing." Several months ago the leaders of the petitioners approached the villages of Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Arlington Heights with their incorporation proposal. But village officials told the leaders to return after they had more information about the incorporation.

Whether or not the petitioners will appeal a ruling requiring the municipalities' consent "is up to Kreger," according to Bob Poltzer, president of the homeowner's association. "We are prepared to meet the expense of an appeal if our attorney thinks it is necessary."

Approximately nine objections to the incorporation proposal have been filed with the court. The objectors include the villages of Arlington Heights and Wheeling, the River Trails Park District and private landowners. According to Kreger, many of the objectors have brought up the consent question.

In addition the objectors have questioned whether the incorporation petition meets population and area requirements in the statutes. The statutes require that the area be less than four square miles with a population of more than 7,500.

Some of the objectors have also charged that the area included in the proposed boundaries is not a contiguous territory because they contain a strip or corridor of land used to acquire the area east of Wolf Road.

Vandals Break Into United Youth Bus

Vandals broke into the United Youth of Wheeling bus Sunday night and stole a fire extinguisher, police said.

The bus, parked behind the Community Presbyterian Church at 136 E. Highland, was also damaged earlier in the week when small children broke a window.

SANTA CRUZ, BOLIVIA, will be home for three months for Cora Rita Jones of Buffalo Grove. The Adlai Stevenson High School junior will be a foreign exchange student in the International Fellowship Student program. She was selected on the basis of three personal interviews with IFS representatives.

Michael Gibbons won the Exemplary Military Award for the second time. He commanded the third platoon, the honor platoon of the naval ROTC unit.

The awards were sponsored by the American Legion Post 1968, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7178, AMVETS Post 66 and the Wheeling Rotary Club.

The Rev. R. A. Crist, pastor of St. Hilary's Episcopal Church, and a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve, gave the invocation at the awards ceremony, held last Thursday on the high school football field.

Among the activities of the naval ROTC this year was a visit to naval bases at Norfolk, Va., during the Easter vacation. About 50 cadets made the trip and spent time on navy ships.

Snowman Again?

Wheeling police were called out in search of a "suspicious thing" late Friday night.

George Sanchez of 350 W. Dundee Rd. told police that an unidentified thing about four feet tall, white, and dragging chains, ran through his back yard at about 11:37 p.m. Friday.

Police were unable to find anything fitting the description.

Commission To Hear Land Planner Tonight

Rolf Campbell, a professional land planner, has been invited to discuss development of downtown Palatine and fringe areas with the Palatine Plan Commission at a special meeting at 8 p.m. today in the village hall.

The village has considered revising land use plans for the central business district and its outlying areas for a couple months. The plan commission has invited Campbell, of Rolf Campbell and Associates, to comment on development in these areas.

He has not been hired to do any comprehensive planning as yet, according to Bert Braun, village manager. "We just want to get some ideas on how this could be handled," he said.

Commissioners agreed to have a professional land planner appear before the commission on May 18 but a planner was not available at that time.

TWO MAJOR CONCERNS of the meeting will be the land use of downtown areas and density that might be appropriate for apartment buildings.

The plan commission's decision to possibly update the village master plan, a product of 1964, as it relates to these areas, was prompted by periodic requests recently for land use changes and questions of suitability of zoning, Braun said.

Questions on residential density have also arisen, he said.

The plan commission did not want to make any decisions that would set precedent without an overall plan that was more up to date, he said.

Some considerations include the feasibility of granting higher density construction in the fringe areas, the use of vacant land and of sites now occupied by older single-family homes.

Braun said he would like Campbell's comments to encompass development around the new railroad station on both sides of the track including the west Colfax Street area.

HE SAID HE PERSONALLY has been wanting to move toward creating a separate zoning district for the downtown area. Rather than identifying it as business zoning, it would allow a variety of land uses.

"The only problem with the zoning ordinance is that it doesn't deal with the downtown business area," Braun said.

He added that this would not involve redoing the master plans but would require some changes.

Special Registration Set For Park Pools

Special registration hours have been scheduled for Palatine Park District residents who wish to have their pictures taken for pool passes but are unable to come during regular hours.

Registration will be at the recreation building, Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Rd. from 7 to 8:30 p.m. today and Thursday.

Regular hours for registration are 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, also at Community Park.

Both Community Park and Willow Park pools will open for summer swimming Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m. All individuals participating in any pool program must have a season pool pass or a daily admission receipt.

Proof of residency is required at the time of registration. All persons must be photographed. The picture identification passes will be 50 cents each.

SENIOR FAREWELL, a music festival for Palatine to Community Park Saturday. The larger crowds to High School students, drew about 500 teenagers came in the evening for the festival which featured mostly local musicians and the Streamline and Heavy Construction band.

Kenneth Hansen Denies Any Participation

Bond Frees Jayne Slaying Suspect

A fifth suspect in the murder of George Jayne was released on bond yesterday after appearing before Judge James M. Bailey in Criminal Court.

Kenneth Hansen, 38, arrested Friday by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The operator of horse stables in rural Will County, Hansen was connected to the murder from a Cook County Grand Jury investigation.

Last week four other suspects in the Jayne murder were bound over to the grand jury after testimony from a state witness, Melvin Adams. Being held in Cook County Jail without bond are Silas Jayne, brother of George; Joseph LaPlaca, an Elgin resident and handyman for Silas; Edwin Nefeld, former head of detectives for the Markham police; and Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer.

Details of Hansen's connection with the murder were not made available at yesterday's hearing, but it's believed his name was included in letters left by George Jayne to be opened "in the event of violent death."

HIS CASE WAS continued until June 14.

Hansen's attorney, Arthur J. O'Donnell, filed a motion to reduce bail based on Hansen's lack of a criminal record.

He told the judge, "This man has no prior record, has never been charged or in jail before."

O'Donnell also charged that Hansen's arrest is a violation of his constitutional right.

Nicholas Motherway, assistant state's attorney, said his office was ready to proceed with the case yesterday, but

Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Motherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said Hansen was among more than 100 persons questioned after George Jayne was killed in his Inverness home on Oct. 28, 1970.

Hansen was questioned because of his connection with Silas, but denied any knowledge of the murder, according to Ortiz.

Two Suspects In Track Blaze Won't Be Charged

Officials of the State's Attorney's office recommended yesterday that charges not be placed against two men in connection with the Thursday night fire at Arlington Park Race Track.

Arlington Heights police said they were told by the officials that there was not enough evidence to charge the two men with criminal damage to property and that the case should be dropped.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Racing Board will hear a report on the fire and on living conditions in the backstretch area where the fire was located.

John F. Leome, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc., owners of Arlington Park, and members of the Arlington Heights police, Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and State Fire Marshal's office are expected to give their versions of the fire.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Maury English said yesterday that he concurs with the opinion of the state's attorney that charges not be made.

"I'm sure of the cause of the fire," English said. "The only thing is we can't prove it. There's not enough evidence to make the charges stick."

Police theorize that the fire, which started in the middle, west side of Barn 5A, a section containing hay and feed, was caused by a discarded cigarette and was not a result of arson, which had first been thought.

Police said the two men in question admitted drinking and smoking in an auto near the area of the barn where the fire started and at about the same time. But they denied throwing any lighted cigarettes from the car and they said they didn't know how the fire started.

The racing board has discussed the conditions in the backstretch area in the past, saying that improvements must be made. So far, two fireproof, concrete barns have been built and three others are under construction.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Tweed-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 200,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

Thunderstorms and tornado warnings racked the Midwest over the weekend, bringing generally cooler weather and a greater chance of showers to the area. Lows in the 60's are expected with highs during the day in the high 80's and 90's.

Temperatures around the nation:

|               | High | Low |
|---------------|------|-----|
| Atlanta       | 91   | 67  |
| Boston        | 72   | 60  |
| Houston       | 88   | 73  |
| Los Angeles   | 76   | 63  |
| Miami Beach   | 85   | 79  |
| New York      | 81   | 66  |

| San Francisco | 60   | 49  |
| Tampa         | 89   | 75  |

The Market

Stocks were mixed in moderate turnover. Demand for stocks was slowed by new concern about rising interest rates. Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.26 at $23.41. The Standard & Poor's stock index, however, dropped .16 at 101.14. Electronics, generally among the day's widest movers, generally pointed lower.

Away From Home

This is a summary of the week's news in Palatine.

PALATINE RESIDENTS WILL BE paying approximately 2.75 per cent more taxes than they did last year, according to 1970 tax bills issued last week. Based on a total tax rate of 7.402 per $100 assessed valuation, a Palatine resident with property valued at $10,000 would have a total tax bill of $740.20. Last year's bill was $720.40 for a $10,000 assessed valuation.

LATEST PLANS FOR reconstruction of Palatine Road from Rohlwing Road to Rte. 53 will be discussed by state officials this week at an informal public meeting.

COUNTRYSIDE YMCA is nearing the $1 million mark in its drive to raise enough funds to construct a building facility north of Palatine. Since the active period of the drive ended May 21, drive workers secured an additional $64,000 toward the $1.75 million goal, bringing the contributions from the community to $468,075.

A ROCK FESTIVAL REPLACED the traditional senior farewell dance at Palatine High School last weekend. Sponsored by the student council with the cooperation of the Palatine Park District, the festival provided music Saturday by local bands.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP YOUTH ORGANIZATION netted about $1,000 last week when it sponsored the Hoxie Brothers Circus for two performances. The group had hoped to make $3,500.

MELVIN ADAMS, the state's star witness in the George Jayne murder case, testified last week in court that Silas Jayne paid him $30,000 to kill his brother. Adams said he was originally supposed to kill Jayne himself, but recruited Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer, to be the triggerman.

During his two-hour testimony, Adams also implicated defendants Joseph LaPlaca and Edwin Nefeld. Adams was granted immunity from prosecution for murder for his testimony.

FIVE OR SIX businesses on U.S. 14 in Palatine which would have been eliminated under the original improvement plans for Hicks Road and the highway will be saved if a possible revision is incorporated into the plans. The change will move the relocation of Hicks Road so that it intersects with U.S. 14 further east than originally planned. It will preserve the businesses on the west side of U.S. 14 just north of the railroad tracks.

FIRE STRUCK ARLINGTON PARK Race Track late Thursday night causing the death of 33 horses and destruction of two barns in the stable area. Arlington Heights detectives suspected arson while the blaze was in progress and have been searching for two track hands who had been dismissed earlier that day. The alarm was sounded at 11:35 p.m. Thursday, bringing three fire departments from surrounding areas to the aid of Arlington Heights.

Woodfield Crowds Seek Sears Jobs

by NANCY COWGER

"I feel like I've got a 1,000 in one chance," was the comment of a woman from Roselle yesterday as she joined hundreds of persons applying for jobs at the new Sears Roebuck and Co. store at Woodfield Mall, Schaumburg.

Sears began hiring yesterday for what had been announced as 1,000 openings at the store scheduled to open in August or September. Doors opened at 9 a.m., but applicants began lining up at 6 a.m., competing for jobs in sales, offices, management, security and janitorial services.

By the time personnel interviewers had been at their desks for 50 minutes, nearly 300 applicants had been interviewed. Gary Crawford, personnel director for the new store, said more than 500 persons had begun the application process by that time, adding it was a conservative estimate.

THE APPLICANTS came from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Park Ridge, Wilmette, and just about any other suburb on the north and west sides, as well as from Chicago.

Crawford and his staff of 23 interviewers handled the crowd systematically.

Each person is to be notified within two weeks if Sears wishes to interview him further.

Applicants are being admitted to the building between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day, and after 3 p.m. those persons already inside will be processed, Crawford said.

Originally, company representatives said the 1,000 store openings would be filled strictly with new employees, except for top management positions. Yesterday Crawford said more than 250 current employees have applied for transfer to Woodfield, and many requests will be honored.

CRAWFORD in part attributed the mass of people to layoffs in the Chicago area. "I'm sure it has some bearing on it. The number of people that we have here. Certainly the layoffs are a factor," he said.

The only common denominator among the applicants seemed to be that they were looking for work. They ranged in age from 17 to around 60. Some were laid off and looking for new jobs. Some were looking for part-time jobs to either supplement a full-time income or earn pocket change. Some were experienced in sales and management, some in teaching, others in industry and some had no job experience at all. There were teenagers, housewives and businessmen in white shirts and ties.

Some were "nervous" about the great competition for the jobs. Others repeated the comment of one man, "It doesn't bother me. I'm qualified."

One girl was laid off Saturday from a job in Arlington Heights. A Wilmette man had been "out of work just a couple of months." He had sales experience, but said he'd take "whatever they had." Having applied for work elsewhere, he said of the situation at Sears, "It doesn't look good."

Florida Dog Found Near Winston Park

A male dog, identified only by a bright green tag from Dade County, Florida, was found wandering around the Winston Park area of Palatine Saturday and the owner has not been found.

The dog was found by Joan Christine of 344 N. Morris Dr., and has a temporary home with Kay's Animal Shelter on the corner of Arlington Heights and Hintz roads.

Identified as part terrier with short legs by the shelter, the dog is mostly white with a black and white head.

Mrs. Christine said the dog is "nice, well trained, and fine with children."

She said she notified the Palatine Police and Arlington Heights Police thinking the dog might have been lost during the Arlington Park Race Track fire Thursday night. A security guard was to notify people at the track over the loudspeaker that the dog was found but there has been no response.

Mrs. Christine said she took the dog to the shelter Sunday morning because she could not keep it at her home.

A spokesman at the shelter said they try to hold dogs with out-of-state tags for five days.

If anyone knows the owner they are asked to contact the shelter at 250-2907.

Dr. Zurita Opens New Practice Here

Dr. Victor Zurita has opened practice at 3407 Kriebhoff Rd. in Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Zurita, a general practitioner, accepted his first area patients yesterday, after moving from Kewanee, Ill. A 1953 graduate of Yucatan University in Merida, Mex. he has practiced in St. Louis, Cleveland, Mount Sterling, Ill. and Kewanee.

He makes his home at 3706 Holly Ln. with his wife, Joanne and children Frenz, 10 and Brian, 7.

Airport Manager's Spouse A Noted Racer

Takes Back Seat To Wife

There's one husband in Rolling Meadows who takes a back seat to his wife, at least in the cockpit of an airplane.

When flying together, George Edgumbe, manager of Elgin Airport, is co-pilot to his wife Arlene, a pilot who places in winning positions in most of the air races she enters.

Residents of Three Fountains Apartments, the Edgumbes recently placed second out of more than 50 planes entered in the Illi-Nines Air Derby in Moline, missing the first position in the speed category by six seconds.

"It's got to be fate or luck when it comes that close," Mrs. Edgumbe said, especially when their twin Comanche plane was traveling at 200.8 m.p.h.

They did receive a special trophy for providing the best performance by a husband and wife team in the race, tallying the highest point score and greatest speed.

MRS. EDGUMBE has been flying since 1963, when she first took flight lessons at Elgin Airport for her private license. Since then, she has flown in eight races, the longest from Toronto to Nassau last year in the Angel Derby, which she won with her friend and flying partner Marion Jayne.

After her 10 initial flight lessons, she went on to receive her private license, an instrument rating, a commercial license with a multi-engine rating, a sea-plane rating, and she now is in the process of working on her flight instructor's rating. She has accumulated 850 flight hours, although she comes no where near her husband for flying experience. He has well over 20,000 hours.

Having a husband who is manager of an airport and midwest distributor for Piper, Mrs. Edgumbe has many airplanes at her disposal for racing.

"It's important to choose the aircraft that will give you the best advantage on each of the handicaps in a race," she said, explaining that good speed is not the only answer to winning a race.

AS A PILOT, she also must be exacting on navigation and aware of weather conditions when racing. "You use your own judgment in a race," she said, which makes winning all the more significant.

Although she currently is licensed to carry passengers for hire and with some more instruction could get a qualified rating to operate a jet, she has no interest in that type of flying. It's a hobby rather than a business for her.

"There are many women in the country right now that are qualified to fly jets," Mrs. Edgumbe said. However, no major commercial airlines will hire them.

"They need some women's liberation for that."

Her hours of private flying have not spoiled her for commercial flights. She still enjoys sitting back in the seat and letting someone else do the flying, "although I might judge the landings every now and then."

Three Carnivals Planned For City This Summer

Cracker Barrel

IS VICE a virtue? Ald. Thomas Scanlan commented on that at a recent meeting of the license, police and health committee. The Rolling Meadows boy's baseball officials attended the meeting to ask that the fees for a beer stand at the Jaycee carnival be waived, and Scanlan commented, "The irony of the thing is that we are using a vice to help the largest single youth program in the city."

THE GARBAGE trucks got into the act at the city Memorial Day parade. Last but not least, the bright yellow fleet rolled behind the bands, marchers and floats in all their glory.

Police Announce Swimming Rules

Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case announced yesterday that "drastic steps" will be taken, if youth continue to swim in unprotected areas in the city.

"There are a number of places in Rolling Meadows where kids are continually playing and swimming that are dangerous," Case said. He has issued only warning so far, but may pick up youth who swim in areas that are not sanctioned and notify parents.

Case said one of the locations where many people have been swimming is a large hole west of Willow Bend Elementary School on Barker Avenue. He said officers this weekend issued warning to those who were swimming.

"This place is extremely dangerous," Case added. "We don't know how deep it is and if there are rocks on the bottom. Someone even put a diving board at the swimming hole."

Some City Employees Are Being Evaluated

The Jacobs Company of Chicago is conducting job evaluations of certain city employees.

Library workers, the electrical inspector, sanitation, and secretarial workers are having their jobs examined, as Jacobs representatives did not evaluate those positions when the bulk of city workers were evaluated last year.

City Mgr. James Watson said the positions are examined to determine pay scales and specific duties.

Three carnivals are planned for Rolling Meadows this summer, the first sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce begins tomorrow.

The Chamber of Commerce carnival opens Wednesday in the parking lot of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, with activities including amusements and rides.

Funds will go toward the July 4 fireworks display and the Chamber of Commerce scholarship. A fund-raising drive for the fireworks display was conducted door-to-door in the city last year, but chamber officials are hoping for enough revenue from next week's carnival to finance the fireworks show.

According to a chamber spokesman, three new rides will be featured and more than a dozen others. The event opens at 3 p.m. and runs until 11 p.m. from Wednesday through Friday. Saturday the amusements will open at 11 a.m. and run until 11 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m.

The second city-wide carnival will be held in July sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees. Funds will go toward a bloodmobile, Christmas lighting program and numerous other activities planned by the Jaycees this year, according to Pres. Frederick Jacobson.

OPENING JULY 28, the festivities will continue through Aug. 1. A beer tent and a chuck wagon tent will handle food and beverages for visitors. The proceeds go to the boy's baseball fund and Cub Scout Pack 200.

THE FINAL SUMMER event is sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center from Aug. 26 to Aug. 28.

The West Fest featured a variety of activities last year, including acrobats, contests and carnival rides. Various organizations provided exhibits and performances.

Final plans are now being completed, said event chairman Mike Sica.

The Rolling Meadows City Council will consider waiving all fees for the Chamber of Commerce carnival at this week's meeting and officials also have discussed waiving the Jaycee carnival fees.

THE ANNUAL Rolling Meadows Grand Council Fire, sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls was held last week honoring the Blue Birds Junior Hi and the New Horizon Club, city girls' organizations. The festivities included

Jaycees Join Sign-Savers

The Rolling Meadows Jaycees will join the fight to save the Rolling Meadows neon sign located in the Baird and Warner Shopping Center, considered by many to be a city landmark.

Jaycee President Frederick Jacobson made the announcement along with his other goals for the local Jaycee chapter this year.

Plans call for the 50-foot neon to be removed from its present location, when a new shopping center signboard is constructed.

A number of city officials have said they favor the city takeover of the sign and possibly moving it near Rte. 53 as a directional sign for travelers. The sign has been at the shopping center for 15 years, almost as long as Rolling Meadows has been incorporated.

"The Jaycees will assist the city or any other group in saving the sign," Jacobson said. "I think we should start thinking of the historical aspects of many things in the city."

He also announced other programs to be undertaken by the Jaycees in 1971, calling the theme of the year "total civic involvement."

The Jaycees plan to set up a city-wide blood donation program. Jacobson said the plans are for a bloodmobile to make two or three trips at the city this year.

The Jaycees will also continue to work with city officials to promote the All-American city competition, according to Jacobson. Rolling Meadows has entered the competition which is still in the preliminary stages.

Fund raising projects are also scheduled. A carnival is set for August, Casino Night in October and the annual Christmas tree sale will be continued.

A spring social is planned in April and a steak fry in June. Jacobson said he expects to be working with a $4,000 budget.

Cub Scouts Collect Truckload Of Trash

Rolling Meadows Cub Scouts' "Save Our American Resources" campaign Saturday removed more than a truckload of trash from the city, according to Sup. of Public Works James McFegan.

Five pick-up points were established and cubs from Packs 68, 96, 180, 184 and 280 collected the refuse from all areas of the city. The cub project was in conjunction with national Keep America Beautiful Day.

Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Motherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said Hansen was among more than 100 persons questioned after George Jayne was killed in his Inverness home on Oct. 28, 1970.

Hansen was questioned because of his connection with Silas, but denied any knowledge of the murder, according to Ortiz.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Twa-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

Thunderstorms and tornado warnings racked the Midwest over the weekend, bringing generally cooler weather and a greater chance of showers to the area. Lows in the 60's are expected with highs during the day in the high 80's and 90's.

The Market

Stocks were mixed in moderate turnover. Demand for stocks was slowed by new concern about rising interest rates. Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.26 at 923.41. The Standard & Poor's stock index, however, dropped .16 at 101.14. Electronics, generally among the day's widest movers, generally pointed lower.

Keeping Up

This is a summary of the week's news in Rolling Meadows.

MOST ROLLING MEADOWS residents received a 1.22 per cent tax increase in this year's tax bills issued last week. Residents in Palatine Township, where the tax rate went from 7.690 last year to 7.794 this year, will pay $775 on properties assessed at $10,000.

COUNTRYSIDE YMCA is nearing the $1 million mark in its drive to raise enough funds to construct a building facility north of Palatine. Since the active period of the drive ended May 21, drive workers secured an additional $44,000 toward the $1.75 million goal, bringing the contributions from the community to $469,075.

WHILE THE ROLLING MEADOWS Shopping Center seems destined for no immediate expansion, owners of property on the other side of Kirchhoff Road will ask city officials for permission to expand their shopping area. The city plan commission last week heard preliminary plans to construct a 5,400-square-foot building to house six stores. The site would be located south of the 7-11 grocery store in the Coach Lite Shopping Center.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP YOUTH ORGANIZATION netted about $1,000 last week when it sponsored the Hoxie Brothers Circus for two performances Tuesday. The group had hoped to make $3,500.

AS COOK COUNTY WORKERS plant trees for the $1 million golf course near Roselie and Central roads in Palatine Township, Rolling Meadows officials will ask that another golf course be built less than three miles away. The city ordinance and judiciary committee recommended that a resolution be sent to county officials asking that a golf course be constructed in Busse Woods at Golf Road and Rte 53. The city would provide upkeep, maintenance and financial help in development.

MELVIN ADAMS, the state's star witness in the George Jayne murder case, testified last week in court that Silas Jayne paid him $30,000 to kill his brother. Adams said he was originally supposed to kill Jayne himself, but recruited Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer, to be the triggerman.

During his two-hour testimony, Adams also implicated defendants Joseph LaPlaca and Edwin Nefeld. Adams was granted immunity from prosecution for murder for his testimony.

FIRE STRUCK ARLINGTON PARK Race Track late Thursday night causing the death of 33 horses and the destruction of two barns in the stable area. Arlington Heights detectives suspected arson while the blaze was in progress and have been searching for two track hands who had been dismissed earlier that day. The alarm was sounded at 11:35 p.m. Thursday, bringing three fire departments from surrounding communities to the assistance of Arlington Heights.

Flags To Be At Half Staff; Services Today For Al Volz

Flags will be at half staff when a motorcycle police escort accompanies the funeral procession tomorrow for Albert F. Volz, "the first citizen of the Northwest suburbs."

The 100-year-old resident of Arlington Heights died Saturday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. He was born in Arlington Heights in 1871, when the village was called Dunton.

A man with a sharp mind, Mr. Volz remained alert and active until the last few months. Until late last year he was seen daily in downtown Arlington Heights when he took his regular walk wearing his trademark, a Stetson hat, and carrying a white cane.

The former mayor of Arlington Heights as well as a state representative will be buried with a Stetson hat in his casket. He adopted the trademark after he visited Denver Colo., in 1935.

Pallbearers for the funeral will include State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights); John Woods, former village president of Arlington Heights; Jack Walsh, present village president; L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager; Virgil Horath, executive director of the Historical Museum of Arlington Heights; and Fred Howe, a relative of Mr. Volz.

VOLZ'S CRYSTAL CLEAR memory was a fund of information about the early years of the village and the area. His reminiscences at various times have included recalling how the village board installed the first public water system in 1903.

Despite the failure of a referendum, the village board, of which Mr. Volz was a member, decided to install the system by using excess tax funds and saloon fees.

The public outcry was tremendous but Mr. Volz said about 60 years later, "No, they didn't like taxes and special assessments any more than they do today — probably a great deal less. But if you have vision and spend the taxpayers' money for the things essential for progress... well, they'll come around."

SUNDAY'S OPEN HOUSE was held at Arlington Park Race Track, Arlington Heights, despite Thursday night's fire in which 33 horses died and $500,000 in damages were caused.

Woodfield Crowds Seek Sears Jobs

by NANCY COWGER

"I feel like I've got a 1,000 in one chance," was the comment of a woman from Roselie yesterday as she joined hundreds of persons applying for jobs at the new Sears Roebuck and Co. store at Woodfield Mall, Schaumburg.

Sears began hiring yesterday for what had been announced as 1,000 openings at the store scheduled to open in August or September. Doors opened at 9 a.m., but applicants began lining up at 6 a.m., competing for jobs in sales, offices, management, security and janitorial services.

By the time personnel interviewers had been at their desks for 50 minutes, nearly 300 applicants had been interviewed. Gary Crawford, personnel director for the new store, said more than 500 persons had begun the application process by that time, adding it was a conservative estimate.

THE APPLICANTS came from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Park Ridge, Wilmette, and just about any other suburb on the north and west sides, as well as from Chicago.

Crawford and his staff of 23 interviewers handled the crowd systematically.

Each person is to be notified within two weeks if Sears wishes to interview him further.

Applicants are being admitted to the building between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day, and after 3 p.m. those persons already inside will be processed, Crawford said.

Originally, company representatives said the 1,000 store openings would be filled strictly with new employees, except for top management positions. Yesterday Crawford said more than 250 current employees have applied for transfer to Woodfield, and many requests will be honored.

CRAWFORD in part attributed the mass of people to layoffs in the Chicago area. "I'm sure it has some bearing on it. The number of people that we have here. Certainly the layoffs are a factor," he said.

The only common denominator among the applicants seemed to be that they were looking for work. They ranged in age from 17 to around 60. Some were laid off and looking for new jobs. Some were looking for part-time jobs to either supplement a full-time income or earn pocket change. Some were experienced in sales and management, some in teaching, others in industry and some had no job experience at all. There were teenagers, housewives and businessmen in white shirts and ties.

Some were "nervous" about the great competition for the jobs. Others repeated the comment of one man, "It doesn't bother me. I'm qualified."

One girl was laid off Saturday from a job in Arlington Heights. A Wilmette man had been "out of work just a couple of months." He had sales experience, but said he'd take "whatever they had." Having applied for work elsewhere, he said of the situation at Sears, "it doesn't look good."

Florida Dog Found Near Winston Park

A male dog, identified only by a bright green tag from Dade County, Florida, was found wandering around the Winston Park area of Palatine Saturday and the owner has not been found.

The dog was found by Joan Christine of 344 N. Morris Dr., and has a temporary home with Kay's Animal Shelter on the corner of Arlington Heights and Hintz roads.

Identified as part terrier with short legs by the shelter, the dog is mostly white with a black and white head.

Mrs. Christine said the dog is "nice, well trained, and fine with children."

She said she notified the Palatine Police and Arlington Heights Police thinking the dog might have been lost during the Arlington Park Race Track fire Thursday night. A security guard was to notify people at the track over the loudspeaker that the dog was found but there has been no response.

Mrs. Christine said she took the dog to the shelter Sunday morning because she could not keep it at her home.

A spokesman at the shelter said they try to hold dogs with out-of-state tags for five days.

If anyone knows the owner they are asked to contact the shelter at 259-2507.

Dr. Zurita Opens New Practice Here

Dr. Victor Zurita has opened practice at 3407 Kirchhoff Rd. in Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Zurita, a general practitioner, accepted his first area patients yesterday, after moving from Kewanee, Ill. A 1963 graduate of Yucatan University in Merida, Mex. he has practiced in St. Louis, Cleveland, Mount Sterling, Ill. and Kewanee.

He makes his home at 3706 Holly Ln. with his wife, Joanne and children Frenz, 10 and Brian, 7.

Airport Manager's Spouse A Noted Racer Takes Back Seat To Wife

There's one husband in Rolling Meadows who takes a back seat to his wife, at least in the cockpit of an airplane.

When flying together, George Edgumbe, manager of Elgin Airport, is co-pilot to his wife Arlene, a pilot who places in winning positions in most of the air races she enters.

Residents of Three Fountains Apartments, the Edgumbes recently placed second out of more than 50 planes entered in the Illi-Nines Air Derby in Moline, missing the first position in the speed category by six seconds.

"It's got to be fate or luck when it comes that close," Mrs. Edgumbe said, especially when their twin Comanche plane was traveling at 200.8 m.p.h.

They did receive a special trophy for providing the best performance by a husband and wife team in the race, tallying the highest point score and greatest speed.

MRS. EDGUMBE has been flying since 1963, when she first took flight lessons at Elgin Airport for her private license. Since then, she has flown in eight races, the longest from Toronto to Nassau last year in the Angel Derby, which she won with her friend and flying partner Marion Jayne.

After her 10 initial flight lessons, she went on to receive her private license, an instrument rating, a commercial license with a multi-engine rating, a sea-plane rating, and she now is in the process of working on her flight instructor's rating. She has accumulated 850 flight hours, although she comes no where near her husband for flying experience. He has well over 20,000 hours.

Having a husband who is manager of an airport and midwest distributor for Piper, Mrs. Edgumbe has many airplanes at her disposal for racing.

"It's important to choose the aircraft that will give you the best advantage on each of the handicaps in a race," she said, explaining that good speed is not the only answer to winning a race.

AS A PILOT, she also must be exacting on navigation and aware of weather conditions when racing. "You use your own judgment in a race," she said, which makes winning all the more significant.

Court Considers Prospect Heights Incorporation

The question of whether Prospect Heights may be incorporated as a city without the consent of Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines goes to the Cook County circuit Court today.

A hearing is being held at 10 a.m. today before Judge Harry Comerford in the Chicago Civic Center to settle the consent question. The question is one of several objections filed with the court to the Prospect Heights incorporation proposal. The petition, calling for incorporation of portions of Prospect Heights, unincorporated Wheeling and unincorporated Arlington Heights, was filed earlier this year by leaders of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association.

A hearing to review the incorporation petition has been continued twice since March. It is now scheduled for a week from today. But the hearing will be continued again if any party appeals a ruling made by the judge today.

The consent question is the main point of contention in the case. Because of a contradiction in state statutes it is not certain whether the objection of a neighboring municipality will block the incorporation. A portion of the statutes indicates that the petitioners must secure the consent of all municipalities within one mile of the proposed city boundaries.

While some of the objectors claim that the Prospect Heights residents must secure the consent of neighboring municipalities, the residents say they do not. Atty. Donald Kreger, representing the Prospect Heights group, has asked the judge to make a ruling on the consent question before the hearing scheduled for next week. Kreger has filed a motion with the court to strike all objections dealing with the consent question.

"If the judge says we don't need the consent then the other objections will be considered at the next hearing," said Kreger. "If the judge doesn't rule in our favor then there is no point to holding a full hearing." Several months ago the leaders of the petitioners approached the villages of Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Arlington Heights with their incorporation proposal. But village officials told the leaders to return after they had more information about the incorporation.

Whether or not the petitioners will appeal a ruling requiring the municipalities' consent "is up to Kreger," according to Bob Poltzer, president of the homeowner's association. "We are prepared to meet the expense of an appeal if our attorney thinks it is necessary."

Approximately nine objections to the incorporation proposal have been filed with the court. The objectors include the villages of Arlington Heights and Wheeling, the River Trails Park District and private landowners. According to Kreger, many of the objectors have brought up the consent question.

In addition the objectors have questioned whether the incorporation petition meets population and area requirements in the statutes. The statutes require that the area be less than four square miles with a population of more than 7,500.

Some of the objectors have also charged that the area included in the proposed boundaries is not a contiguous territory because they contain a strip or corridor of land used to acquire the area east of Wolf Road.

Graduation Tonight At Hersey High

More than 550 John Hersey High School students will receive their diplomas tonight in the school gym in Arlington Heights.

The graduation ceremony will begin at 8 p.m. with a procession of the students, dressed in caps and gowns, into the gym. Terry Castro, president of the senior class, will introduce the senior class, and Cynthia Brown will give the invocation. Three students were selected by the speech department faculty to give speeches during the ceremony. They are Gail Newman, Judy Scherpelz and John Scherpelz.

High School Dist. 214 board members Richard Bachhuber and Joseph Schiffhauer will present the diplomas to the students.

Park Programs Signup Slated

Residents of the Prospect Heights Park District may register this week at two local schools for park programs.

The district summer recreation program will begin the week of June 20. Today residents may register for the programs at John Muir School from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. Registration will be held during the same hours at Dwight Eisenhower School tomorrow.

Residents may also register at the district office, at 9 N. Elmhurst Rd., in Prospect Heights from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Flag At Lions Pool Reported Burned

An American flag on a pole outside the entrance to Lions Park Pool in Mount Prospect Friday night was set on fire. Police said the flag was burned sometime before 11:30 p.m. Friday. Paul Caldwell, assistant park director, said the flag mistakenly was left hanging on the pole.

School Officials Ponder Parochial Aid

by KAREN RUGEN

Effects of the impending passage of the state parochial aid package this month are yet undetermined in most non-public schools serving Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights.

Many non-public school officials are not sure if the aid will be accepted by their school boards. And if it is, they do not know where the money will go or if it will affect tuition.

"It will be up to our church if we would accept the aid or not," said Warren Ford, principal at St. John Lutheran School, 1100 Linneman Rd. "The voters assembly (members of the congregation) would have to make the decision." Ford said he did not know when voters would be asked to decide.

Eighty students from kindergarten through eighth grade attend the school. Parents who are members of St. John's pay $50 a year per child. For those who do not live in the congregation, tuition charges are $200 for the first child and $100 for each additional child.

"Obviously that kind of money does not run a school," Ford said. He said school revenue also comes from donations from the congregation.

SISTER FABIOLA, principal at St. Emily Catholic School, 1400 E. Rand Rd., said she did not know if state aid would affect the school. The school board was scheduled to meet last night to discuss the issue.

Approximately 900 students attend the school that includes first through eighth grades. Tuition is $150 per family or $100 for a single child. Sister Fabiola said the remainder of the school's budget comes from Sunday collections.

"If there are no real restrictions on our present curriculum, then I suppose we would favor supporting the bill," said

Ronald Brandt, principal at St. Paul Lutheran School, 18 S. School St. "As long as it does not affect religious teaching."

Brandt said accepting state aid will have to be decided by the voters assembly. He said several members have voiced opposition to the proposal because of possible state control. However, he said the school board has already indicated it would accept parochial aid if there are no curriculum restrictions.

The school has approximately 300 students who would be affected by state aid. Each student must pay a $60 fee next (Continued on page 3)

504 Get Diplomas At Wheeling High School This Evening

High school diplomas will be awarded to 504 Wheeling High School seniors in graduation ceremonies this evening.

The program will be held at 8:15 in the Wheeling High School gymnasium.

Presenting the diplomas will be Dist. 214 school board members Arthur Aronson and Raymond Erickson. The Class of 1971 will be presented by Wheeling High School principal Tom Shirley.

Speeches will be given by three Wheeling High School seniors, representing the Senior Class.

The speakers will be Melissa Wyse, Wesley Kopf and Patricia Horcher. They were chosen to speak on the basis of tryouts among members of the Senior Class. The three students will be introduced by Patrick Gu ney, president of the Senior Class.

The Wheeling High School choir will sing three selections during the ceremonies.

These will include the class song of the Class of 1971, "He Ain't Heavy-He's My Brother," "The Days of Our Youth," and the Wheeling High School alma mater.

The invocation will be delivered by graduating senior Beverly Richardson. The color presentation will be made by the Wheeling High School naval junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC.)

Organist for the ceremonies will be Doris Deaton, a Wheeling High School counselor.

fall, an increase over last year's $50, for registration and textbook rental. Families who are not members of the congregation must pay $400 a year if their children attend the school.

BRANDT PREDICTED money from aid, if accepted, would go directly in the school's budget.

How state aid will be applied has not yet been discussed by the school board of St. Raymond Catholic School, 300 S. Elm-hurst Ave. "I don't think there's much doubt about accepting it because the Chicago Archdiocese has been fighting strenuously for it," said Thomas McGough, board president. However, he said the issue is still to be discussed along with "its full ramifications." He did not know where the money would go, if accepted.

Tuition at St. Raymond's has increased as much as 50 per cent for next fall. Families with one student at the school will have to pay $150, instead of last September's $100. Tuition for families with two children will go up to $200, an increase of $50. For families with more than two children, it will cost $225.

St. Alphonsus Catholic School, 411 N. Wheeling Rd., will "probably participate," according to School Board Pres. Myron Heimerle. Heimerle said the board will decide how parochial aid will affect the school as soon as it gets "more information on it."

HE SAID HE WAS NOT sure if the money would come in time for the fall for the approximately 700 students at the school. Last fall the school opened with kindergarten through eighth grades. Next fall, however, the kindergarten class will be eliminated because of financial difficulties and space needed for an expanded science program, according to Heimerle.

Parents of students attending St. Alphonsus must pay $150 per student and $200 for more than one child.

The Christian Liberty Academy, 203 E. Camp McDonald Rd., will not accept state aid for its students.

"The recently passed bills won't affect our school in any way shape or form," said the Rev. Paul Lindstrom, headmaster. "We won't accept it because we are opposed to all government intervention within the sector of private education."

Rev. Lindstrom predicted that state aid "will result in government control" of private schools. He said he has particular objection to an amendment included in the bill that requires that all teachers hired by private schools accepting aid be certified by July 1.

"Those teachers would have to learn the government philosophy of education," Rev. Lindstrom said. "They would present a government education and a progressive education — not the traditional education we teach here."

APPROXIMATELY 130 students attend the school which consists of pre-kindergarten to the twelfth grade. The school is financed by tuitions with a charge of $400 for kindergartners and $900 for students in the first through 12th grades. Families with more than one child receive a percentage discount.

The parochial bills providing grants not exceeding $60 per elementary child and $90 per high school student have passed in both the Illinois House of Representatives and the Senate. Gov. Richard Ogilvie has not yet signed the bill but has long been a supporter of parochial aid.

To obtain state aid, parents of nonpublic school children will have to submit an application for the grants to their schools by the opening day of school this fall. Nonpublic schools will be required to submit budgets specifying how much money will be needed for secular education to the superintendent's office.

In February, if a court injunction preventing implementation of the new law is not issued, non-public schools will receive one half the money requested on the parent applications. A second installment will be sent to the schools next summer.

River Trails Swim Pool Will Open On Saturday

The River Trails Park District swimming pool at Woodland Trails Park, Euclid and Wolf roads in Prospect Heights, will open at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Last-minute cleaning and repair work are in progress at the pool site, reported Park Director Marvin Weiss. "We have seeded the area surrounding the pool and we have paved the parking lot. The pool is filled now and operating without any mechanical problems."

In addition a $40,000 spotlight is being installed at the intersection of Sycamore Lane and Euclid Avenue across from the pool site. "The light will have a pedestrian button that the swimmers can push to stop traffic and cross Euclid."

The pool will be open from Saturday through Monday, Sept. 5. This is the first full season the pool will be in operation. Swim lessons will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon and 5 to 6 p.m. on Mondays through Saturdays. The pool will be open for general swimming from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. And an adult swim night will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays.

Residents may purchase swim passes at the district office, 303 S. Lee St., Prospect Heights, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The office will also be open this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The pass holders will be given a token which must be sewn on their bathing suits.

The tokens will cost district residents from $20 for a family of two to $25 for a family of seven or more. A single child must pay $10 for a token and a single adult must pay $12. Non-district residents must pay from $30 for a family of two to $40 for a family of seven or more. Weekday daily rates will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for children. On weekends and holidays the adult rate increases to $1.50.

"Red Cross swimming lessons will be taught by our qualified lifeguards and will be available to all children who have completed the first grade. There will be two four-week sessions from which to choose. The 45-minute lessons are held three days per week, at a cost of $4 per session. Session one begins June 28 and session two begins Aug. 2," said Weiss.

The beginners' course is designed to teach children elementary swimming strokes and to familiarize them with water. The classes are offered at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. The advanced beginners course is open to all age groups who have progressed from the beginner class and prepares them for the intermediate lessons. The class is offered at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Swimmers are introduced to the nine basic strokes in the intermediate class which is held at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. In the swimmers class, the students will perfect the nine basic strokes. The classes are held at 10 and 11 a.m.

The junior lifesaving class is open to children 12 to 15 who have passed a qualifying Red Cross swim test. The course, which will be offered at 9 a.m., is designed for water safety and beginning supervision. Children 16 years and up may take the senior life saving class if they pass the qualifying test. The class is offered at 9 a.m.

Swimmers who have passed the intermediate class may join a diving class. Swimming lessons for adults will be offered at 8 p.m. on Wednesdays, beginning June 23. One session will be held for eight weeks. The course is designed to teach beginning and intermediate swimming.

Swimmers 11 years or older who have an intermediate swimming card or pass a test may join a water ballet class. The swimmers will be tested from June 14 through June 23. The course consists of special training in synchronized swimming with a water show at the end of the season. The class will be held from 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, beginning July 12.

School Wage Scale Complete

Salary ranges for non-certified personnel during the 1971-72 fiscal year have been approved by the River Trails Dist. 26 School Board. Non-certified personnel are those who do not have teaching certificates.

The salaries of non-certified personnel are paid according to a range rather than a step system. Each employee's salary level is based on an evaluation of his performance and not just experience.

The salary range of only two positions were changed by the board. The range for building secretaries has been raised to $3.40 an hour. The secretaries work a 35-hour week for 10 months and will be paid from $2.50 to $3.40 per hour. The range for building custodians has been raised to $4 per hour. The custodians work a 40-hour week for 12 months and are paid from $3.25 to $4 an hour.

The salary ranges for all other non-certified personnel have remained the same as last year. Maintenance personnel work a 40-hour week for 12 months and are paid between $3.25 and $4.25 per hour. Building library clerks work a 35-hour week for 10 months and are paid from $2.35 to $2.90 an hour.

The secretary to the superintendent and the bookkeeper are paid between $3.20 to $4 an hour for a 40-hour week for 12 months. Other central office secretaries are paid between $2.50 and $3.30 per hour for a 40-hour week for 12 months.

Last year the salary ranges were divided into levels. Supt. Winston Harwood explained that they prefer to base salaries on a range because "with the other system you sometimes had to place employees between two levels."

Won't Charge Arson Suspects

Officials of the State's Attorney's office recommended yesterday that charges not be placed against two men in connection with the Thursday night fire at Arlington Park Race Track.

Arlington Heights police said they were told by the officials that there was not enough evidence to charge the two men with criminal damage to property and that the case should be dropped.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Racing Board will hear a report on the fire and on living conditions in the backstretch area where the fire was located.

John F. Loomer, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc., owners of Arlington Park, and members of the Arlington Heights police, Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and State Fire Marshal's office are expected to give their versions of the fire.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Maury English said yesterday that he concurs with the opinion of the state's attorney that charges not be made.

"I'm sure of the cause of the fire," English said. "The only thing is we can't prove it. There's not enough evidence to make the charges stick."

Police theorize that the fire, which started in the middle, west side of Barn 5A, a section containing hay and feed, was caused by a discarded cigarette and was not a result of arson, which had first been thought.

Police said the two men in question admitted drinking and smoking in an auto near the area of the barn where the fire started and at about the same time. But they denied throwing any lighted cigarettes from the car and they said they didn't know how the fire started.

The racing board has discussed the conditions in the backstretch area in the past, saying that improvements must be made. So far, two fireproof, concrete barns have been built and three others are under construction.

Bond Frees Jayne Slaying Suspect

A fifth suspect in the murder of George Jayne was released on bond yesterday after appearing before Judge James M. Bailey in Criminal Court.

Kenneth Hansen, 38, arrested Friday by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The operator of horse stables in rural Will County, Hansen was connected to the murder from a Cook County Grand Jury investigation.

Last week four other suspects in the Jayne murder were bound over to the grand jury after testimony from a state witness, Melvin Adams. Being held in Cook County Jail without bond are Silas Jayne, brother of George; Joseph LaPlaca, an Elgin resident and handyman for Silas; Edwin Nefeld, former head of detectives for the Markham police; and Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer.

Details of Hansen's connection with the murder were not made available at yesterday's hearing, but it's believed his name was included in letters left by George Jayne to be opened "in the event of violent death."

HIS CASE WAS continued until June 14.

Hansen's attorney, Arthur J. O'Donnell, filed a motion to reduce bail based on Hansen's lack of a criminal record.

He told the judge, "This man has no prior record, has never been charged or in jail before."

O'Donnell also charged that Hansen's arrest is a violation of his constitutional right.

Nicholas Motherway, assistant state's attorney, said his office was ready to proceed with the case yesterday, but

Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Motherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said Hansen was among more than 100 persons questioned after George Jayne was killed in his Inverness home on Oct. 26, 1970.

Hansen was questioned because of his connection with Silas, but denied any knowledge of the murder, according to Ortiz.

Flags To Be At Half Staff; Services Today For Al Volz

Flags will be at half staff when a motorcycle police escort accompanies the funeral procession tomorrow for Albert F. Volz, "the first citizen of the Northwest suburbs."

The 100-year-old resident of Arlington Heights died Saturday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. He was born in Arlington

Heights in 1871, when the village was called Dunton.

A man with a sharp mind, Mr. Volz remained alert and active until the last few months. Until late last year he was seen daily in downtown Arlington Heights when he took his regular walk wearing his trademark, a Stetson hat, and carrying a white cane.

The former mayor of Arlington Heights as well as a state representative will be buried with a Stetson hat in his casket. He adopted the trademark after he visited Denver Colo., in 1935.

Palbearers for the funeral will include State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights); John Woods, former village president of Arlington Heights; Jack Walsh, present village president; L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager; Virgil Horath, executive director of the Historical Museum of Arlington Heights; and Fred Howe, a relative of Mr. Volz.

VOLZ'S CRYSTAL CLEAR memory was a fund of information about the early years of the village and the area. His reminiscences at various times have included recalling how the village board installed the first public water system in 1903.

Despite the failure of a referendum, the village board, of which Mr. Volz was a member, decided to install the system by using excess tax funds and saloon fees.

The public outcry was tremendous but Mr. Volz said about 60 years later, "No, they didn't like taxes and special assessments any more than they do today — probably a great deal less. But if you have vision and spend the taxpayers' money for the things essential for progress... well, they'll come around."

Mr. Volz has been credited with originating the idea of Northwest Highway and the creation of the Arlington Heights

Park District.

Mr. Volz's hard-line political attitude won him every election in which he ran. He was elected to the Arlington Heights Village Board in 1899 and reelected in 1901 and 1903. He was elected mayor of the village in 1907 and reelection in 1913. He also served on the Arlington Heights Board of Education from 1902 through 1914. He served as a state representative, being elected in 1916 and serving until 1922.

MR. VOLZ'S BODY WILL lie in state at the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunton Ave., from noon to 2 p.m. tomorrow. Funeral services will begin at 2 p.m. at the church.

Masonic services will be conducted at 8 p.m. today at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. These services will be conducted by Palatine Lodge 314.

St. Paul Lutheran Will Graduate 47

Forty-seven students will be graduated Friday from St. Paul Lutheran School in Mount Prospect. The ceremony begins at 7:30 p.m. at the school, 18 S. School St.

Richard Percy, assistant superintendent for Mount Prospect School Dist. 57, will speak. Speakers for the class will be Debbie Callahan and Mars Rautenberg.

School Officials Ponder Approval Of Parochial Aid

by KAREN RUGEN

Effects of the impending passage of the state parochial aid package this month are yet undetermined in most non-public schools serving Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights.

Many non-public school officials are not sure if the aid will be accepted by their school boards. And if it is, they do not know where the money will go or if it will affect tuition.

"It will be up to our church if we would accept the aid or not," said Warren Ford, principal at St. John Lutheran School, 1100 Linneman Rd. "The voters assembly (members of the congregation) would have to make the decision," Ford said he did not know when voters would be asked to decide.

Eighty students from kindergarten through eighth grade attend the school. Parents who are members of St. John's pay $50 a year per child. For those who do not live in the congregation, tuition charges are $200 for the first child and $100 for each additional child.

"Obviously that kind of money does not run a school," Ford said. He said school revenue also comes from donations from the congregation.

SISTER FABIOLA, principal at St. Emily Catholic School, 1400 E. Rand Rd., said she did not know if state aid would affect the school. The school board was scheduled to meet last night to discuss the issue.

Approximately 900 students attend the school that includes first through eighth grades. Tuition is $150 per family or $100 for a single child. Sister Fabiola said the remainder of the school's budget comes from Sunday collections.

"If there are no real restrictions on our present curriculum, then I suppose we would favor supporting the bill," said Ronald Brandt, principal at St. Paul Lutheran School, 18 S. School St. "As long as it does not affect religious teaching."

Brandt said accepting state aid will have to be decided by the voters assembly. He said several members have voiced opposition to the proposal because of possible state control. However, he said the school board has already indicated it would accept parochial aid if there are no curriculum restrictions.

The school has approximately 300 students who would be affected by state aid. Each student must pay a $60 fee next

Graduation Tonight At Hersey High

More than 350 John Hersey High School students will receive their diplomas tonight in the school gym, in Arlington Heights.

The graduation ceremony will begin at 8 p.m. with a procession of the students, dressed in caps and gowns, into the gym. Terry Castre, president of the senior class, will introduce the senior class, and Cynthia Brown will give the invocation.

Three students were selected by the speech department faculty to give speeches during the ceremony. They are Gail Newman, Judy Scherpeiz and John Scherpeiz.

High School Dist. 214 board members Richard Bachhuber and Joseph Schiffhauer will present the diplomas to the students.

Chamber To Hold Government Night

"Village Government Night" is the theme of this week's Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Village Pres., Robert Teichert, and the six trustees, have been invited to meet with Chamber members at the meeting.

"We think it's a good idea to hear what the board members have to say. We want to know their future plans for the village and how they will affect the business community," explained Matthew Pryan, executive secretary of the Chamber.

The meeting will be held tomorrow night at the Mount Prospect Holiday Inn, 200 E. Rand Rd. Cocktails will be served at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Question Is Whether Neighbors Must Agree

Court To Study Incorporation Plan

The question of whether Prospect Heights may be incorporated as a city without the consent of Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines goes to the Cook County circuit Court today.

A hearing is being held at 10 a.m. today before Judge Harry Comerford in the Chicago Civic Center to settle the consent question. The question is one of several objections filed with the court to the Prospect Heights incorporation proposal. The petition, calling for incorporation of portions of Prospect Heights, unincorporated Wheeling and unincorporated Arlington Heights, was filed earlier this year by leaders of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association.

A hearing to review the incorporation petition has been continued twice since March. It is now scheduled for a week from today. But the hearing will be continued again if any party appeals a ruling made by the judge today.

The consent question is the main point of contention in the case. Because of a contradiction in state statutes it is not certain whether the objection of a neighboring municipality will block the incorporation. A portion of the statutes indicates that the petitioners must secure the consent of all municipalities within one mile of the proposed city boundaries.

While some of the objectors claim that the Prospect Heights residents must secure the consent of neighboring municipalities, the residents say they do not. Atty. Donald Kreger, representing the Prospect Heights group, has asked the judge to make a ruling on the consent question before the hearing scheduled for next week. Kreger has filed a motion with the court to strike all objections dealing with the consent question.

"If the judge says we don't need the consent then the other objections will be considered at the next hearing," said Kreger. "If the judge doesn't rule in our favor then there is no point to holding a full hearing."

Late Signup For Sports OK

Late registrations will be accepted for the Junior Sports Jamboree to be held Saturday by the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

In the Jamboree area children will compete in 18 different field events and 26 track events. All children 10 through 15 years old who have not participated in another area's jamboree are eligible to enter.

Deadline for regular registration was last weekend. However, the Jaycees have announced that youths can turn in completed registration forms Saturday morning at the high school.

Forms are available at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines. They will also be available at the high school the morning of the jamboree. For a youth to compete in the events, however, the registration form must be signed by a parent or guardian.

On Saturday, registration will begin at 8 a.m. with the events to start a half hour later.

Winners of the local event will be eligible to participate in the regional event, to be held July 17 at Prospect High School. The state competition will be held in August at Joliet.

Forest View High School's Graduation Tonight

Almost 550 seniors at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights will graduate tonight in an outdoor commencement under noiseless skies, weather and airport conditions permitting.

Unlike previous years, ceremonies will be held in the football stadium this year. The commencement begins at 8:15 p.m.

In connection with the outdoor ceremony, the manager of O'Hare Airport has agreed to divert flights around the Arlington Heights area during the time of the graduation, weather conditions permitting.

"We will cooperate with the school in any possible way as long as it goes along with safety," said J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager. He said that if the wind is calm, planes can be rerouted east or west. However, if there is a strong north-west or southeast wind, pilots would have to follow regular patterns for safety reasons.

"We just hope for the graduates' sake that the wind won't be strong," he said.

TO BEGIN THE ceremony, graduate Cheryl Jorgensen will deliver the invocation. Representative Assembly president David Ray will present senior speakers Rich Karcher and David Bushart.

Following presentation of the class of 1971 by principal Lawrence Jenness, High School Dist. 214 Board Pres. John Costello and Board Member Richard Stamm will award the diplomas.

Valedictorians of the graduating class are Gayle Tolf, 810 Deborah Ln., Kathy Betterman, 1506 Willow Ln., both of Mount Prospect; and Donald Germano, 2307 Willow Ln., Rolling Meadows. For four years at Forest View they have maintained perfect A averages. The three will be distinguished by colored cords over one of their shoulders. Graduates in the National Honor Society will wear gold tassels on their mortarboards.

The school's mixed choir will provide music for the ceremony, under the direction of Fred Schimmelmann, choral director.

The outdoor stadium will hold 2,800 spectators and graduates. Each graduate is allowed four guests and seats will be on a non-reserved basis.

Forest View is located at 2121 S. Geobert Rd., Arlington Heights.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Tweed-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a small's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

Some Not Sure They'll Accept Funds

School Officials Ponder Parochial Aid

fall, an increase over last year's $50, for registration and textbook rental. Families who are not members of the congregation must pay $400 a year if their children attend the school.

BRANDT PREDICTED money from aid, if accepted, would go directly in the school's budget.

How state aid will be applied has not yet been discussed by the school board of St. Raymond Catholic School, 300 S. Elmhurst Ave. "I don't think there's much doubt about accepting it because the Chicago Archdiocese has been fighting strenuously for it," said Thomas McGough, board president.

However, he said the issue is still to be discussed along with "its full ramifications." He did not know where the money would go, if accepted.

Tuition at St. Raymond's has increased as much as 50 per cent for next fall. Families with one student at the school will have to pay $150, instead of last September's $100. Tuition for families with two children will go up to $200, an increase of $50. For families with more than two children, it will cost $225.

St. Alphonsus Catholic School, 411 N. Wheeling Rd., will "probably participate," according to School Board Pres. Myron Heimerle. Heimerle said the board will decide how parochial aid will affect the school as soon as it gets "more information on it."

HE SAID HE WAS NOT sure if the money would come in time for the fall for the approximately 700 students at the school. Last fall the school opened with kindergarten through eighth grades. Next fall, however, the kindergarten class will be eliminated because of financial difficulties and space needed for an expanded science program, according to Heimerle.

Parents of students attending St. Alphonsus must pay $150 per student and $200 for more than one child.

The Christian Liberty Academy, 203 E. Camp McDonald Rd., will not accept state aid for its students.

"The recently passed bills won't affect our school in any way shape or form," said the Rev. Paul Lindstrom, headmaster. "We won't accept it because we are opposed to all government intervention within the sector of private education."

Rev. Lindstrom predicted that state aid "will result in government control" of private schools. He said he has particular objection to an amendment included in the bill that requires that all teachers hired by private schools accepting aid be certified by July 1.

"Those teachers would have to learn the government philosophy of education," Rev. Lindstrom said. "They would present a government education and a progressive education — not the traditional education we teach here."

APPROXIMATELY 130 students attend the school which consists of pre-kindergarten to the twelfth grade. The school is financed by tuitions with a charge of $400 for kindergartners and $900 for students in the first through 12th grades. Families with more than one child receive a percentage discount.

The parochial bills providing grants not exceeding $60 per elementary child and $90 per high school student have passed in both the Illinois House of Representatives and the Senate. Gov. Richard Ogilvie has not yet signed the bill but has long been a supporter of parochial aid.

To obtain state aid, parents of nonpublic school children will have to submit an application for the grants to their schools by the opening day of school this fall. Nonpublic schools will be required to submit budgets specifying how much money will be needed for secular education to the superintendent's office.

In February, if a court injunction preventing implementation of the new law is not issued, non-public schools will receive one half the money requested on the parent applications. A second installment will be sent to the schools next summer.

River Trails Swim Pool Will Open On Saturday

The River Trails Park District swimming pool at Woodland Trails Park, Euclid and Wolf roads in Prospect Heights, will open at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Last-minute cleaning and repair work are in progress at the pool site, reported Park Director Marvin Weiss. "We have seeded the area surrounding the pool and we have paved the parking lot. The pool is filled now and operating without any mechanical problems."

In addition a $40,000 spotlight is being installed at the intersection of Sycamore Lane and Euclid Avenue across from the pool site. "The light will have a pedestrian button that the swimmers can push to stop traffic and cross Euclid."

The pool will be open from Saturday through Monday, Sept. 6. This is the first full season the pool will be in operation. Swim lessons will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon and 5 to 6 p.m. on Mondays through Saturdays. The pool will be open for general swimming from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. And an adult swim night will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays.

Residents may purchase swim passes at the district office, 303 S. Lee St., Prospect Heights, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The office will also be open this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The pass holders will be given a token which must be worn on their bathing suits.

The tokens will cost district residents from $20 for a family of two to $25 for a family of seven or more. A single child must pay $10 for a token and a single adult must pay $12. Non-district residents must pay from $30 for a family of two to $40 for a family of seven or more. Weekday daily rates will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for children. On weekends and holidays the adult rate increases to $1.50.

"Red Cross swimming lessons will be taught by our qualified lifeguards and will be available to all children who have completed the first grade. There will be two four-week sessions from which to choose. The 45-minute lessons are held three days per week, at a cost of $4 per session. Session one begins June 28 and session two begins Aug. 2," said Weiss.

The beginners' course is designed to teach children elementary swimming strokes and to familiarize them with water. The classes are offered at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. The advanced beginners course is open to all age groups who have progressed from the beginner class and prepares them for the intermediate lessons. The class is offered at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Swimmers are introduced to the nine basic strokes in the intermediate class which is held at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. In the swimmers class, the students will perfect the nine basic strokes. The classes are held at 10 and 11 a.m.

The junior lifesaving class is open to children 12 to 15 who have passed a qualifying Red Cross swim test. The course, which will be offered at 9 a.m., is designed for water safety and beginning supervision. Children 16 years and up may take the senior life saving class if they pass the qualifying test. The class is offered at 9 a.m.

Swimmers who have passed the intermediate class may join a diving class. Swimming lessons for adults will be offered at 8 p.m. on Wednesdays, beginning June 23. One session will be held for eight weeks. The course is designed to teach beginning and intermediate swimming.

Swimmers 11 years or older who have an intermediate swimming card or pass a test may join a water ballet class. The swimmers will be tested from June 14 through June 23. The course consists of special training in synchronized swimming with a water show at the end of the season. The class will be held from 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, beginning July 12.

School Wage Scale Complete

Salary ranges for non-certified personnel during the 1971-72 fiscal year have been approved by the River Trails Dist. 26 School Board. Non-certified personnel are those who do not have teaching certificates.

The salaries of non-certified personnel are paid according to a range rather than a step system. Each employee's salary level is based on an evaluation of his performance and not just experience.

The salary range of only two positions were changed by the board. The range for building secretaries has been raised to $3.40 an hour. The secretaries work a 35-hour week for 10 months and will be paid from $2.50 to $3.40 per hour. The range for building custodians has been raised to $4 per hour. The custodians work a 40-hour week for 12 months and are paid from $3.25 to $4 an hour.

The salary ranges for all other non-certified personnel have remained the same as last year. Maintenance personnel work a 40-hour week for 12 months and are paid between $3.25 and $4.25 per hour. Building library clerks work a 35-hour week for 10 months and are paid from $2.35 to $2.80 an hour.

The secretary to the superintendent and the bookkeeper are paid between $3.20 to $4 an hour for a 40-hour week for 12 months. Other central office secretaries are paid between $2.50 and $3.30 per hour for a 40-hour week for 12 months.

Last year the salary ranges were divided into levels. Supt. Winston Harwood explained that they prefer to base salaries on a range because "with the other system you sometimes had to place employees between two levels."

Won't Charge Arson Suspects

Officials of the State's Attorney's office recommended yesterday that charges not be placed against two men in connection with the Thursday night fire at Arlington Park Race Track.

Arlington Heights police said they were told by the officials that there was not enough evidence to charge the two men with criminal damage to property and that the case should be dropped.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Racing Board will hear a report on the fire and on living conditions in the backstretch area where the fire was located.

John F. Loomer, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc., owners of Arlington Park, and members of the Arlington Heights police, Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and State Fire Marshal's office are expected to give their versions of the fire.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Maury English said yesterday that he concurs with the opinion of the state's attorney that charges not be made.

"I'm sure of the cause of the fire," English said. "The only thing is we can't prove it. There's not enough evidence to make the charges stick."

Police theorize that the fire, which started in the middle, west side of Barn 5A, a section containing hay and feed, was caused by a discarded cigarette and was not a result of arson, which had first been thought.

Police said the two men in question admitted drinking and smoking in an auto near the area of the barn where the fire started and at about the same time. But they denied throwing any lighted cigarettes from the car and they said they didn't know how the fire started.

The racing board has discussed the conditions in the backstretch area in the past, saying that improvements must be made. So far, two fireproof, concrete barns have been built and three others are under construction.

Bond Frees Jayne Slaying Suspect

A fifth suspect in the murder of George Jayne was released on bond yesterday after appearing before Judge James M. Bailey in Criminal Court.

Kenneth Hansen, 38, arrested Friday by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The operator of horse stables in rural Will County, Hansen was connected to the murder from a Cook County Grand Jury investigation.

Last week four other suspects in the Jayne murder were bound over to the grand jury after testimony from a state witness, Melvin Adams Being held in Cook County Jail without bond are Silas Jayne, brother of George; Joseph LaPlaca, an Elgin resident and handyman for Silas; Edwin Nefeld, former head of detectives for the Markham police; and Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer.

Details of Hansen's connection with the murder were not made available at yesterday's hearing, but it's believed his name was included in letters left by George Jayne to be opened "in the event of violent death."

HIS CASE WAS continued until June 14.

Hansen's attorney, Arthur J. O'Donnell, filed a motion to reduce bail based on Hansen's lack of a criminal record.

He told the judge, "This man has no prior record, has never been charged or in jail before."

O'Donnell also charged that Hansen's arrest is a violation of his constitutional right.

Nicholas Metherway, assistant state's attorney, said his office was ready to proceed with the case yesterday, but

Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Metherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said Hansen was among more than 100 persons questioned after George Jayne was killed in his Inverness home on Oct. 28, 1970.

Hansen was questioned because of his connection with Silas, but denied any knowledge of the murder, according to Ortiz.

Flags To Be At Half Staff; Services Today For Al Volz

Flags will be at half staff when a motorcycle police escort accompanies the funeral procession tomorrow for Albert F. Volz, "the first citizen of the Northwest suburbs."

The 100-year-old resident of Arlington Heights died Saturday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. He was born in Arlington

Heights in 1871, when the village was called Dunton.

A man with a sharp mind, Mr. Volz remained alert and active until the last few months. Until late last year he was seen daily in downtown Arlington Heights when he took his regular walk wearing his trademark, a Stetson hat, and carrying a white cane.

The former mayor of Arlington Heights as well as a state representative will be buried with a Stetson hat in his casket. He adopted the trademark after he visited Denver Colo., in 1935.

Palbearers for the funeral will include State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights); John Woods, former village president of Arlington Heights; Jack Walsh, present village president; L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager; Virgil Horath, executive director of the Historical Museum of Arlington Heights; and Fred Howe, a relative of Mr. Volz.

VOLZ'S CRYSTAL CLEAR memory was a fund of information about the early years of the village and the area. His reminiscences at various times have included recalling how the village board installed the first public water system in 1903.

Despite the failure of a referendum, the village board, of which Mr. Volz was a member, decided to install the system by using excess tax funds and saloon fees.

The public outcry was tremendous but Mr. Volz said about 60 years later, "No, they didn't like taxes and special assessments any more than they do today — probably a great deal less. But if you have vision and spend the taxpayers' money for the things essential for progress... well, they'll come around."

Mr. Volz has been credited with originating the idea of Northwest Highway and the creation of the Arlington Heights

Park District.

Mr. Volz's hard-line political attitude won him every election in which he ran. He was elected to the Arlington Heights Village Board in 1899 and reelected in 1901 and 1903. He was elected mayor of the village in 1907 and reelection in 1913. He also served on the Arlington Heights Board of Education from 1902 through 1914. He served as a state representative, being elected in 1916 and serving until 1922.

MR. VOLZ'S BODY WILL lie in state at the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunton Ave., from noon to 2 p.m. tomorrow. Funeral services will begin at 2 p.m. at the church.

Masonic services will be conducted at 3 p.m. today at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. These services will be conducted by Palatine Lodge 314.

St. Paul Lutheran Will Graduate 47

Forty-seven students will be graduated Friday from St. Paul Lutheran School in Mount Prospect. The ceremony begins at 7:30 p.m. at the school, 18 S. School St.

Richard Percy, assistant superintendent for Mount Prospect School Dist. 57, will speak. Speakers for the class will be Debbie Callahan and Mara Rautenberg.

Low-Income Housing Panel May Be Revived

The joint study committee on low- and moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights may be resurrected following comments made at last night's Arlington Heights Village Board meeting.

Frank Steiner, a resident of Chicago and a representative of Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee, asked the village board why the study committee had been dormant for about two months. He was answered with an apology from one member of the joint committee, which includes members of the village board and the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

In a prepared statement, Steiner said CMCC was concerned because the study committee "as far as we can determine has no announced plans to meet soon."

STEINER SAID the lack of meetings is particularly important because when the committee last met it was discussing the holding of a hearing in which testimony on low- and moderate-income housing would be given "by the very people who need it, but who now live throughout the Chicago area, many in the inner city itself."

"It was as though the committee was trying to correct one of the basic injustices of the suburbs: the fact that decisions made in this village hall, about the use of land in this village, affect the lives of people in many other places by restricting their access to jobs and houses but that those people had never had a say in those decisions," Steiner said.

The CMCC representative ended his presentation by asking when the committee would meet. CMCC is the group that originally asked the clerics of St. Viator to use a portion of their land in Arlington Heights for development of low- and moderate-income housing. A plan for moderate-income housing on 15 acres of land adjacent to St. Viator High School, 1213 E. Oakton, is presently still pending before the plan commission.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh asked Steiner if he had talked to the committee chairman to get his question answered and then Steiner could have saved the board "needless and facetious rhetoric."

AT THIS POINT, Trustee Dwight Walton, who is a member of the joint study committee, said he would have to take exception to Walsh's comments. Walton said he would have to take part of the responsibility for the committee not meeting.

Walton said he feels some pressure should be brought to encourage the study committee to meet and continue its work. He suggested that committee chairman William Hannum should be asked, "Do you want to fulfill your responsibility as chairman of this committee or step down?"

Trustee Theodore Salinsky said the issue of low- and moderate-income housing was important enough that a "bug" should be put in the chairman's ear.

In other action, the board approved a request for a land-use variation to permit a coffeehouse youth center at 2133 S. Arlington Heights Rd. The property presently includes a single-family home and is just north of Fritzel's Restaurant.

David Foster, a resident of Mount Prospect, presented a petition and explained that the coffeehouse would be staffed by older high school and college students.

SUNDAY'S OPEN HOUSE was held at Arlington Park Race Track, Arlington Heights, despite Thursday night's fire in which 33 horses died and $500,000 in damages were caused.

More than 17,000 people attended the open house which included demonstrations, movies and exhibits of various aspects of racing.

Dermid Is Named

Forrest D. Dermid, 2602 N. Brighton Place, has been named as an honorable mention award winner in the Northern Illinois Gas Co. sponsored school safety poster contest.

The poster contest, highlighting art work and safety slogans, was for students in elementary grades one through four. Dermid attends Ivy Hill School.

Two-Car Accident

Three Killed, Six Injured

Three persons were killed and six others injured in a two-car auto accident Saturday evening at the intersection of Rtes. 58 and 59, Hanover Township.

Killed were Edward W. Baggs, 70, of 6864 Northwest Hwy., Chicago, and two of his grandchildren, James Bosworth, 16, and Ellen Bosworth, 13, children of Mr. and Mrs. Elton W. Bosworth, of 818 E. Talbot, Arlington Heights.

Bosworth, 48, driver of one car, is in satisfactory condition at Sherman Hospital, Elgin, with a fractured ankle. Also injured were his wife Dolores, 42, with a broken wrist; Maria Wall, 62, of 6137 N. Austin, Chicago, with abrasions; Karen Bosworth, 17, another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bosworth; Joseph Waineright, 47, of 432 Fremont St., Elgin, driver of the second car, with a fractured and dislocated hip; and Willie Curry, 41, of 437 Fremont, Elgin, a passenger in Waineright's car, with lacerations of the shoulder and forehead.

Karen Bosworth is in improved condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, Elgin. Maria Wall was treated and released at Sherman Hospital, where Waineright is in good condition. Mrs. Bosworth and Curry are listed as satisfactory. Police said the Bosworth auto was westbound on Rte. 58 when it turned left in front of the eastbound Waineright car. While no charges have been placed, action is pending, said State Police of District 3, Des Plaines, who investigated.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Twee-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a snail's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

LI. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 250,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,900 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

Working Toward A Dream

Gives Up Teaching
To Scrub Floors

By WANDALYN RICE

Errol Wheeler is a man with dreams and he's willing to scrub floors to make them come true.

He is a teacher at Park School, 306 W. Park, Arlington Heights, and without modesty, he describes himself as "a good one." But he is also owner, manager, public relations man and foreman for the Wheeler Maintenance Co., 1800 E. Northwest Highway.

And this coming year he will take a leave of absence from his fifth grade classroom in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 to run the business full-time.

But, even though he is leaving teaching, Wheeler hopes to be back someday on a basis that will make him more comfortable.

"I'VE BEEN CAUGHT in what I call a triangle of pressure between school, a part-time job and home. At school I see kids who need their parents and I have kids and find that I'm never home either," he explained.

As a result, he is going to devote full-time to making the maintenance firm go. He already has a contract to clean the Arlington Heights Post Office and some small businesses and plans to concentrate on public buildings.

The firm started as an outgrowth of the many odd jobs he has held for years, as a carpenter, janitor and many other things, he said.

For the past three years he has hired out his services to clean apartment buildings and this year he took a job with a large maintenance company.

"As I got into it, I realized the great need for a janitorial service that not only cleans buildings but communicates with the building owner," he said, adding that this prompted him to form his corporation.

HE HOPES TO MAKE his company a total maintenance company and believes, while making a fair profit, he can frequently underbid larger companies.

"One of the difficult things is that if you come in with a lower bid, people tend to think maybe the work will be worse. It's hard to get the cycle going," Wheeler explained.

If he can get the cycle going, he hopes eventually to be able to return part-time to the classroom, and to be a better teacher because of it.

One thing he would like to do is have an aide, like the parent volunteers who often assist teachers now, on a full-time basis — and he would pay for the service.

"One thing I know about myself is that I like to teach, but I don't like the mundane routine like recording grades. And many times when I'm working with a kid on a one-to-one basis, it's good to have someone else in the room so you don't have to be interrupted," he explained.

As a teacher, he said, he has always been available after school to talk to students and help them with their problems. "I became a teacher because I'm honestly concerned about the development of children. Teaching for me is more than just curriculum," he said.

HIS BIGGEST SINGLE success as a teacher, he said, was helping a little girl who was an "F" student and who is now on the honor roll. "I turned her on and told her she could do it. She went home and studied and aced a test. Then she knew she could do it."

And, no matter where the maintenance business takes him, he hopes to stay close to that. "It's a two-way street," he said. "I give the kids something, but I get things from them too. Children are educational little creatures."

Graduation
Tonight At Hersey High

More than 550 John Hersey High School students will receive their diplomas tonight in the school gym, in Arlington Heights.

The graduation ceremony will begin at 8 p.m. with a procession of the students, dressed in caps and gowns, into the gym. Terry Castro, president of the senior class, will introduce the senior class, and Cynthia Brown will give the invocation.

Three students were selected by the speech department faculty to give speeches during the ceremony. They are Gail Newman, Judy Scherpelz and John Scherpelz.

High School Dist. 214 board members Richard Bachhuber and Joseph Schiffhauer will present the diplomas to the students.

Teen Nights Slated

Teen nights are held Tuesdays and Fridays each week at Frontier Park, Kennicott Drive and Palatine Road.

Games, table tennis, music and open-gym are a few of the activities available for teenagers from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Residents interested in the free activities may drop in for the program because no pre-registration is required.

Refreshments are available during the evening and the program is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Relocate Coffeehouse

The Lost and Found a coffee house formerly located in Mount Prospect, has been relocated at 2113 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

It will open June 11 for those 18 years and older, and on June 12 for high schoolers.

Admission is 75 cents and there will be live entertainment both nights from 8 to 11 p.m.

Fifth Suspect
In Jayne Case
Free On Bond

A fifth suspect in the murder of George Jayne was released on bond yesterday after appearing before Judge James M. Bailey in Criminal Court.

Kenneth Hansen, 38, arrested Friday by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

The operator of horse stables in rural Will County, Hansen was connected to the murder from a Cook County Grand Jury investigation.

Last week four other suspects in the Jayne murder were bound over to the grand jury after testimony from a state witness, Melvin Adams. Being held in Cook County Jail without bond are Silas Jayne, brother of George; Joseph LaPlaca, an Elgin resident and handyman for Silas; Edwin Nefeld, former head of detectives for the Markham police; and Julius Barnes, a Chicago laborer.

Details of Hansen's connection with the murder were not made available at yesterday's hearing, but it's believed his name was included in letters left by George Jayne to be opened "in the event of violent death."

HIS CASE WAS continued until June 14.

Hansen's attorney, Arthur J. O'Donnell, filed a motion to reduce bail based on Hansen's lack of a criminal record.

He told the judge, "This man has no prior record, has never been charged or in jail before."

O'Donnell also charged that Hansen's arrest is a violation of his constitutional right.

Nicholas Motherway, assistant state's attorney, said his office was ready to proceed with the case yesterday, but Judge Bailey granted a continuance to O'Donnell.

Motherway also revealed that $155,000 in certified cashier checks was found in Hansen's possession at the time of his arrest.

Wayside Students Receive Diplomas

The eighth grade graduating class of the Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic School, Arlington Heights, received their diplomas from the Rev. John J. Mackin recently.

The graduation of 151 students included the presentation of special awards that followed an evening Mass.

Forest View High School's Graduation This Evening

Almost 550 seniors at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights will graduate tonight in an outdoor commencement under noiseless skies, weather and airport conditions permitting.

Unlike previous years, ceremonies will be held in the football stadium this year. The commencement begins at 8:15 p.m.

In connection with the outdoor ceremony, the manager of O'Hare Airport has agreed to divert flights around the Arlington Heights area during the time of the graduation, weather conditions permitting.

"We will cooperate with the school in any possible way as long as it goes along with safety," said J. Patrick Dunne, airport manager. He said that if the wind is calm, planes can be rerouted east or west. However, if there is a strong north-west or southeast wind, pilots would have to follow regular patterns for safety reasons.

"We just hope for the graduates' sake that the wind won't be strong," he said.

TO BEGIN THE ceremony, graduate Cheryl Jorgensen will deliver the invocation. Representative Assembly president David Ray will present senior speakers Rich Karcher and David Bushart.

Following presentation of the class of 1971 by principal Lawrence Jenness, High School Dist. 214 Board Pres. John Costello and Board Member Richard Stamm will award the diplomas.

Valedictorians of the graduating class are Gayle Tolf, 810 Deborah Ln., Kathy Betterman, 1506 Willow Ln., both of Mount Prospect; and Donald Germano, 2307 Willow Ln., Rolling Meadows. For four years at Forest View they have maintained perfect A averages. The three will be distinguished by colored cords over one of their shoulders. Graduates in the National Honor Society will wear gold tassels on their mortarboards.

The school's mixed choir will provide music for the ceremony, under the direction of Fred Schimmelman, choral director.

The outdoor stadium will hold 2,800 spectators and graduates. Each graduate is allowed four guests and seats will be on a non-reserved basis.

Forest View is located at 2121 S. Goebert Rd., Arlington Heights.

504 Get Diplomas Tonight
At Wheeling High School

High school diplomas will be awarded to 504 Wheeling High School seniors in graduation ceremonies this evening.

The program will be held at 8:15 in the Wheeling High School gymnasium.

Presenting the diplomas will be Dist. 214 school board members Arthur Aronson and Raymond Erickson. The Class of 1971 will be presented by Wheeling High School principal Tom Shirley.

Speeches will be given by three Wheeling High School seniors, representing the Senior Class.

The speakers will be Melissa Wyse, Wesley Kopf and Patricia Horcher. They were chosen to speak on the basis of tryouts among members of the Senior Class. The three students will be introduced by Patrick Guiney, president of the Senior Class.

The Wheeling High School choir will sing three selections during the ceremonies.

These will include the class song of the Class of 1971, "He Ain't Heavy-He's My Brother," "The Days of Our Youth," and the Wheeling High School alma mater.

The invocation will be delivered by graduating senior Beverly Richardson. The color presentation will be made by the Wheeling High School naval junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC.) Organist for the ceremonies will be Doris Deaton, a Wheeling High School counselor.

MRS. ROBERT HIGGINS leaves the box office of the new Arlington Park Theater with the first four tickets sold for the theater's opening June 30. Obviously pleased with the sale is Charles Booth, co-producer of the legitimate, theater-in-the-round. The theater's opening production will be "Relatively Speaking," and will star Jean Fontaine and Ray Milland.

U.S. To Restudy Plan For New Post Office Here

The U.S. Postal Service will re-examine in several months its building and site plans for a new post office in Des Plaines, Ald. Charles Bolek (3rd), said last night.

Bolek, who has been a leader in a two-year effort to persuade the postal service not to build a post office on an Oakton and Executive Way site, told the city council that he met recently in Washington, D.C., with postal officials, and that they told him a review of plans would be made.

However, Bolek said, the federal postal system is now in "some confusion" as it reorganizes into a private corporation. Postal authorities could only say the review would come in several months.

The city council has asked postal officials in the past to build the new post office at Lee Street and Forest Avenue, but the federal government has balked at the alternate location, saying the site will cost $50,000 more than the Oakton-Executive Way property it already owns.

MAYOR HERBERT BEHREL suggested that the city should send a letter of inquiry to keep the city's effort for a Lee-Forest post office at the attention of postal authorities.

Bolek said three members of the board of acquisition and review of the postal service also told him the new post office would probably be larger than the 55,000 square feet described in earlier plans, and the new post office might be funded from publicly sold bonds.

Bolek also said post offices might be sold to municipalities or government agencies. He said postal officials weren't prepared to tell how much bigger the new post office might be.

He said the discussion with postal officials had been "most helpful" and that they had agreed with him on some points, and disagreed on others. He said the postal service file on correspondence with the city over two years' time was approximately one foot thick.

THE NEW POST office has been under discussion to provide a way of consolidating postal operations at four locations, three in Des Plaines and one in Rosemont. The city council has threatened suit and has discussed changing the post office to a special-use zoning, which would require city approval for any new building.

Bolek reported to the city council May 3 that a post office at Oakton and Executive Way would cause $140,000 loss in property values to 60 nearby homeowners, according to an appraisal by Ben J. Eidamiller and Co., a real estate firm.

Maine West Graduation Set

Maine West High School's 12th annual commencement exercises will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium, 1756 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines.

School Dist. 207 board members will present diplomas to the 802 graduating seniors. Class valedictorian, salutatorians and scholarship award winners will also be honored.

Senior David Arnswald, Class of 1971 president, will deliver a welcome message and introduce class valedictorian Jonathan Baldo and salutatorians Mark Bergquist and Douglas Lauffenburger, who will give commencement addresses.

The graduating class will be presented by Supt. Richard Short and acceptance of the class will be made by William Wuehrmann, Dist. 207 board president. Board members Michael Bartos, Roy Makela, John Means and Wuehrmann will present diplomas to the seniors.

The Rev. Allen H. Fedder of the Immanuel Lutheran Church of Des Plaines will offer the invocation.

HONORED AS MAINE Scholars of the Class of 1971 will be Shari Barrett, David Carl, Mark Dombrowski, Kate Evans, Jill Fedder, Christine Kron and Christine Schwarz.

Departmental honors for graduating seniors are as follows: Art — Kenneth Hodorowski; business education — Patricia Nardella and Sue Wozniak; English — Marcel Sodian and Vicki Stirrat; home economics — Charlotte Ariano; industrial education — Wayne Hafenschner and Nancy Nehring; language — Margrit Hoepfner and Patti Rajski; mathematics — Douglas Lauffenburger; music — Douglas Kuite; physical education — Warren Bell and Karen Hodorowski; science — Jonathan Baldo and Shari Barrett; social science — William Knowles; speech arts — David Congalton and Cheri Wittbold.

Good Will Awards will be presented to Susan Ahrendt, David Arnswald, Bruce Beam, Susan Black, Sharon Busse, James Hanselman, Paulette Jados, Donna Kuykendall, Douglas Lauffenburger, Peter LeBlond, Donna Musselman, David Nelson, Jerome Palaz, Eugene Rydzinski, and Jill Whetham.

An honorary Good Will Award will go to Maria del Carmen de la Torre Alvarez, Maine West's foreign exchange student this year.

Following the addresses, Maine West Principal Herman Rider will present a wristwatch to Robert Cochrane, chairperson and a 25-year faculty veteran man of the school's industrial arts department.

"Fanfare," a composition by Jared Spears, a former Maine West instructor, will open the evening's program. Meyerbeer's "Coronation March" and Verdi's "Grand March" will be played as processional music by the Maine West Concert Band. Mendelssohn's "March of the Priests" and Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" will be the recessional.

HOLY FAMILY HOSPITAL employees Sharon Ann Syder, and Bill Baumgart, both of Des Plaines, put the finishing touches on a billboard advertising the hospital's 10th Anniversary Circus this weekend. Holy Family was opened on June 12, 1961 and the circus is being held to celebrate its first decade of operation. Proceeds from the professional circus, which will perform two shows each on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, will be used to finance an expanded intensive coronary care unit.

Nursing Program Graduation Set

The licensed practical nursing program, which conducts classes on the Oakton Community College campus, will hold commencement exercises on June 10, at 8 p.m. in the college's Student Center, Oakton Street at Nagle Road, Morton Grove.

Graduates who range in age from grandmothers to recent high school students will receive certificates and pins. An award will also be presented to the outstanding class scholar.

Kathleen Kwicinski of Skokie, class president, will give the welcoming address, and guest speakers will be Meyer Kamin, vice chairman of the Oakton Board of Trustees, and William A. Koehnline, college president. A social hour will follow the presentations.

Plans Unveiled For Homes For Elderly

Des Plaines has received architectural plans for a 128-unit senior citizen apartment building, which would fit on a Thacker Street site now used as a park.

The nine-story building, planned for the city by the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA) would fit on the Thacker site, across from Central School, 1526 Thacker, or another site of equal size, according to Mayor Herbert H. Behrel.

Both second ward aldermen, the Des Plaines Park District, the League of Women Voters and the Central School PTA have taken a stand against use of the Thacker site, because they feel the site should be closer to downtown, or because they feel the area needs recreational space.

Mayor Behrel has indicated that the park, now rented by the park district from Des Plaines School Dist. 62, would be an ideal site for a building constructed under a federal subsidy program, but he said he would not fight for the site if there is still opposition to it.

LWV Objects To Thacker Plans

The Des Plaines League of Women Voters has joined the opponents of a high-rise apartment building for senior citizens on a Thacker Street site now being used as a park.

While stressing support for senior citizen housing, the league's 25-member board has decided to oppose the site across from Central school, 1526 Thacker, because members feel the high-population area needs park space for recreation.

The league has sent letters of opposition to Robert Claus, board president of Des Plaines School Dist. 62, which owns the land, and to Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd), who heads the city council committee studying possible use of the site.

Both second ward aldermen, the Des Plaines Park District, which leases the land, and the Central School PTA have taken stands against the site, which has been seriously considered by the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), the project developer.

Mayor Herbert Behrel has indicated that the park would be an ideal close to downtown, site for a 128-unit building, which would be constructed under a federal program for subsidized low-rent housing.

ACCORDING TO MRS. Sally Gay, president of the 75-member league, decisions on further action will be made after a report on the site from the city council health and welfare committee. Further league action could include petitions to the CCHA or to the city.

"The green space is desperately needed. We are urging that the city use land that already has buildings on it," she said.

League members will discuss further park development of the Thacker site, including tennis courts, with the Des Plaines Park District, Mrs. Gay said.

The league took a stand earlier this year in favor of senior citizen, and low- and moderate income housing. The league called for creation of a local housing authority to develop the housing on scattered sites in the city.

HE SAID A REPORT from the Dist. 62 building committee would be presented this week to the city council health and welfare committee.

Behrel said he has not met yet with second ward aldermen Robert Sherwood and Kenneth Kehe to discuss the site.

Behrel also said he would talk tonight to Victor Walchirk, executive director of the CCHA, when Walchirk speaks in Des Plaines at an 8 p.m. meeting of the Interfaith Council at the First United Methodist church, Prairie and Graceland.

At his weekly press conference yesterday Behrel unveiled the plans for a senior citizen apartment building which would include 128 units, a sitting room and large first-floor recreation room.

The apartments would have three-and-one-half rooms each, with 16 apartments on each floor, except the first floor. The building would contain 70,584 square feet of space.

THE BUILDING WOULD be "L" shaped, with the base of the "L" facing east, and the longer portion of the building facing Thacker.

A patio would be placed behind the building and open grass land would surround the building, except for a large circular drive-way opening onto Thacker.

The eastern portion of the Thacker site would be used for parking.

The nine story building, designed by the Chicago architectural firm of Loewenberg and Loewenberg, might not exceed the 80-foot limit for R-5 zoning of the Thacker site, so it might not need a zoning variance, Mayor Behrel said.

GREG SPENCER, a 13-year-old Chicago boy was wounded last summer in a South Side gang fight. An innocent bystander, he was left paralyzed from the neck down. He needs a respirator to breathe and is learning to live a new life. For his story, turn to page 2 in today's Herald.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon assured housing industry leaders yesterday he would try to hold the line on interest rates and provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at rates people can afford.

An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 31 persons aboard burned after hitting overhead wires while making a landing attempt at mist-shrouded Tweed-New Haven Conn. airport. Searchers discovered 28 dead.

Municipal employees stalled city trucks and left draw bridges open to Manhattan yesterday causing massive traffic snarls leading in and out of New York City. The morning rush hour became a small's pace nightmare for thousands of cars. Baffled motorists were unable to back up because of the press of traffic and the pile-up of trucks, buses and autos caused a cacophony of blasting horns. City workers were protesting their pension agreements.

The World

Communist China may be building its first nuclear powered submarine, the Pentagon said. The new vessel, in early stages of construction, probably will be an attack submarine and experts say that it will probably not carry missiles.

The three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts crawled into the interior of the Soviet Union's satellite, establishing the first orbital space station.

The State

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley voiced opposition to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's $10 million bond proposal to aid the Chicago Transit Authority. Daley said only an outright grant from the state would be sufficient to avoid a CTA rate increase.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon proposed formation of a committee to guard against the possibility of state aid to non-public schools that will lead to racial and economic segregation.

The War

US Marines, the first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war. American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below the 200,000 level for the first time in five years. Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain in Vietnam, most of them in advisory groups.

South Vietnamese infantry and marines supported by US air power battled for the third straight day with North Vietnamese troops in jungle country below the Demilitarized Zone.

Are you one of those lucky enough to remember the Des Plaines river as a scene of recreation? Did you dive in and swim around or fish in the river when you were a kid?

Wayne Quilico of the Cook County Clean Streams Committee, Mary Wright of the Des Plaines Historical Society and I are very interested in hearing about your experiences and recollections of the Des Plaines river.

As part of an effort to clean up the river and restore it to the recreational facility it once was, we are asking you to take the time out to put your memories in print.

Write your recollections down and send them to me at the Des Plaines Herald, 1419 Ellinwood, Des Plaines, 60016 or call me at 297-6633.

THE REPAIR WARRANTY read "Removed two squeaks from right rear quarter-panel" but that's only part of the story.

The James E. Marlin family, 85 Thacker St., brought their 1969 Dodge to Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth, and asked for some unusual help. Their cat had mislaid two of her kittens and they were somewhere in the car.

Marvin Meister, a mechanic for the Northwest Highway car dealer, guided by the meows of the kittens, removed upholstery and took the back seat from the car. And there they were — two little lost kittens inside the right rear fender.

Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth did the job for nothing explaining that squeaks are taken care of in the warranty.

"OLIVER TWIST" was staged this weekend at Mill Run Playhouse in Golf Mill Shopping Center. Each week the theater puts on plays for children. My kids had been there twice before but this was my first time.

I was both disappointed and impressed. Disappointed with the small turnout of parents and kids and impressed with the excellence of the play and the cast.

"Rumplestiltskin" will be shown next weekend. Performances begin at 1 p.m. and tickets are $1.50. It is a good introduction for children to the theater and a possible idea for the next birthday party you throw or the next girl scout outing you're in charge of.

BILLY GRAHAM isn't the only one in the area with a message. A new electric sign has been placed on top of Des Plaines National Bank Building and it's been flashing all sorts of messages to passersby.

Time, temperature and helpful tidbits about saving and thinking ahead make up most of the flashings.

We put our minds together at the office and came up with a few suggestions for the flashing box:

(flash) It's later than you think (flash) If you're not thinking of late.

(flash) Treat your mother better.

(flash) Look around you.
(flash) Clean up litter.

(flash) Smile at the next person you see (flash) and hope you don't get arrested.

(flash) Read the Des Plaines Herald (that was from the city editor).
(flash) Advertise in the Herald (that was from an advertising man).

(flash) try panic.

(flash) Plant a tree.

(flash) Check your motor (flash) check your car
(flash) Slow down soon
(flash) at the neighborhood bar.

(flash) When all is said and done
(flash) my mind will still be confused.

(flash) "Repent" (just in case Mr. Graham forgets to say it.)

Communication Hampers Efforts To Divert Water

by ROGER CAPELLINI

An apparent communications problem may be hampering the efforts of Northwest suburban communities to divert water from Lake Michigan.

Despite estimates that the useful life of local wells is about 10 years, the Des Plaines-Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) water commission and the Illinois Division of Waterways are waiting for the other to make the next move.

The four-town commission has asked the state for an allocation to permit the towns to divert 25.9 cubic feet per second of water from the lake.

DAMP, which plans to build water intake, transmission and filtration facilities, has been told by the state that it will get a share of the 3,200 cubic feet per second from the lake set aside for Illinois by a 1967 U.S. Supreme Court decision.

LAST SPRING, John C. Guillon, chief engineer for the state agency, told DAMP it would get its fair share when the allocations were made in the fall. The official allocations were not posted, however, and according to DAMP commissioners, were delayed by Guillon until this spring.

DAMP officials say the commission cannot proceed with plans to build the pipeline to bring the water to the suburbs until the state makes a move.

DAMP chairman Robert F. Teepe of Mount Prospect, said yesterday that the commission cannot begin to sell bonds or start construction until it gets the allocation. "We need more than a verbal assurance," he said.

Contacted yesterday in Springfield, Guillon said the state cannot make the allocation until the commission reaches a firm decision on its water needs. "They don't know the precise amount they need," he said. "We are reluctant to make an allocation and then have them not use it for a couple of years. Once it's allocated, no one else can use the water," he explained.

"We're ready to make the allocation whenever they wish to have it," Guillon added. "Once they really have to have an allocation, they can have it. There's no holdup here at all," he said.

Teepe said, "There seems to be a difference of opinion in his office. They said they would be posting the preliminary allocations in the spring, and now some of his people say it may be two years before any allocations are made."

The DAMP chairman continued, "Some of his people have said recently that they don't even know how much water they have to allocate."

Teepe said he cannot understand any question arising over the need of the commission. "Our report to the state lays out the requirements of DAMP over a period of years."

He said the possibility of DAMP joining with the Elmhurst-Villa Park-Lombard (Tree Towns) water commission to bring the water to the respective areas should not have an effect on the posting of the allocations, because the total amounts needed by both commissions will remain the same.

COMMENTING ON another possible concern of the state, Teepe said no other villages or cities would be brought into the water system until after the allocations are made. "Then we could either sell water to additional towns or we could dissolve DAMP and form a broader commission."

As the inaction continues, the time factor becomes more important. Teepe estimated that it will take at least three years to complete construction of the system once the state makes its official allocations. "At the same time," he said, "we have to keep drilling wells in order to maintain a water supply."

Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine now obtain their water supplies solely from municipal wells. Well life in the three suburbs has been estimated to anywhere from 11 to 15 years, if water usage continues to grow.

Des Plaines, which now buys about two thirds of its water from the City of Chicago, has indicated that it wants to remain part of DAMP and be included in its feasibility studies. Des Plaines' contract with Chicago expires in 1974.

CREWS FROM THE Chicago and North Western Rwy. are expected to begin work on several grade crossings of the C & NW outerbelt line in Des Plaines later this month, according to City Public Works Commissioner Joseph Schwab. Some of the crossings, including the outerbelt tracks at Algonquin Road are badly in need of repair, Schwab said. Cook County officials have also agreed to extend some sidewalks, such as this one at Wolf Road and outerbelt, and align them to make for easier pedestrian crossings at the railroad intersections.

Mount Prospect Man Arrested For Pot

A 20-year-old Mount Prospect man was arrested by Des Plaines police Friday night and charged with possession of marijuana.

Police said William A. Hallberg, of 621 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect was also charged with improper registration of the car he was driving.

Hallberg reportedly was driving a 1960 Cadillac with license plates which were registered to a 1963 Dodge. Police said that when Hallberg was taken to the police station they found a bag containing what they believe to be marijuana in his pocket.

Hallberg is scheduled to appear in Des Plaines court July 9.

$1,193 Spent For Bus Contracts

It cost High School Dist. 214 a total of $1,193 in attorneys fees and court costs earlier this year to award bus contracts.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, reported last week the money covered fees and costs to determine which bus companies should be awarded three-year contracts for busing students.

Awarding contracts for Forest View, Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows High Schools was tied up earlier this spring when technical questions were raised about the bonds put up by Cook County Bus Lines and a 5 per cent cost reduction offered by Davidmeyer Bus Lines if Dist. 214 could cooperate on busing with Elementary Dist. 59.

Board members finally decided to ask for a declaratory judgment in the Cook County Circuit Court to decide which company was the lower bidder on bus services for the southern part of the district.

The board awarded Ritzenthaler Bus Lines a $1.14 million contract for the northern part of the district.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan ruled in favor of Cook County Bus Lines in March as the low bidder for bus service to the southern part of the district.

Mrs. Betty Hemauer

Contests Are Her Hobby

by GENIE CAMPBELL

When it comes to entering contests, Mrs. Alfred Hemauer of Palatine knows what she's doing. Her systematized method makes luck look like a big joke.

Since winning a two-week trip to Europe last July from Kraft Foods, an event which fully initiated her home career, Betty Hemauer estimates that she has won one out of every two contests she has entered.

Sometimes the prizes are nothing more than a record album, baseball mitt, clock radio or stuffed animal. But with eight kids in the family ranging in age from 1 to 19 the prizes always have at least one taker.

And then there are the big prizes the whole family can share, like the color television set Mrs. Hemauer recently won and the combined stereo-phonograph-radio console she is waiting to have delivered.

"FOR A WHILE my kids used to come home from school and say, 'Gee Mom, what did you win today?'"

Mrs. Hemauer is always on the lookout for a new contest to enter. It has become a hobby. She cuts entry blanks from magazines and picks up others while shopping at the grocery stores.

Cigarette companies are now a great source, she maintains. Many, since not being able to advertise on television, offer contests instead, as inducements to use their products.

While most people only send in one or two entries, Mrs. Hemauer may submit anywhere from 100 to 200 depending upon how large the stakes are.

For most of the contests in which she has to send only her name and address, the Palatine housewife mails at least one entry a day per contest with a dozen or so mailed the final two days prior to each deadline.

"I ALWAYS MAIL my entries in big envelopes and address them in bright red ink," she said in revealing a couple secrets of her success. "I don't know why, but I feel that helps."

"People always think they have to buy the products to be eligible to enter a contest," she continued, "but for most of them you don't. It is only necessary to write the name of the product on a blank sheet of paper and mail it in with your name and address."

However, Mrs. Hemauer admits that repeatedly writing one brand name has a psychological effect and she usually buys these items with which she is currently engaged in contests.

RECENTLY MRS. Hemauer won a year's supply of milk from a Palestine 7-Eleven Food Store which celebrated its grand opening. That, she admits, was pure luck. She only entered once.

But for the most part, where national contests are concerned and thousands of entries mailed, Mrs. Hemauer feels that there is not that much luck involved.

Presently she is waiting to hear from six companies whose contests just ended.

She has 275 entries tied up in a Salem contest with a cash top prize of $25,000.

If she wins first place in the one sponsored by Peter Pan, she will receive a 1971 Granlin for herself and bicycles for every member of her family.

FOR THE CONTEST offered by Kent, whose deadline just passed, Mrs. Hemauer paged through a dictionary to find all the words that could be made from the four words, "Kent Micronite Filter Cigarettes." She ended up with 8,148.

"That was too much work," she said, "and I probably wouldn't do it again." If she wins, Mrs. Hemauer will receive a free trip to London and $500.

She had to guess how many Dial products would fit into one station wagon for the "Win a Dodge Full of Dial" Contest. To cover herself, Mrs. Hemauer mailed in a wide range of possible answers.

Entering so many contests so many times adds up to a lot of stamps.

"THE PRICE IS worth it," she said although the recent two-cent increase may have some bearing on the number of entries.

With people like Mrs. Hemauer in the contest league, there is little room left for the casual entry.

When asked if she was aware of the Land O' Lakes contest offering a free trip to Hawaii, Mrs. Hemauer immediately answered, "Oh, yes. I already have 100 entries in that one."

ANOTHER BATCH OF ENTRIES goes into the mail. Mrs. Alfred Hemauer of Palatine considers entering all kinds of contests her hobby. She won a trip to Europe last summer.

Tots Are Charmers At Fink-Scheibel Wedding

Three little girls in their fanciest dresses brought forth smiles of delight from guests attending the wedding of Laurie Fink and Steve Scheibel on May 8.

Madonna and Michele Bychowski, ages 5 and 3, nieces of the bride, passed out rice favors. But stealing the show was their 2-year-old sister, Melissa, the bride's godchild, who served as flower girl. Her full-length dress was of navy chiffon crepe with white organza top.

Holding up the male side of the small fry contingent were Dan and Don Scheibel, 4-year-old twin brothers of the groom, who carried out their duties as ringbearers.

Laurie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Fink, 375 S. Lynn Court, Des Plaines, and Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Scheibel of Grafton, Wis., were married in a 10 a.m. nuptial mass which the couple wrote themselves, with the help of the priest. The double ring ceremony at St. Raymond Catholic Church, Mount Prospect, was celebrated by Father Joe Sander at an altar adorned with white mums and glads.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza Empire style gown with full bishop sleeves and Venice lace trim, its wattleau chapel train also trimmed in Venice lace. A three-tier silk illusion elbow-length veil fell from her Camelot cap. She carried a cascade of phalaenopsis, orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her sister, Charlene, served as maid of honor, attired in a paisley print pant dress in navy, red and white, with solid navy top. A big white picture hat with navy band completed the outfit. She carried a white basket of snapdragons, daisy mums, miniature carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

Dressed identically to Charlene were the bridesmaids, Candie Lauters of Platteville, Wis.; Susan Stuckel and Phyllis Weiler, both of Mount Prospect, and Darlene Denten of Arlington Heights.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Francie Weigle, organist, and Michaela Gillogie, soloist.

John Scheibel, the groom's brother, served as best man. Groomsman were Wes Scheibel, another brother of the groom; John W. Fink, a brother of the bride, Charlie Lauter of Platteville, Wis., and Dave Barker of La Crosse, Wis.

USHERS WERE Tom Bychowski, the bride's brother-in-law, and the groom's brother, Jeff Scheibel. Another brother, Chris Scheibel, was an altar boy. Jim Lattwin and Michael Greene served as readers during the mass.

A reception for 140 guests was held at Schneider's Pavilion, Chicago. Dressed in pink crepe with sheer pink sleeves, the bride's mother greeted guests. Her ensemble was complemented by a cymidium corsage with touches of pink. The mother of the groom wore a sleeveless, accordion-pleated beige dress, her cymidium corsage touched with green.

The newlyweds, who met each other at Wisconsin State University in Whitewater, are now living in Appleton, Wis. They are planning a belated honeymoon in fall, a one-week trip to Hawaii. Laurie is a 1969 graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School. After attending Wisconsin State, she worked at Illinois Bell Telephone business office in Morton Grove. After Steve attended Wisconsin State, he worked at the Paul J. Grunau Co. in Milwaukee.

SERGIO FRANCHI will be appearing in concert at Mill Run Theater in Niles Tuesday through Sunday, June 13.

BOB Cast Ready For 'Take Me'

The Best Off Broadway Players are rounding the last bend of rehearsals for the final production of their 10th season, "Take Me Along," the musical opens Friday, June 18, at Wheeling High School 8:30 p.m.

Bob Hawley and Bob Esvang, both of Arlington Heights, will play Nat Miller and Sid Davis. On Broadway the two characters were enacted by Walter Pidgeon and Jackie Gleason.

The romantic young leads are Janet Auer as Muriel and Don Potter as Richard. Howard Blonder will appear as Wint, Jennifer Jennings as Mildred and Matt Hertz as Tommy.

Other cast members include Steve Gurd as Mr. Macomber, Fran Pichford as Belle and George Wajda as Art.

Members of the singing and dancing chorus include Linda Menace, Gayle Chesney, Karen Bordenkircher, Roberta Hamersley, Diane and Rhonda Sherer, Chris and Jim Sprinkle and Mike Hertz.

Also, Dave Dove, Sue Schwab, Karen Bailey, Vicki Vallencourt, Scott Martin, Liana Ralleback, Chuck Lubeck, Chuck Lubeck Jr., Darrell Rowader and Burt Kuhr.

Additional members of the chorus are Margaret Downham, Marie Peterson, Marylou Casteel, Venus Miller, Bob Burger, Pete Piper, Jim Groat and Lisa Shineflug.

"Take Me Along" is being directed by BOB Players' resident director, Richard Tyler. Musical direction is being handled by Bill Cotsakis and the choreography by Nana Shineflug.

Based on Eugene O'Neill's classic, "Ah, Wilderness," the musical is suitable for the entire family.

Group rates are available for theater parties. Information, 233-4441 after 5 p.m. Additional performances will be presented June 19, 25 and 26.

Dear Dorothy: I love cole slaw but can't get my husband to even taste it. He's a nut on nutrition but when I point out it's a fine source of vitamin C, he says he'll get his vitamin C from other foods. Hate to just make it for myself. Anything I can add to it to get him interested? — Ann C.

Once a man makes up his mind . . . anyway, why not try giving it to him in some other dish? Once cooked, he may come around. Try a cabbage molded salad. Pour 1 cup hot water over 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add ¼ cup more water, 1 tablespoon horseradish and 1 tablespoon vinegar with a dash of hot pepper sauce. Chill until thickened and stir in 3 cups chopped cabbage, 1 diced green pepper, and any other vegetables you both like. Pour into a salad mold and chill until set. Unmold and serve with any favorite salad dressing.

Dear Dorothy: I'm suddenly concerned about the flea powder I'm using on our dogs. As our pets are part of the family and are in close contact with our children, my worry is whether there might be any DDT or derivative of DDT in the chemicals contained in the flea powder — carbaryl, captan, methylenebis, chlorophenol and dichlorophene. — Mrs. R. A. Schroeder

Stop worrying. DDT or any derivative would have to be listed in the contents. The chemicals you mention have no connection with DDT.

Dear Dorothy: Here's an idea for tired African violets or any other house plants: Once a month I water all my plants with a teaspoon of Epsom salts in a quart of warm water. Not only is this an inexpensive procedure, but you will be amazed at how beautiful all my plants look. — Ruth McDonald

Luncheon For Clipped Wings

The new president and vice president of O'Hare Chapter of Clipped Wings, United Air Lines Stewardess Alumnae, will be honored at a luncheon Thursday, June 10, at the Branded Steak House in Crystal Lake. Mrs. Charles Spaniel will be installed as president; Mrs. Jack O'Connor as vice president. Both are Palatine residents.

Serving with them will be Mrs. Curt Schafer of Dundee, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Ahmer, Arlington Heights, recording secretary; and Mrs. John Cabot, Hoffman Estates, corresponding secretary. The retiring president of the on-stewardess group, Mrs. Thomas Morgan of Arlington Heights, has been elected to the board of directors of Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Barrington. The center is the chapter's main philanthropy.

Former United Air Lines or Capitol Airlines stewardesses are welcome to join the local chapter of Clipped Wings. Mrs. Spaniel may be called at 383-1303 for details.

Wilhelm Retire? Someday, Maybe...

by IRA BERKOW
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Hoyt Wilhelm, with little enthusiasm, said that it's like being on vacation. It was almost June and Wilhelm was still home in Columbus, Ga., while the Atlanta Braves were on the road in New York, in Montreal, in St. Louis

"What do you do to occupy your days?" he was asked by telephone. "What does anybody do?" he replied, sharply. "I don't know." "Go fishing." "What have you been catching?" "Not much."

Hoyt Wilhelm, who will be 48 years old in July, also ran some every day to keep his legs and wind in shape. He threw a baseball almost every day, too. He threw to some local high school kids, and he threw to his 13-year-old son, Jimmy. He threw just straight stuff, he said, and not his famed knuckleball, which even major leaguers have trouble catching. "A rookie with the White Sox several years ago disdained a mask when warming up Wilhelm and received a black eye on the first pitch."

Wilhelm, placed on the disabled list by the Braves before the 1971 season started, threw his knuckleball only in batting practice when the Braves were home.

"I'm all right as far as I'm concerned," he said. "I'm throwin' just about as good as ever."

He had been suffering from "a little shoulder stiffness." It wasn't really a sore arm, he said, because he's never had a sore arm in all of the 26 years he has been pitching (19 of those years have been with eight major league teams).

"My shoulder usually gets stiff that way and needs workin' out in the spring of the year," he said.

Wilhelm says he is ready to return to the Braves as a relief pitcher. Manager Luman Harris also said that Wilhelm is ready to pitch. "But we don't have room for him on the roster right now," said Harris.

This is difficult for Wilhelm to swallow. He led the Braves' staff last season in earned run average, with 3.12. (He bridges at talk concerning the number of times he has been traded. "I led just about every team in ERA the season they traded me," he said.) Wilhelm believes his skills have not diminished.

Braves' bullpen coach Ken Silvestri, among others, agrees. "His knuckleball is still knucklin'," Silvestri said.

Wilhelm is the oldest man to play big-league baseball regularly. He holds the record for most games pitched (1,042 before this season), and assorted relief pitching records: most games (990), most victories (124), most saves (223) and most innings pitched (1,825).

Yet the man who won a purple heart in the Battle of the Bulge has a relatively unlined face, though his still-dark hair is thinning above the forehead. "It's how old you feel, how old you act that's important," he said. "Not how old are you."

Bob Didier, the Braves' catcher, who was born seven years after Wilhelm began his career with Mooresville of the Class D North Carolina State League in 1942, went hunting with Wilhelm last winter in southern Georgia.

"We walked for miles and miles," recalls Didier. "I kept saying to myself, 'I can't let this old man outwalk me.'"

Didier says he is in awe of Wilhelm the pitcher, too. "It's catching a legend," he said.

Wilhelm admits, though it seems he hardly believes, that the day will come when he no longer can throw a knuckleball for a living. His Southern, nasal twang becomes crusty at the mention of post-playing days. "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," he said.

It was mentioned to him that Eddie Mathews, now a Braves' coach, had returned to baseball after a two-year retirement and said that he, like other ballplayers, was unprepared to meet life "on the outside."

"That's Mathews sayin' that 'Not me,'" said Wilhelm. "I won't have problems." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Perkins Homer Sinks Wheeling

Collegian Jim Perkins celebrated his return to the Mount Prospect Legion baseball lineup Sunday with a game-winning solo homer in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Perkins' shot to left-center broke a 5-5 standoff between visiting Wheeling and host Prospect in the opener of the Ninth District schedule for both clubs.

Mount Prospect hurler Ryan Maly picked up the 6-5 distance triumph by limiting Wheeling to seven hits, walking four and fanning nine.

The visitors threatened to blow the game open in the very first frame as Tony Fricano, Dean Sheridan, Glenn Jarzembowski and Keith McGowan all rapped singles during a three-run outburst.

The victors, however, countered with a four-run assault in the bottom of the third to grab the lead. Bob Kasper, Dave Harbach and Gus Esposito all contributed hits for the first run while Dennis Tite and Maly each followed with RBI singles of their own. Kent Koentopp pushed the go-ahead tally across with a sacrifice fly.

Prospect added another in the fourth as Mike Tolzien walked, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and across on Harbach's sacrifice drive.

A defensive lapse by the hosts in the fifth enabled Wheeling to draw even at 5-5. The tying rally began when Ken Morales and Fricano each reached on a boot. Maly uncorked a wild pitch allowing Fricano to score while the third misplay of the inning brought Morales around.

A couple of game-saving catches in centerfield by Tite kept Prospect in the game and set the stage for Perkins' decisive blast.

Terry Moriarty went the route for Wheeling, but was tagged with the loss despite only walking a pair and fanning five.

No Legion Entry For Des Plaines

by LARRY MLYNCZAK
Des Plaines will not have an American Legion baseball entry in District Nine this summer.

According to District Nine commissioner Gene Sackett, an odd turn of events prevented Des Plaines from fielding a team this season.

"The problem started with a personality conflict," Sackett said. "Des Plaines had a coach for this year but Forest View High School (the home field of the Des Plaines Legion for the past few years) would not allow the club to use that field with the coach they had running the team."

"We also discovered that a number of dates on Forest View's field were filled by summer league baseball games."

The Des Plaines Legion then asked for dates on Maine West High's field but because of a 100-game Mid-Teen League schedule at Maine West, the Legion team was unable to get the field for use.

With Maine West unavailable and with Forest View unavailable because of the personality conflict, the Des Plaines Legion attempted to find a new coach that would be permitted to field a team on the Forest View diamond.

The Des Plaines American Legion contacted 10 men for the coaching job but all of them turned down the offer. Because of a lack of coach, Des Plaines could not even field a "traveling" team, a team which would play all of its games away on opponents' fields.

The boys who would have played for Des Plaines this season have been split up to the teams of Arlington Heights, Logan Square and Mount Prospect. "No boy will be deprived of playing if he can make a team," Sackett said. "Just because the Legion had problems, it should not prevent boys from playing baseball if they want to."

Sackett said that plans have already begun for a Des Plaines entry for the 1972 season, but it is too late for a team to be fielded this season.

Wille Earns Track Award

Wayne Wille, Des Plaines, received his second varsity track letter with the Augustana College Vikings at Augie's annual all sports banquet.

A sophomore physics major, Wille is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Wille, 55 W. Wille Rd., Des Plaines, and was graduated from Elk Grove High School.

Wille has also won two letters in cross country at Augustana and last year was selected as the most improved cross country runner. He is a distance man on the track team and placed fifth in the three-mile run at the Viking Olympics.

The Viking tracksters won championships in both the Norseman Relays and the Viking Olympics in 1971, while finishing second in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin meet.

Northern Awards To Area Products

Four area products have won varsity athletic awards at Northern Illinois this spring.

Terry Hammer and Gerald Krainik, formerly of Maine West, received track letters and Gary Wagner, formerly of Maine East, and Mike Barr, formerly of Maine West, received letters in baseball.

Hammer lettered for his third consecutive year and in this past spring he was Northern Illinois' best 440-yard intermediate hurdles performer with a best of 55.3. Krainik received his first letter while running Northern Illinois' best 440-yard dash with 48.3.

Krainik was a member of Northern's sprint medley relay team which set a school record of 3:31.7.

Wagner was a front line pitcher on Northern's staff and Barr was a team manager. It was Wagner's first letter and Barr's second.

Maine East Plans Summer Basketball For Jr. High Boys

Maine East has announced a summer recreational basketball class for junior high school students.

A class for students who will be in the sixth, seventh, or eighth grade next fall will be held at the Maine East fieldhouse and outdoor courts beginning Tuesday, June 15, and running through Friday, July 2. The program will run from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. four days a week for a three week period.

Fundamentals will be stressed with games and scrimmages being provided after the first week. A swim in the Maine East pool will cap off each session.

Boys who will be in the ninth grade next fall are invited to an identical three week class running from Tuesday, July 6 through Friday, July 23. The classes will be run by Paul McClelland, head basketball coach, and other members of the Maine East basketball staff.

The cost for all boys is $21.00. This will help defray the cost of the program and provide medical insurance for all participants. Applications can be obtained by writing Mr. Paul McClelland, Maine East High School East, Dempster and Potter Rd., Park Ridge, Illinois, 60068 or by dropping by the athletic department office at the Park Ridge school. Any boy who fits the age requirements is welcome regardless of the school he is presently attending or will attend in the fall.

Safe Boating Quiz

Q. Should a skipper keep on the inside or outside of a turn when navigating a sharp bend on an unfamiliar river?

A. He'll probably be better off to keep on the outside of the turn, according to boat safety experts. Under ordinary circumstances, slower moving water on the inside of a bend often allows mud banks and sand bars to build up. In contrast, swifter flowing water on the outside of the bend usually helps deepen the channel.

Logan Square, upon entering the opening game of the Ninth District Legion Baseball schedule, with a perfect 2-0 non-league record, was pushed to the hilt by host Coral Sea before sliding by, 8-7.

Coral Sea, the circuit's newest entry, battered Lion southpaw Ken Martin for six runs while building a 7-4 advantage, but Logan Square sophomore Tom Chapman laid down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt in the top of the seventh to provide the margin of victory.

The season-opening slugfest was highlighted by a pair of Lion homers — a two-run shot by Steve Smith in the third and another by Mike Pettenuzzo with a man on in the sixth.

Terry Smith, with two and two thirds innings of one-run relief, was credited with the triumph after Logan Square staged their thrilling rally in the final frame.

The victors raced off to a short-lived 1-0 lead in the first inning when Martin led off with a walk, moved to second on Mike Garbus' sacrifice, advanced to third on an infield out and crossed on Steve Smith's infield hit. Coral Sea retaliated in their half of the first when two errors and three hits opened the doors for a two-run splurge. The hosts added another in the second on a two-out triple and a single to left.

The Lions crept ahead in the third, 4-3, on a Martin triple, Garbus' first of two hits, a fielder's choice and Steve Smith's tremendous drive to left that wiped the bases clean.

Martin was hammered for two singles and a double in the Coral Sea fifth before being replaced by Terry Smith who was greeted with a triple.

The Lions gained a 7-7 deadlock in the sixth on Pete Cavallaro's second double of the contest, a fielder's choice on which Cavallaro scored and Pettenuzzo's round-tripper to left.

With the stage now set, Chapman dumped his pressure-packed bunt allowing Joe Bombicino to tally from third in the top of the seventh.

Smith pitched out of a jam in Coral Sea's final trip by getting the final out when a runner overslid third.
